

were appointed Trustees, and on the 26th June three inmates were comfortably located in Gottingen Street in the house known by many as the "Golden Ball," and which, for some time, had been used by Mr. Marriott as a Training School. A General Superintending Committee was then formed, out of which Special or Standing Committees were taken—called Domestic Managing Committee, Financial Committee, Visiting or Religious Committee, and Committee on Admissions.—There are at present eight inmates.—No vacancies by death or withdrawal have taken place among the boarders, but the sudden death of an excellent servant from Small Pox has been the cause of deep regret to the Committee and also to the Matron, who more fully appreciated her valuable domestic services.—The report of the Domestic Managing Committee has hitherto been very satisfactory. Mrs. McKie having fulfilled her duties not only with due attention to the good order of the Establishment and comfort of the inmates, but with the most scrupulous economy.

The report of Visiting Committee states that some of the inmates expressed heartfelt thanks to their Heavenly Father, for having put it into the hearts of his people to provide such an asylum for the aged. This Committee have been able to supply regular Sabbath services, and have continued their meetings for devotional exercises. It is to be hoped that they may not fail in this department. Hitherto they have been indebted to laymen as well as clergymen, and the inmates consider it a very great privilege thus to come together as a family around the domestic altar. Those who cannot leave the "Home" are thus furnished once a week with an opportunity for worship; and all may find instruction and edifica-
