REV. W. W. LODGE TAKES CHARGE CANADA NORTHERN BRIDGE DESTROYED

Rev. W. W. Lodge, the new pastor of the Exmouth street church, took formal charge yesterday, when he occupied the pulpit both morning and evening. In his evening sermon, the reverend gentleman took as his text "The church of the living God—the pillar and ground of the truth," and preached an able and interesting sermon.

Said he, part of the church is the medium of revelation, an organ of the Almighty in which both men and angels are to behold the manifold wisdom of God. Why do we believe in the church? Not because man is a social being. He is made for society. He cannot live his life alone. If he tries to do so he remains dwarfed and stunted. We are dependent on one another in our physical, mental and religious life. Our spiritual life is drawn from others. Faith and hope and love do not drop down into the soul out of some strange cloud, but are born to us on the loving accounts of kindly voices. No one lives to himself. A man cannot perform any noble work alone. To accomplish great things men must work together. Combination is one of God's great principles upon which all life is being organized. A Christian is a man at his best, and he cannot live his life successfully independent of others. Never was the church more needed than today. In an age like this, when the problems are so complicated and so immense, is there no need of a strong, unmovable institution which shall bear witness to the great facts and principles upon which the hopes of our humanity depend? In an age when wealth is increasing do we not need an institution which will keep on repeating the old story of the man who paid more attention to his barn than to his soul? In an age when competition is so intense, so furious, in an age when ambitious rivals are tempted to over-reach and to do the thing which is not right, and when the managers of corporations are tempted to use men as so many tools, picking them up and casting them off at their own good pleasure, sapping them of their strength and their life and then throwing them off as mere rags, do we not need an institution which shall force upon men's conscience. The Christian church is a witness. It must bear testimony to its Lord.

SEVERAL BAPTIZED IN RIVER YESTERDAY

Camp Beulah closed yesterday for another year with most enthusiastic services largely attended. The altar services and evangelistic efforts of Rev. Mr. Ruth, Rev. Mr. Jones and others were well rewarded by the large number of candidates who were baptized and received into the church yesterday.

Evangelistic meetings will be held during July and August at Mackinac, Gray and Millstream for the benefit of those who were unable to attend the Beulah camp.

The attendance has been a record one this year.

JUVENILE DELINQUENT'S ACT; WHAT IT HAS ACCOMPLISHED

Mr. W. P. Archibald, Dominion Patrol officer, contributes the following article on the Juvenile Delinquent's Act, and what it has accomplished: "Humiliating as it may seem to confess it, the concession must be made that, notwithstanding all our methods or codes of punishment, and all our philanthropic efforts for the reformation of the delinquent, society is still in a state of siege by a large and dangerous army of criminal-minded persons. If you doubt this, you have only to notice the bolts and bars on every hand, the police and the watchmen, the law-breakers. After 4000 years a social order of one kind or another and after two thousand years of the propagation of Christian ethics, which, if ever universally adopted, would do away with everything criminal, it still remains a fact that those who have must still hold their possessions by the influence or the force of might. The 'mild fates' of Governments are necessarily held over every home and trust in the civilized world, and it must be so for many centuries to come.

"PRACTICALLY PERMANENT. "All things considered, the delinquent and criminal problem may be looked upon as practically permanent, and certainly we have none more complex and important. The question is a vital one, when considering the protection of the law-abiding portion of a community from the portion of society which is disposed to prey upon it. The most desirable thing to do is to get rid of a crime itself, either by transforming it as their debtors, but I do believe or, better still, by preventing the citizen or child from ever becoming a criminal. The question of crime is a subject by itself, and the possible reformation of the criminal is another, but the prime object of the law, thus far, is founded on the protection of society itself. It is this object which underlies all sound legislation, and judgment given. It is this consideration which compels the judge to turn away his eyes from the suffering of the individual offender, and even from the greater suffering which generally falls upon the family or friends, and to keep his eyes fixed on the thousands of innocent people whose safety demands that the consequences of law-breaking must be more painful. I do not believe in taking an attitude toward the violators of law, young or old, which would lead them to look upon themselves as a trivial matter, or encourage them to look upon themselves as the victims of wrongs or oppression, or upon Government as their debtor, but I do believe in taking a passionate, patient and impartial attitude toward them, making it as easy as possible for all offenders to do right, and as difficult as possible for them to commit a crime. I do not believe in the prospect of redeeming themselves, and that they have within themselves, to a great extent, their own destiny.

ONE OF THE RULING FACTORS. "One of the ruling factors of our age is that of evolution, the idea that in the lowest forms of life there exists the promise of a higher form. It is the capacity of betterment which redeems human nature from its littleness and its meanness, and this principle should be remembered in our treatment of the delinquent classes, for they have been, generally, the victims of neglect, and have been sinned and broken in their youth, and notwithstanding all our advanced systems of justice, they feel that the great forces of our civilization are against them.

PRODUCING EXCELLENT RESULTS. "The adoption of the Juvenile Delinquent's Act, passed by the Federal government last year, is already producing excellent results. Manitoba is the first province to enter into this new system. The city of Hull and district have made application to the City of Ottawa, and also falling into line. The provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and British Columbia, Quebec, and Ontario are also following the lead, and are inquiring into this system, and we hope that, within a few years every province will avail itself of this act.

The conditions of the Act are as follows: (1) "That a proper detention home has been established, and will be maintained for the temporary confinement of juvenile delinquents, or children charged with delinquency. The institution must be conducted more like a family home than like a penal institution, and must not be in the immediate vicinity of any police station, jail, lock-up, or other place in which adults are confined or may be imprisoned. (See Section 11.) (2) "That an Industrial School, as defined by Clause 8 of Section 2 of the Act, exists, into which juvenile delinquents may be committed. (3) "That there is a judge or magistrate having jurisdiction in the City, town, or other portion of a province, in which it is sought to have the act put in force, willing to act as Juvenile Court judge (if any), provided for without recourse to the Federal authorities. (4) "That remuneration for an adequate staff of probation officers has been provided for by municipal grant, public subscription, or otherwise. (See Sections 25, 26, 27 and 28, of the Act.) (5) "That some society or committee is ready and willing to act as Juvenile Court Committee. (See Sections 22 and 24 of the Act.)

THE NEW ORDER OF THINGS. "I had the honor to examine the organization of this new movement in Manitoba last January, and report to the Minister of Justice how the system is working out. Out of 156 cases of juvenile delinquency, children under 16 years of age, only two have proved unsatisfactory cases. The Honorable Mr. Daly, the Juvenile Judge, informed me that the new system had reduced the number of juvenile delinquents in the court over 50 per cent. for the past year. This is an evidence of what we hope for and expect, not only in Manitoba, but in the other provinces, when the system is completed.

"Under the Juvenile Delinquent's Act no children under 16 can be classified as criminals, or placed under arrest in a jail or lock-up and brought before a police court, or headed together with other criminals. The whole method is humane and sane.

THE GREAT PROBLEM.

"The great problem of juvenile delinquency cannot be considered apart from environment. It is impossible to adequately judge any child who commits an offence apart from its surroundings, and especially from what they generally term 'home.' A great majority of delinquents who find their way into the hands of the law may be traced back to the miserable alleys and hovels which exist in our larger Canadian cities, a standing reproach to our twentieth century civilization. No one who knows how these children live can wonder at their offences against society. While we are striving in the name of a common humanity for many reforms, juvenile courts, probation and reformatory movements, all virtually essential for our common good, let us not neglect to use every influence within our reach to remove, as far as possible, these breeding places of vice and criminal spawn, and establish in their place clean and wholesome dwellings. Let us throw the dark alley open to the light of the day. Let us plant trees and open up children's playgrounds where they are most needed, and give our down-trodden poor a few breathing places, made wholesome and beautiful with sun, air and flowers, all of which appeal to the better instincts of the child, or the parent, compelled to live under unfavorable circumstances.

PROBLEM OF THE SLUM.

"Canada must never cultivate the slum, if our efforts are going to be effective in keeping down the criminal population to a minimum. I have often wondered at our city authorities spending so lavishly to make the splendid avenue look better than ever, while so little attention is given to the dark, unwholesome places where the unfortunate and erring are compelled to exist, and consequently suffer.

NATAL DEFECTS IN CHILDREN.

"If we are obliged to admit natal defects in children, are we not also obliged to admit natal excellencies? But natal defects may be eradicated and destroyed, and so indeed may natal excellencies. Children may possess criminal tendencies, but these criminal tendencies may be destroyed by a proper 'home care' or environment, for they have no such fibres or roots that they reach from the cradle to the grave. Children may possess the dispositions or tendencies of angels, but these tendencies have no such fibres or roots as to defy extinction. The social conditions which are competent to uphold the virtues, instincts of the delinquent are also competent to firmly root the dispositions which are not virtuous, but full of virtue and good. I firmly believe that there is nothing found in youth of a criminal tendency, natal or acquired, which cannot be firmly rooted out by a proper environment, and in many cases may be wholly destroyed.

"Stark says: 'The true history of a nation is not in its wars, but in its home and household; the hope of the world lies with the children.'

C. P. R. TO LAY 11 NEW TRACKS

Work of Enlarging Yard Begins

The Work at Bay Shore Will Occupy Balance of Summer

A large crew of men under Roadmaster Miller have commenced work on the extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway yard at Bay Shore.

Although the present yard includes nearly ten miles of tracks the need for more room has been felt for the past two seasons. At one time last winter over one thousand loaded cars were standing on storage tracks at Bay Shore while practically every foot of siding space between St. John and Vancouver was required for the movement of current traffic was occupied by loaded cars waiting to be dispatched at West St. John. It is expected that the new extension will prevent a repetition of this during the coming season. Eleven new tracks, each 100 feet wide, will be laid down having an average length of 1,200 feet each and will provide storage room for between three and four hundred cars.

The leads from the main track were laid out last week and the new tracks will be installed in a few days. The yard will be laid down to the level of the present yard. The material removed will be used to fill in at the lower end of the yard over which the new tracks will extend.

The work will occupy the rest of the summer, but will be completed before the opening of the winter port season in November.

BADLY HURT IN RUNAWAY

John Rolston, a longshoreman living at 263 Main street, met with a serious and painful accident late yesterday afternoon while driving on Douglas avenue.

Mr. Rolston was just opposite the residence of J. E. Cowan when the horse became frightened and balked. Mr. Rolston was thrown heavily to the road, upon being picked up by Mr. Rolston was found to have suffered a deep gash over the eye and to have been inflicted with other injuries about the head. He was removed to the roadside in a semi-conscious condition and Dr. Pratt telephoned for the doctor.

He arrived on the scene shortly after the accident and the patient was removed to General Public Hospital, where last night he was reported as resting easily.

Mr. Rolston is a somewhat elderly man and his injuries on this account are regarded as serious.

The rig, which was owned by the victim of the accident, was not damaged, the horse stopping of its own volition upon the occupant of the cart being thrown out.

It is thought that the slowing of the wheel against the tram rail was the immediate cause of the accident.

MRS. HARVEY KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

AMHERST, Mass., July 10.—Mrs. Adm. L. Harvey, of Amherst, was killed in an automobile accident on the Sunderland Road between North Amherst and Sunderland this afternoon. The party, which included, besides Mrs. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey H. Pierce, of Northampton, owners of the automobile and chauffeur, were riding along with Mr. Pierce at the wheel. His experience with the machine was limited, and when the car struck a rough part of the road, Mr. Pierce lost control. The machine turned off the highway and was upset, pinning Mrs. Harvey underneath. She died almost instantly. The others escaped with slight bruises. Mrs. Harvey is survived by a brother, Wm. M. Larned, of Amherst.

SUBTLE SELF PRAISE.

Once when Motke heard himself compared to Caesar, Turenne, Marlborough, Wellington and others, he remarked, "No, I have no right to rank with such great captains, for I have never commanded a retreat," which at the same time conveyed a subtle compliment to himself.

Bismarck was equally subtle when he was asked whom he thought to have been the ablest plenipotentiary at the congress of Berlin. "I don't know about the ability," he replied, with a grin smile, "but the next ablest was certainly Lord Beaconsfield."

Cossacks Engage Convicts

Twenty on Their Way to Alaska—Political Prisoners

SEATTLE, Wn., July 10.—Information concerning the escape of a band of political convicts in the interior of Siberia, who are making their way towards East Cape on the extreme east coast, in an effort to reach Alaska, was brought to Seattle yesterday by John W. Kelly, who long has been identified with affairs in the Arctic, both in Alaska and Siberia.

"The first word of the escape of the convicts reached Captain N. E. Walhnecker, acting governor at Tishy, Kalmiak, 1,500 miles from East Cape, on March 12," said Kelly.

"Immediately he sent a detachment of his men in pursuit. They overtook and engaged the band of 100 miles from the coast. The cossacks were defeated and seven of them killed. Several of the exiles met the same fate.

Reduced in numbers by death from exposure and many having been killed in battles with natives, the band numbered 20 when last heard from. They have looted villages and killed natives when their demands for dogs, food and shelter have been refused.

"The escaped convicts are not of the low criminal class, but are political prisoners."
