CLOSING STOCK LETTER.

By direct private wires to J. C. Mackintosh and Co.
New York, Aug. 10.—Today's stock market was marked by further liquidation and short selling upon a considerably larger scale, causing a decline of from one to three points in the active list. Thanks, however, to the fact that commission houses at large were carrying no heavy lines of stocks there was no signs of demoralization and evidence of increased public demand for stocks was not lacking. This demand however was still inconsiderable and the market appeared to get its support from short covering. There were periods during the day when the general list was clearly oversold, but there were no developments in the way of news to cause particular uneasiness among the bears. In fact, toward the close of the day, the market was fully as unfavorable as were the first impressions made by the figures yesterday. The expectation of large crops has been the chief dependence of believers in higher prices and with this taken away there is nothing in the situation of a definitely favorable nature to stimulate buying of stocks. The crop prospect in connection with the continued political activity against combinations of capital and the uncertainty of the Tobacco and Standard Oil stockholders under the reorganization plans tend to repress a normal demand for stocks on this reaction.

A large part of the recent selling has been genuine liquidation and as the supply has not come from commission houses there is room for the suspicion that some large interests have become disgusted with the situation and are letting go. It should be borne in mind, however, that the decline ranging from 5 to 12 points in the past ten days has discounted much that is unfavorable in the situation, which the fearful character of the market is gradually placing the market in position to recover sharply should any particularly favorable news develop.

CLOSING COTTON LETTER.

By direct private wires to J. C. Mac-
kintosh and Co.
New York, Aug. 10.—The over-extension of the bear account supplemented by reports of hot dry weather in the southwest caused a smart recovery in the local market during the opening hour today, but withstanding the continuous stream of bullish crop advices which came to hand thereafter the rise was met by a flood of selling and prices finished from 8 to 16 points below last night's closing. Despite its bullish advices the south showed no disposition to buy cotton on the rise and it appeared also that spinning interests have shown a disposition to buy moderately around recent low levels are not inclined to follow the market up. The bull charge therefore is left with a scanty following in its attempts to boost the price and thus far the market has been able to withstand a broad selling movement of any character. Many professionals appear to be maintaining a purely scalping position and unless crop damage advices become more serious than at present it will be difficult to sus-tain any advance from the going level. Conservative commission houses during short selling on the decline owing to the admittedly large short interest outstanding but do not hesitate to recommend sales on the sharp bulges.
