

THE WORLD. BY ELIZA COOK. Talk who will of the world as a desert of thrall, Yet—yet, there is bloom on the waste; Though the chalice of life hath its acid and gall There are honey drops too for the taste.

LOVE AND THE PLEIAD. There was seven sisters, and each wore a starry gown, as hand in hand By Hesper woke, they led the hours—The minstrels of her virgin hand.

They found, within her tower, the harp To which was breathed her vesper hymn, The star-gems of her coronet— And one was with a tear drop dim.

They told how Love had, at the gate Of twilight, lingered, long before The daylight set—but he was flown And she, the lost one, seen no more.
