GRAND FALLS IS EXPECTING A BOOM

GRAND FALLS, Feb. 21.—Next summer bids fair to be one of the busiest ever experienced in this place and a genuine boom is almost certain. The C. P. R. as soon as the weather and water will permit will commence work on a new steel bridge to replace the wooden one now in use. It will be built some short distance above the present one so that three of the piers will rest on the Michaud rocks with only one in deep water. The spans to be placed here are part of the St. Anne's bridge just outside Montreal which is being replaced by a double track bridge as the company is double tracking that part of its road. Then it is expected that tenders will be given for installing the water system during the summer which will cost about $20,000.

The new Roman Catholic church will be built at a cost of thirty or more thousands, and a twenty or thirty thousand dollar school is to be built. And last but not least, the new power company, according to their amended charter are also to commence work in the early summer or spring.

So that these, with additional small work in connection with these and the regular building, and other work of the town, should make a regular bustle here, and increase our population to quite an extent.

The smelt fishing season closed on the 15th inst., and all through it was a very good year for the fishermen. Latterly the catches have been heavier than earlier in the season, many of the nets averaging a ton each. Many of the fishermen made an average of $5 a day during the season, others made only about $2. One man claimed, four weeks ago, earnings of $400.—Chatham World.

Hum Willie, the Chinese restaurant proprietor and Oriental store owner, called at the Star office today to complain that he was not the Chinaman mentioned as having been duped by a Montreal French girl on the train yesterday. Mr. Willie says he is the only Chinese restaurant man hereabouts, and has never yet found it necessary to go out of town for help. St. John girls are clever enough for him, and he employs several competent ones. Altogether the enterprising citizen thought the whole story not only hazy but damaging to his business.

The ladies' committee of the Chipman House banquet will be greatly obliged if all solicited parcels and fancy work could be sent to manufacturing center to Lady Tilley and Mrs. T. H. Bullock.

ST. JOHN HARBOR.

Another difficulty is the frequent delay in entering the harbor. This, to my knowledge, has been talked for many years. The difficulty of having ships lying at the entrance waiting an opportunity to come up should be removed.

I will undertake on behalf of the department of railways to put at their service the chief engineer and deputy minister, Mr. Butler. If there is one thing in which I take pride, it is the fact that I have shown judgment and foresight in the selection of every deputy-minister.

I make this offer and having done this, I pledge this I will place this report before my chief Sir Wilfrid Laurier and that it will receive close and careful consideration. (Applause.)

I want this question to be discussed only on its merits. The past has been marred by too much partisanship and I ask this year the interests of the Dominion of Canada. Some one will say that there will be opposition from Halifax. Not so. Halifax is being looked after by the I. C. R. In the interests, we think, of the I. C. R. The conditions here are different and we must have some other scheme in government expenditures here. The expenditures must not be made in a way that there will be a suspicion that the port is to be open to one railway alone. It should be open to all railways. Perhaps only one railway will come here but we hope not. If you do this, a bill may be introduced at the next meeting of parliament in November granting St. John's request.

The cost I have no reason to believe would be of such a nature as would stagger the country but would meet the business judgments of all Canada. If you do not do this what are you going to do? You will get your dredging done, I suppose. Then what? Will you send another delegation to Ottawa? (Laughter.) They may go there and talk and yet never get at the core of it.

I have made this suggestion and I think it is the business way to go about it. I can assure you that all my energies will be with you in forwarding what are not only your aims but those of all Canada. (Applause.)

GENERAL DISCUSSION.

Mayor Sears said that it must have struck each one the amount of thought which the minister seems to have put on the whole question. The proposal shows a standpoint. He also suggested that the matters suggested by the minister should be taken separately.

The suggestions then made by the Hon. Mr. Emmerson were taken up separately and discussed. During the course of the discussion Hon. Mr. Emmerson said that as he had other business he would be forced to leave. All present arose as the minister retired from the meeting.

T. H. Estabrooks said the suggestion of the minister was the most practical ever put before St. John. He would move a resolution in the meeting's hearty concurrence with the suggestions made.

B. R. Macaulay said that it gave him great pleasure to second such a resolution.

J. H. McRobbie offered suggestions, and the resolution was finally carried unanimously as follows:—

"Resolved that this meeting strongly approve of the plan to at once put the dredge now available here at work on the 800 foot berth and request the government to provide a powerful dredge to carry on the dredging necessary to complete the berth at South Rodney wharf, also that the dredging necessary to deepen the harbor entrance be promptly proceeded with and that he was very glad to be able to agree with the resolution which was agreed to by the delegation had asked in Ottawa and with the idea of the future development expressed by the minister, which were the same as contained in reports made to the government."

T. H. Estabrooks said that the minister was rendering great assistance to St. John in offering the services of the deputy-minister.

T. H. Somerville moved that a nominating committee of ten be appointed to choose the commission of three as suggested by the minister. At the suggestion of J. A. L. McKinnon, the suggestion of the minister's suggestion was recorded.

Ald. Baxter said that with the various interests here at stake, it would be a three as suggested by the minister. Kendell Hall said that the minister's idea should be followed.

After some further discussion, however, was decided to increase to five.

The following nominating committee of ten were appointed: at four o'clock: T. H. Estabrooks, J. B. M. Baxter, T. H. Bullock, J. H. McRobbie, Mayor Sears, R. B. Emerson, W. H. Thorne, W. E. Vroom, Col. J. R. Armstrong and John Sealy.

The governor no longer enjoys the distinction of owning the only automobile in town. Mr. Heckbert has sold his fast trotter and purchased a 10-horse power Russell Touring car, a five-seater, from the Toronto makers. Mr. Albert McLennan brought home from Boston, the other day, an Orient Buickboard, with seats for two, himself and his best girl, that is expected to make the trip to Burnt Church in less than an hour when the road is good. We expect that these road machines will soon become so numerous here that residents on the country roads will move their houses back to escape the nauseous gasoline smell.—Chatham World.

Judge Forbes' Decision in the Case of Williams vs. Strang.

In county court yesterday morning before Judge Forbes an application was made by the defendant in the case of F. E. Williams and Co., Ltd., against A. E. Strang, of Chatham, to change the venue from St. John to Northumberland county. The action is one of debt and the amount involved is about $2.

The defendant alleged that in addition to his own evidence, seven other persons all living at Chatham would be called by him in support of his defence and that there was a preponderance of evidence in favour of the plaintiff in Northumberland county, rather than at St. John, where the only witness would be the plaintiff's company and their commercial traveller.

The plaintiff resisted the application on the ground that the defendant is not financially responsible for the incurred expense to which the plaintiffs would be put in trying the case in Northumberland county rather than at St. John, and submitted that the application should only be granted, if at all, upon the defendant paying money into court to cover the costs of taking plaintiffs' witnesses to Northumberland county.

Judge Forbes decided that he would not change the venue unless the defendants pay $55 into court, which would be paid out to the plaintiffs in the event of their being successful. R. G. Murray appeared for the defendant and W. H. Trueman for the plaintiff.

FRANCIS HARVEY

100 YEARS OLD YESTERDAY

Tells Sun of Personal Interviews

With the Devil.

New Brunswick's Oldest Resident Now

Lives With His Daughter at 71 Lombard Street

St. John has a centenarian. Francis Harvey, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. Jenner, at 71 Lombard street, was 100 years old yesterday, and undoubtedly is the oldest resident of St. John, and probably of the province.

The celebration of his centennial will take place on Monday evening next, when there will be a family reunion, which will be attended by as many of Mr. Harvey's descendants as can possibly be there.

Mr. Harvey, who is a very intelligent man, was born at the little village of Stoke Damery, near Plymouth, England. In the year 1811 his grandfather came to New Brunswick and became the pioneer of English settlement, Kings county. Two years later, after sufficient preparation, as the father thought, the family left the Old Land and came to St. John. Here they remained for a short time, and then went to their homestead in Kings county. At that time no road ran within five miles of the place, a path marked by blazed trees being the only mode of ingress or egress.

One of his earliest recollections, Mr. Harvey says, is of seeing the tears flow down his father's cheeks on finding that the crop of potatoes which were to furnish food for the family had been ruined by the water which had leaked into the cellar. The country was then rough and wild. Primeval forests covered it, giving shelter to many wild animals, which made the life of the settler a burden.

A tale which the centenarian tells is of a bear raiding the pig-pen and carrying off one of its occupants, and the recovery of which required the efforts of the whole family. Although surrounded at a tender age by a wilderness full of dangers, Mr. Harvey felt no fear, mainly on account of his firm religious beliefs, which were of a strength and fervor reminding one of the days of the Puritans.

"At the age of six," said Mr. Harvey during a conversation with a Sun reporter, "my mother sent me to Sabbath school. I was too young to be greatly benefited. One Sabbath day, however, at the age of eight or nine, while listening to a servant of God speaking to one of my neighbors I was suddenly struck with a sense of duty toward by Maker. As I grew older this sense grew stronger. On one occasion when I was alone in the woods engaged in prayer, I became aware of a figure close beside me. It was the devil. For a short time I was afraid, but I said, 'Why should I fear if I trust in God?' Then the devil began to tempt me, asking me why I knelt and prayed where no one could hear me? I resisted the temptation and the vision finally passed away.

"At another time when about sixteen I was with my brothers. All at once at some distance away I saw a figure the like of which I had never before beheld. I was going to ask my brother what it was, but it was gone in an instant. It appeared again close beside me. I became aware that it was near, and heard a voice promising me long life."

Mr. Harvey lived in English settlement until six years ago, when he removed to this city. Until he became too old he worked the farm that had been granted his father.

Speaking of the great changes that have taken place in St. John during his lifetime Mr. Harvey mentioned the times when no houses stood on the Brunswick and Maine streets, but woods extended east from that thoroughfare to Courtenay Bay. He also recalled the mill race which occupied the site of the present depot and a stream which ran near the old cemetery and into the pond. Among the landmarks of his life Mr. Harvey has shot ducks and other wild fowl.

Mr. Harvey, in spite of his great age, is still able to walk about. Up to a few years since he possessed all his faculties, but his eyesight and hearing have failed lately. Asthma has also made inroads upon his constitution. For the last year he has kept within doors, but before that always went about in the summer time and insisted upon doing his own shopping.

Five of Mr. Harvey's children are living now. Charles, the eldest, being about seventy years of age. The others are Agnes, Helen, Eben and Sarah. The last named resides in St. John, the others in various parts of New Brunswick and Maine. These five are the surviving members of the thirteen children of Mr. Harvey's first wife, Jane Perry, daughter of Edmund Perry of English settlement. Mrs. Jane Thorne, the second wife, also a native of English settlement, is still living, though at the advanced age of seventy-eight. Mr. Harvey has also living in the city and elsewhere seventeen grandchildren and thirty-eight great-grandchildren.
