KING CHRISTIAN BECOMES AN ACTOR FOR MOTION PICTURES

Denmark's Monarch Plays a Prominent Part in Cinematograph Drama While Cruising in Yacht. His Majesty Answers Appeal for Help Unconscious That it is a Play.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—King Christian of Denmark has played a striking part in a cinematograph drama off the coast of Jutland. The king was cruising with the queen and two sons on his yacht Rita when he heard cries of distress followed by shots. The king, who was on deck, gave orders for full speed ahead and directed the captain to steer for the spot from which the appeals for aid emanated.

Rounding a headland, the party on the royal yacht saw two boats filled with people in old-fashioned dress. A lively musketry fire was being kept up, and in the stern of one of the boats, a beautiful girl, who afterward proved to be a widely known Copenhagen actress, was weeping and wringing her hands.

The king made immediate preparations to go to the aid of "beauty in distress," and had already given orders for a boat to be lowered and was ready to leap into it to command a rescue crew, when a boat, unnoticed until now, was sighted and in the bow of it was a cinematograph.

The king was greatly amused at his mistake and ordered the yacht to stand by while he witnessed the making of the picture. In a few minutes the beautiful heroine, under the heavy musketry fire, leaped from her place in the boat into the waters and began a struggle to reach the shore.

But this was not all of the story. When the girl reached a point near the royal yacht she gave a cry of real exhaustion and was truly in distress. A second time an order was shouted from the lips of the monarch and a lifeboat was lowered and rushed to the assistance of the girl in the deep waters. The king directed the work of rescue from the yacht and did not leave the rail until the actress had been safely hauled into the lifeboat.

As the cinematograph operator continued to turn the handle of his machine, the king will have a prominent part in the picture.

THRILLS AT THE ACADEMY THEATRE

"Zigomar," the Most Sensational Criminal Story Ever Photographed.

One of the most sensational motion picture plays ever taken will be the feature at the Academy Theatre on Monday and Tuesday. So great a success has the "Zigomar" features become that it is not surprising that a new series should have been made. "The Black Scourge," which will be shown to Academy patrons this week is without doubt, the best of the series. It is full of the most thrilling incidents and shows the "Zs" in some of the most daring pieces of robbery possible. It also shows how they succeed, time after time, in robbing the great detective, Pauline Broquet, of the spoils of victory.

The story opens with an excuse for the return to life of the great bandit, after he had supposedly committed suicide. His female accomplice injects a draught into his sleeping form and he returns to do more of his daring work.

His first act is to silence the detective and offer him a huge sum of money not to continue to persecute him. This offer is refused and the war starts.

Zigomar learns that a certain circus proprietor has $200,000 in his house and in order to obtain possession of this he and La Rosario enter the circus profession. She happens to be an elephant trainer and the animal is so well trained that it will do almost anything she tells it. The elephant steals the safe and places it in the sewer where it is lost on account of its sinking in the mud and the two thieves have a narrow escape with their lives. Now starts a chase thru the streets, all dressed in their circus clothes, but Zigomar again comes out on top.

They next set out to rob a Swiss bank. Finding the detective is on their track they make up their minds to kill him. They make several attempts. One being to wreck the train in which he is traveling and another by dropping bombs from an aeroplane onto the motor boat.

The thieves are, however, successful in breaking into the vaults of the bank, not, however, without the knowledge of Broquet and the banker, and just as the vault door opens the cellar is flooded with water and they are only saved after a terrible struggle.

They are brought to justice and a life sentence is pronounced on this pair of the most daring criminals in motion pictures.

In order to give the many patrons of this theatre an opportunity of seeing this wonderful picture special matinees have been arranged for Monday and Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the usual prices. For the evening performances the prices will remain at 10 cents.

BIG ATTRACTION AT BROADVIEW

"Thanousser" Will Help to Make a Most Attractive Program.

An especially strong program has been secured by the management of the Broadview Theatre for this week. For the first part of the week "Thanousser," an especially interesting feature story in three parts, will occupy the chief position on the program. This story is one of intense interest. The acting is really perfect.

For the latter part of the week "The Ticket of Leave Man," will be the attraction.

This is an exceptionally interesting story dealing with criminal life and is one that is well worth going some distance to see.

The remainder of the program will be taken up with several really high-class photo-plays including comedies and drama, making the entertainment one of exceptional merit.

"TIGER LILY" AT IDEAL THEATRE

Interesting Story of Woman Jealousy This Week's Special Attraction.

The Ideal Theatre, East Toronto, has been fortunate in securing some exceptionally attractive features for this week. On Monday and Tuesday the leading play will be "Open Secret," a really attractive play, in two reels, while on Wednesday and Thursday, "The Tiger Lily" will be the attraction.

This is without doubt the most attractive and best acted play ever produced. It shows to what extent the jealousy of a woman will go.

It deals with a woman who runs away from her husband and child, with another man. She soon seduces this man and becomes the lover of a third.

The husband, who has become a cripple, takes the house situated next door to his wife, and the child, who has now grown up, falls in love with her mother's lover. The mother becomes terribly jealous of the girl, not knowing it to be her own child, and determines to kill the girl. With this intention she sets loose her tame tiger and the child is only saved after considerable trouble.

SOME SENSATION IN THIS DRAMA

The British and Colonial Company have just concluded taking the final scenes in a subject which for gross sensationalism would be very hard to surpass.

The films were recorded from a bal-

HAVE YOU EVER SEEN THIS FACE AT YOUR FAVORITE THEATRE?

Rosanna Logan, the sweet child actress, who has appeared in so many successful motion picture plays and who has proved herself to be one of the most popular actresses.

Rosanna's latest success was in "Of Such is the Kingdom," in which she teaches her father, who is a clergyman, a very important lesson.

Lord Sackville, the peer who has been much in the limelight in London recently, is to lend his beautiful southern residence, Knole Castle, to the Edison players for a short while. The picture for which this setting will be utilized is, I understand, a spy story entitled, "A Daughter of Rome."

This scene took over a month to complete and the services of three aviators—Messrs. Turner, Ewan, and Verrier—were required to play the parts of the men chasing the runaway balloon.

"UNSEEN HAND" AT RYAN'S THEATRE

Exceptionally Bright Program Has Been Secured For This Week.

Ryan's Theatre, Bloor street, at which continues to draw large houses at each performance.

The program supplied at this theatre has caused considerable enjoyment among its numerous patrons and friends and is thus doubtless the cause for the big crowds that gather nightly.

"The Fight at Grizzly Gulch" proved a big attraction. The story contained all the elements of a really successful Motion Picture play and was much appreciated.

For the following week "Unseen Hand" will occupy the place of honor. This play has been an exceptionally attractive feature wherever it has been shown. It is full of interest from beginning to end, while the story is told in a most convincing manner. The acting is perfect, featuring as it does some of the best known motion picture actors at present before the public.

This picture should prove a welcome addition to what is always a bright program.

HOME SWEET HOME AT KING GEORGE

Intensely Pathetic Play Will Head the Bill This Week.

"Home, Sweet Home," that play which has caused so much comment at every city in which it has been introduced, will be the leading attraction at the King George Theatre on Monday and Tuesday.

The story dealt with is claimed to be one of the most pathetic and interesting yet written. It is full of real heart-rending features.

It is not surprising that a number of houses, who have already shown this feature, are using every effort to have the play at their theatres for a second time. There are very few plays which have succeeded in meeting with such success, but this story has proved itself to be so popular that several managers have asked that they be permitted to get this picture a second time.

The remainder of the program will include several really high-class comedies and dramas.

Why Shouldn't Children Go Alone Ask Managers

Should the children be allowed to visit the moving picture theatres unaccompanied by "adults" is a question that has been causing much discussion among those interested in this source of amusement.

There are many ways of looking at this problem, and some managers are entirely in agreement with the government. The majority, however, are of opinion that the children are safer from harm inside the theatre than they are in playing on the streets.

"Another thing," says the manager of an east end theatre, "if a motion picture theatre is not a fit place for a child does the fact of an adult accompanying the boy or girl alter the atmosphere or nature of the pictures. The city goes to considerable expense every year in having every picture censored. If our censors do their duty properly, and no one disputes the fact that they do, the pictures must be suitable for a child to see whether accompanied or not."

Anyone visiting motion picture theatres will know that children will get into the theatres without their parents. Go outside any theatre and see the number of children standing outside asking strangers to take them in. Is this not worse than permitting them to go in alone?

Almost every other country allows the children to attend these houses, in fact the majority of English houses give special matinees for the younger people.

Could not something of this nature be done here?

Recently we have had some films placed before us which were made for children, and would there be any harm for our little ones attending the nearest theatre to see such films as "Robinson Crusoe," "Beauty and the Beast," and other fairy tales?

BEAUTIFUL STORY AT THE BLUEBELL

"A War Time Mother's Sacrifice" the Special Attraction This Week.

The Bluebell Theatre, Parliament St., has certainly made a hit with the public, as is proved by the immense crowds that patronize it nightly.

There is no doubt that the music provided is a strong drawing card and the introduction of talented singers added variety to the entertainment.

Mr. Gebertig, the proprietor, and his staff, deserve much credit for the successful manner in which the theatre is conducted.

On Monday and Tuesday the leading feature of a most brilliant program will be "A War Time Mother's Sacrifice."

This is a really beautiful war picture. It shows a mother's sorrow on learning that her beloved son is a coward and has run away from the field of battle. The son returns for a short while. The mother hears a plot on the part of his country's enemy, and in his efforts to save his country he is killed. The mother, finding her son's body, gets two servants to take it to the field of battle. This is done, and the father informed that his son has been killed in active service and is honored accordingly.

On Wednesday and Thursday another special feature will be included. This will be "The Veteran Police Horse" while on Friday and Saturday "The House of Bondage" will occupy the place of honor.

"Road to the Dawn" Shows Fine Acting

But the Plot Can Hardly Be Said to Live up to Expectations.

"The Road to the Dawn" can hardly be said to live up to expectations.

While the acting is very fine the plot is rather thin. It deals with a woman who, being told that she has only a week to live, determines to send her baby girl to her relatives. This she manages to do thru the generosity of an express man. While in transit the child takes off a label from a bottle of beer and this is tied to the child by mistake, so that the little one is delivered to the village drunkard by mistake. On receiving the child he finds a ring which he had given to his former sweetheart, who had been forced to leave him on account of his drinking ways. This brings back memories of his old days and he decides to start a fresh life.

The idea of the label being changed is not particularly brilliant, and it would certainly be better if the story was started at the beginning instead of at the end. It is all very well to have memories appearing. These sometimes help a story, but in this case the memories are the story and should therefore be placed first.
