

PRISONERS OF JAPAN.

Thousands of Russians in One Japanese City.

Cited Natives Throng to Nagoya to See Huge Slaves Guarded by Little Japs—Kind Treatment—Suffering of Wounded.

for they seem to show interest in looking around the city and peeping into the shops. Especially they like to see Nagoya Castle, and time hangs heavy on their hands.

The Japanese people carry to them many little gifts, bottles of sake, cups of rice, Japanese sweetmeats, and though they look and gaze upon them with curiosity, they are kindly and sympathetic.

The local papers are full of items about the prisoners, everything they say and do, their queer customs, such as the saying of grace before meals, their morning and night prayers, their constant playing of the "trump" cards, their manner of eating, and above all, the items of the wounded ones and their accounts of the Japanese great fighting.

There is one poor fellow here who has had actually one hundred and sixty wounds and still he lives! Several have been shot clear through the chest and lungs, some have had their eyes swept out with a ball through the temple and some were shot right through the neck diagonally from front to back.

The appreciation of these hospital prisoners is very real, and indeed no one at all can come even slightly in contact with the Japanese nurses and surgeons without being at once impressed with their genuine kindness and gentleness as well as by their ability.

One surgeon said to me as I was dressing a wound, "I know no difference between the Japanese and Russians were all one, as I am with them every day."

SHE MADE A CHANGE.

A Charleston Mother Did so With Advantage to Herself and Children.

A mother living in Charlottetown, Mass., the happy possessor of four children writes, "Every fall and winter I have laid in a stock of cough remedies, croup mixtures and throat medicines, for my children, and for some time they never seem to be free from colds, coughs or sore throat."

This fall I made a change in the usual program. I had myself been cured of an obstinate catarrh, from which I had suffered for years, by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and as they were pleasant to take I determined to try them with my children.

Our family physician told me he knew them to be perfectly safe and nothing better could be used for catarrh, coughs and colds.

So I gave them to the children and have continued to do so ever since, whenever there is the least sign of croup or sore throat and I no longer dread the approach of cold weather as I once did.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets not only cured me of my throat and throat catarrh, but they have saved me many an afternoon with my little ones. The children like the taste of them and they break up a croupy cold or an obstinate, deep seated cough.

People who have used sprays, inhalers, salves or washes for catarrh and have found how useless they are, will be agreeably surprised at the results following the use of a pleasant, convenient, internal remedy in tablet form.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets which cost but 50 cents full sized package, is the most effective and popular of catarrh medicines.

SETTING HIMSELF RIGHT.

(Appointed's Magazine.)

George Washington Thomas, an able-bodied Negro of Slesby Hollow, appeared before Magistrate Nussbaum charged with stealing chickens.

The Negro was accompanied by his lawyer, Colonel Simmons, a rising young white attorney. The old judge snarled into the dingy court room, where he had retired for most of his life, and after calling for the defendant, looked around on the little company that had assembled.

George Washington Thomas, he pointed to him and said: "Be you the defendant in this case?"

Quick as a flash George was on his feet, and, not understanding legal terms, he said indignantly at his lawyer: "No, sah; no, sah; I ain't de 'emant; de 'emant ovah dar."

A general laugh about the room, in which the queer old judge joined heartily. The daisies felt abashed. He was visibly embarrassed, and, thinking to correct the mistake, he mistakes it were, said again, pointing at his lawyer: "Yes, sah; he's de 'emant," and pointing to himself, he said, "Is de gent'man what stole de chickens?"

What We Are Doing

Helping Misplaced and Dissatisfied People to Change Their Work

Many a good man that would make a success in Electrical, Mechanical, or Civil Engineering, or in Architecture, or in business as an Advertiser, Window Trimmer, or Show-Card Writer, is working today for very low wages or is in a dissatisfied position.

Many a bright woman that would make a success in Illustrating or Designing in Architectural Drawing and Rendering, or in Ad Writing, or as a secretary through a knowledge of Stenography, Typewriting, and Correspondence, is eking out a scant living as clerk, housekeeper, or seamstress.

The trouble is that they do not know how to change to a more desirable or lucrative occupation. The I. C. S. solves the problem for them. We have prepared thousands for salaried positions in new lines of work, at their homes, in spare time, and at small expense. They held their old positions until they changed to the new with a salary better than before.

Thorough training and special skill in an occupation are sure to command employment, even in dull times.

Children Are Underfed.

THE RESULT IS WEAKNESS, RICKETS, ST. VITUS' DANCE AND MANY ILLS OF CHILDHOOD - THE CURE IS

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"Nine-tenths of children are underfed," writes a great English scientist who made an exhaustive study of the subject.

Children require double nourishment—to enable them to grow as well as to repair the wear and tear consequent on living.

After exercise of mind and body together with growth and physiological changes, consume nerve force at a tremendous rate, exhaust the supply of rich blood and leave the body weak and liable to disease.

Pallor and weakness, weak eyes, nervousness, skin diseases, rickets, St. Vitus' dance and constant inability to catch cold and to contract the disease of childhood are the results of this condition.

As a means of restoring the vitality of weak, puny children there is no preparation so effective as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Being mild and gentle in action and powerful as a creator of new rich blood and nerve force, this great food cure is admirably suited to the needs of childhood, soon adds new firm flesh and tissue to the weak and emaciated body and restores the vigor of robust childhood.

There is no means by which nourishment is so directly supplied to the blood and nerves as by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, because this preparation is composed entirely of the elements of nature which are required to build up and restore strength to the system.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers or 150 cents per box, direct from Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, may be ordered by mail.
