A Ridiculous Conclusion

"Every nation on the whole earth is guilty of the so-called militaristic act, and let that nation who wants to destroy these things, etc., first cease from itself and then other nations will follow example!" So writes a kindly correspondent from Newfoundland, anxious to see the end of this war.

I fancy, from seeing letters addressed to the editor, that there are other good folks who have an idea that the war is the fault of all the nations engaged in it, and that if the Allies would only stop, the enemy would at once make peace, run back home to Germany and behave himself nicely for ever and ever! Of course a glance at the official documents as published authentically in all the papers, would prove beyond a paradox the ridiculousness of such statements. And a consideration of where the German armies are today, and how they got there ought to be enough to satisfy every thinking person, what would become of the world if the Allies withdrew from the war.

I am not clear as to what my correspondent means by his et ceteras. But how in the world any mortal man can say that Belgium, France and Britain are equally guilty of militarism with Germany passes human comprehension. It is simply because we had no "militarism", to speak of, merely a little army of less than two hundred thousand men, that Belgium and France also had no military forces ready for war, that Germany was able to overrun Belgium and a good part of France. Serbia and Austria quarreled, but agreed to make up and be friends, and then Germany made war upon Russia who was basking

A bogus edition of a German official Gazette was issued, and withdrawn when it had done its work of deceiving Russia by a story that Germany was mobilizing its forces against her. The telegram showing that Serbia and Austria had made friends was suppressed temporarily at Berlin, much as Bismarck had manipulated a famous Ems telegram to bring on war in 1870. And immediately Germany marched troops into Belgium which had no more to do with the Austro-Serbian affair than had Canada! How can any sane man say, that these undoubted facts prove that Belgium was as guilty of the war as Germany?—Observer in the Family Herald and Weekly Star.

American experts have developed a death bomb for use against submarines that is deadly at considerable range. The bomb, containing high explosive, is dropped from a destroyer over a spot where the presence of submarine is indicated. It is timed to explode at a certain depth. If the explosion occurs below the U boat, and within reasonable distance, the hull of the under water craft cannot withstand the pressure, but is crushed like an egg shell.
