ADDRESS THE AUXILIARY.

Mrs. VanKoughnet and Col. Burton Speak to Women.

Mrs. VanKoughnet addressed the women's auxiliary of the 216th Battalion yesterday afternoon, and urged them to work for the Union government, saying that it was the great patriotic work of the hour.

Col. Burton addressed the meeting, giving an explanation of the breaking up of the battalion in England. He said he expected to soon be in uniform again, when conscription is in force. He was told when in England by a British officer that there were about four thousand officers in England waiting for positions.

A most successful bazaar and sale of work was held in the school room of Crawford Street Methodist Church yesterday afternoon and evening. A pretty tea-room, in charge of Mrs. Hobson, did a thriving business. The rose tub was a pretty and surprising place to purchase a rose and was run by two pretty girls—Bdna Christian and Helen MacNeill. The fancy work booth, in charge of Mrs. Hutchinson, was very successful. The Sunday school orchestra furnished splendid music. Here is a method for removing hair or fuzz that is unfailing and is quite inexpensive: Mix a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water and spread on hairy surface. After two or three minutes rub it off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. No harm or inconvenience results from this treatment, but be careful to get genuine delatone.

The auxiliary of the 216th Battalion (Bantams) gave a little informal party for the wives of the officers and men yesterday afternoon at the Women's Conservative-Unionist rooms. The musical program was under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Bennett, who sang very charmingly herself. Colonel Burton gave an address. Mrs. C. B. Williams conducted a raffle for a lamp and there was a sale of home-made cakes, etc. Mrs. Burton is president of the auxiliary, but as she was unable to be present all the afternoon Mrs. Lewis was made acting president for the time being. Colonel Burton's talk was very interesting and much enjoyed by those present.

Lord Hugh Cecil Describes It as Most Rigid Ever Accomplished.

London. Nov 27. — Lord Robert Cecil. minister of blockade, speaking at Norwich, said that as far as Germany was concerned the spirit that existed in that country was that no law of morality or religion could prevent them from committing any crime, however hideous, provided it was thought to be in the interests of Germany.

Some people believed the German people had a desire for peace. One test was whether they were willing to restore and indemnify Belgium for the outrages inflicted on that country. The Germans had been challenged to answer as a test of their peace sincerity, but no reply had been received from the German Government.

No one, therefore, could doubt that the spirit of the German Government today was precisely what it was when they rushed Europe into war. Unless that spirit were changed we would be criminals if we thought any lasting peace could be made with a power of that kind. The first of our war aims is and must be victory.

Referring to the operations in France, Lord Cecil said that, during the last two years, there had never been a battle between British and German troops in which the Germans had not been forced to give ground. Wherever we look we may, at any occupy one square inch of British territory.

"Regarding the blockade, I know it has its critics, but I venture to say with a sense of responsibility that there has been no achievement in the whole world's history equalling

Doctor Testifies That Men May Shiver From Sheer Nervousness at Any Time of Year.

The third sitting of the jury before Chief Coroner Artnur Jukes Johnson, into the death of William James Alian Bartlett, who is alleged to have contracted a cold and later died of pneumonia as the result of detention in a room at the armories for two hours awaiting medical examination for mintary, service in October, was held last night at inorgue, many witnesses being called to give evidence. The crown was represented by County Crown Attorney Thurston.

Mr. Thurston strongly criticized the action of the military authorities in crowding fifty or sixty men, who were awaiting medical examination, in one room, especially when some of the men were suffering from skin diseases. One doctor, when questioned by March.

especially when some of the men were suffering from skin diseases. One doctor, when questioned by Mr. Thurston as to whether he saw any men shivering while awaiting their turn to be examined, stated that he did, and said that men shiver at all times, in both summer and winter, thru sheer nervousness, so that could not thru sheer nervousness, so that could not be taken as a guide. Further evidence was given by a doctor.

rurther evidence was given by a doctor, who was present at the post-mortem examination of the body of Bartlett, and who had previously examined men to life insurance, in which he stated, in answer to a question by the crown, that he would have never at any time recommended Bartlett as a risk to any insurance company, as the man's condition would not warrant the risk.

The crown attorney then called Capt.
