THEY WANTED TO MAKE SURE OF IT

One Deer Shot by Amateur Hunters Had Forty Bullets in His Carcass.

Recently there arrived at Thomas Dean's stall in the country market the carcass of a deer, and many smiles illuminated the countenances of the butchers as they surveyed the handiwork of inexperienced hunters.

In the early dawn of a morning last week six young men about to engage in the initial game hunt of their career and exhibiting the conventional impatience, drove from the city to Hibernia Settlement, from which the hallowed numerous reports had issued proclaiming the vicinity to be the superior of even Miramichi and Canaan hunting grounds. The amateurs avowed their intention of returning in two days with a creditable bag.

The next day two of the party ventured on a stream in a row boat and moored the craft carelessly on a small island in order to obtain a good shot at a flock of birds, which they termed black duck. One bird dropped at their feet, but much to the chagrin of the hunters, proved to be a crow. To cap the climax the boat had drifted beyond reach while they were occupied with the "ducks," and they were marooned on a portion of land in the centre of the stream. Evidently they were compelled to swim to shore. Several hours later the sextette were in the woods armed to the teeth. A deer emerged in a clearing, and without more ado each of the six emptied the contents of his rifle into the animal, which was only a few yards distant. On the return the party to the city the deer was disposed of to Mr. Dean. Over forty bullets were computed to be in the body, and the butcher who extracted the lead pellets had an irksome task.

MRS. "JACK" GARDNER AS A "LIFE SAVER"

Boston Society Woman Hauled a "Soused" Drunk Out of Brook on Her Estate Last Night.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 11.—Mrs. John L. Gardner, noted as a patron of art, who lives in the magnificent Venetian palace in the Back Bay, joined the ranks of the life-savers to-night. Shortly after she had retired for the night she heard cries for help coming from the direction of Studly Brook, which flows near the palace. Hastily rising and dressing she aroused her watchman and the two went down to the brook to find a man bawling loudly in the mud and water.

Mrs. Gardner and the watchman after considerable danger and difficulty pulled the man from the brook and he was taken into the marble home of his rescuer and revived. The man's condition was such, however, that the police were called and he was eventually housed for the night at the Roxbury Crossing police station, where the police blotter recorded his name as "Joseph Mulka," aged sixty years, charge, drunkenness.
