343 lies at our hands, and yet to which, for want of help, we cannot give ourselves. These are the things that are our burden and anxiety, as, I suppose, they are the burden of every right-minded man, whether he be a missionary abroad, or called to work at home in crowded places like Liverpool. I now thank you for listening to me so petiently. (Applause.)

di

h

u

ŧ

э,

8 st t 10 0 n 0 5, le r, ;e 3, h 11 u r-1 y 9 y ٢, it e. 9 8 1i-of is of n of . ic . 9 1. 0 11