Homes is Scheme Lieut.-Col. Marlow Works On.

Soldiers who return from the front on convalescent leave, and needing medical care, are to be properly looked after under the new scheme now being arranged by Lieut.-Col. F. W. Marlow, A.D.M.S.

Mariow, A.D.M.S.

He is organizing a complete system of convalescent homes for soldiers. At present, Toronto only has one, the gift of Mrs. J. W. Beatty, at Stop 26. Yonge street. Other homes were offered, but Mrs. Beatty's was opened first because it was "near the care out in the fresh it was "near the cars, out in the fresh air and also suited for a winter resi-

"Under the new system," said Col.
Marlow, "we will want a central home to be called the 'Clearing Military Convalescent Home.' It will have to be central—not necessarily downtown, but easily accessible to soldiers arriving at the station.

"In this clearing home will be the offices of about 25 to 50 beds. I can say, personally, that a number of the leading physicians have offered their services for this work. When the soldier is put on the convelence of list of the convelence of the co dier is put on the convalescent list at Quebec, we are notified. If there is not St. John, N.S. Landiton, Ont. Change Has Come.

Coming to the feminine position Mrs. McClung said that women were protected in old days, but with the comfrom the home and women had to follow the work. It is sometimes said even now that women's place is the home, but how can any true mother. whose daughter has to go out, re-main working at antimacassars to throw over the backs of chairs, in-PROCEEDS OF FESTIVAL

Mrs. McClung thought it very complimentary that men did not want women to change, or to have the vote, "to have the bloom rubbed of the peach." "Well," she continued, "the chairman has told you that I have four and one daughter, and if I had to give my sons any advice matrimonially I should tell them to marry a business girl. Business teaches the girl yunctuality, to pay her debts and have regard for the truth. But if you want the selfish, peevish specimen, commend me to the girl who has just to press the button and order anything she likes Co.O.D., which really means call on dad," said Mrs. McClung, while her hearers were seized with one of the convulsions of laughter of her address.
