

October 2nd, 1923.

Hon. Mr. Justice Martin,
Judges' Chambers,
Montreal.

My dear Chief Justice Martin:-

During a conversation I had with Mr. A. J. Brown last Friday he told me that you had outlined to him some views you held with reference to our LL.B. course. He also intimated that you had written to me along the same lines and that you were surprised at not having received any acknowledgment of your letter.

I told Mr. Brown that I had not received your letter and I would like to give you the same assurance. We have searched our official records faithfully and there is no trace of such a letter from you. I would appreciate very much if you would accept this explanation of our seeming indifference and will you please be good enough to send me a copy of the letter.

You may have heard that at the meeting the Faculty held last Thursday afternoon some steps were taken to consider the LL.B. course with a view to making it more effective and possibly giving it a new purpose.

With all good wishes, I am,

Yours faithfully,
