

CROCKETT'S LATEST!!

Mr. S. R. Crockett has written a new novel which the Copp, Clark Co. publish. It is entitled after the hero—a fine mountain-bred young Spartan. "Ye are a bonny lad," said Charlotte Webster, as she looked at him—and indeed no one could help thinking so.

"STRONG MAC"

"STRONG MAC"

is a tale of Galloway—and, as everyone knows, Mr. Crockett is at home there. In this book the author has gone back to his early style. He has been very successful.

"STRONG MAC"

loves a lassie of the aboriginal Pictish race, a tall, slender girl, dusky of face as a gypsy, with dark flashing eyes and hair flying over her back.

"STRONG MAC"

is a tale that will live. It is full of life—teeming with character and incident.

The Illustrations by Maurice Greiffenhagen are Numerous and Striking.
