Everything is Now Ready for a Great Exhibition of Speed at Capital.

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 15.—The Fredericton 1919 Exhibition races are to start tomorrow afternoon at the Trotting Park, adjoining the Exhibition Grounds, and during the next four days the harness horses will compete in eleven stakes and class events for $4,400 in purses.

The opening day's programme for tomorrow has what appear to be three good races. While Toss has been winning so consistently that she should be a top-heavy favorite in the 230 stake and on form ought to clean up that event without any more trouble than she had here in July, both the 214 stake and the 216 stake will doubtless furnish a lot of racing. Royal McKinney will be started in the 214 class, if the owners of the other horses are agreeable, and the race will bring Roy Volo and Baron A. together again to settle their differences, while both Mack showed at Woodstock that the time has come when he has to be beaten on foot. The Exposer, Tommy Zetter, Jennie Penn, Lacombe and Corwin Hal make up a well-matched field for the 216 stake, and it may be that the big trotter will go to the wire as the favorite.

The recent rains, followed by the past couple of days of fine weather, have made the track faster than it was in July, although the turns are still somewhat heavy.

The free-for-all on Wednesday is expected to be as good as the race for the fast record paces proved here in July, when there was more money in the pool than ever before in the east. Fern Hal, 2:05 1/2, will be back fighting it out with the Maritime Circuit free-for-allers this week, after a whirl at the Aroostook circuit, where she was eligible to start in the 212 classes. John A. Hall's win at St. Stephen with a third heat in 2:10 has added a lot of uncertainty to the meeting of the fast record paces here on Wednesday, while White Sox, 2:03 1/4, has given evidence of returning to the fine form she showed last fall. Archie Johnson, it is said, will drive Peter Farren, 2:07, the St. John pacer, in Wednesday's race here, and also in his future races throughout the season.

STAR ATHLETES TO COMPETE IN NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Fast performances in track and field competitions bear a striking similarity to the turf, for to get a line on possible champions the dope is the most handy guide to follow. Recent combination display of speed and wonderful vaulting, broad jumping and hurdling by athletes in the Middle West, as compared with the best accomplishments in the East, makes it appear as if the visitors will clean up in both the junior and senior national championships when they invade Franklin Field, Philadelphia, where the pair of A.A.U. fixtures will be contested on Friday and Saturday, September 12 and 13. The weight throwers may score most of the points for the Eastern team, the shot, fifty-six pound weight and hammer. Not since the beginning of the world's war has a greater meet been scheduled than the coming one, what with the return of the inter-allied winners and the general rehabilitation of the sport. The championships were held last year at the Great Lakes Naval Station in Chicago, but they were not a success competitively speaking, because most of the stars were in No Man's Land chasing the Hun. In the picture are shown some of the stars who will compete.

Thames Provided Another Mystery
Dog Sole Survivor of Crew of Barge Which Sank After Collision.

The Thames has provided London with a mystery which deserves to rank with the stories of missing ships and crews in the pages of romance. The barge Atalanta was proceeding up the river in ballast. Her destination was Poplar. The crew consisted of Harry Obee, the skipper, a woman, the mate, possibly a fourth hand, and a dog.

When off Woolwich the vessel sank suddenly after a slight collision. The dog was the only survivor. River police began a search for the bodies of the crew, but their efforts were unsuccessful. The theory was that the

LITTLE BITS OF SPORT CHATTER

Reports from Sackville indicate that Mount Allison will have a strong Rugby team this fall. Many returned men, who were formerly stars on the maritime gridiron, will be back at the University and everything points to a great aggregation of football material. Many of the men, who were overseas kept in trim and had much valuable experience in the English game. Brundage will have charge of the coaching.

They are still rowing over in Halifax. Last Saturday they had a Monmouth Harbor regatta and next Saturday the harbor single sculls Championship race will be held.

Joe Beckett has discovered a new blow called "the mutton chop." We have had "the occipital punch," "the ulnar blow," "the Mary Ann," "the solar plexus" and a host of other freak blows, but this sure is a new one in fisticuffs.

A boxing club on the plan of the National Sporting Club of London will do an immense good in elevating the game. It comes at the very game never had such general recognition for its value, but, if it is to keep up its popularity, it must have a potential influence that will keep it clean.

Alfred Shrubb, the world's record holder at many running distances, did not make an impressive showing in his five-mile race against a trotter at Horsesham, England, the middle of August. He was beaten a lap and three-quarters, the pony doing 26m. 1s. to Shrubb's 28m. 1-15s. The old champion will have to show improved pace to take on any of the good men on the other side.

R. D. Sears, the first American lawn tennis champion, was the youngest man to win the title, when he took his first championship. He and Bob Wrenn were the only champions to win in their teens. Sears' age was 19 years and 10 months, and Wrenn's, 19 years and 11 months. In doubles Vincent Richards holds the record as the youngest of all champions.

Heine Zimmerman has the courage to come out and acknowledge that he ought to have had more sense than draw a suspension from John McGraw. He differs from McGraw only on the degree of his punishment.

McDonald is pretty well peeved that Kloby Corcoran of Lawrence should overlook Babe Powers of Malden. He claims he had been promised a bout by Billy Bell and would like to fight him. The Lawrence man got through with the agreement. Speaking of Kloby, when Dan Morgan was in town on Saturday arranging for the teams for the Fitz-Kloby bout next Saturday at Lawrence, he put up $3,000 to $2,000 that Fitzsimmons would win, and then offered Bell $1,000 to $2,000 that Fitz would win on a K. O. Bell closed on the former proposition, but declared he would have to consider the K. O. argument. It looks a tough scrap, whichever man wins, and another big bout for Lawrence.

Mrs. E. A. Sturdee's Glencho Connemara" won second prize in Limit Class, second in open class, Reserve Winners, and the beautiful bronze medal for the best dog bred by exhibitor, given by the Irish Setter Club of America. In the classes were five dogs, making the largest classes of Irish Setters there has been in any show outside of New York.

The Dog Show was held at Syracuse, N. Y., where a very large number of dogs were entered. Mrs. Sturdee has been appointed the Irish Setter Club of America, an official judge for dog shows to be held in Boston and other cities.

Dog experts and others who love dogs should enjoy the show here this week. It is announced that the best dogs available will be on view here.

BREAK THROUGH THE BOLSHEVİK LINES

London, Sept. 15.—A Russian communique received by the War Office says an airplane reconnoitering says that General Kamostov, commander of the Anti-Bolshevik Cossacks, who after the middle of August broke through the Bolshevik lines, is still operating behind the Bolshevik one hundred miles west of Spokov. He has cut the railway, seriously interfering with Bolshevik ammunition and supplies.

Ill-fated people on board would be found in the cabin, which was half-filled with water.

The Atlanta was raised yesterday and the mystery deepened. The salvage operations revealed the fact that twenty feet of the fore part of the vessel had been cut away.

When the vessel was raised there was no sign of any bodies in the cabin. What became of them? Is it possible that the crew had time to escape in a small boat? Were they washed off the vessel and carried out to sea? The authorities are trying to solve the riddle of the river.—London Press.

Famous Engineer
Died In London

Charles M. Jacobs Built Hudson Tube and Other Great Works Both in Europe and America.

Word was received here yesterday of the death, Sunday in London of Mr. Charles M. Jacobs, civil engineer, who built the Hudson tubes, the Pennsylvania Railroad tunnels under the Hudson and East rivers and made plans for many other tunnels and bridges in and about this city.

At the time of his death he was working under orders of the French government on plans for a tunnel under the Seine River from Rouen to Havre.

Mr. Jacobs was an Englishman, born June 8, 1850, in Hull. Graduated from Cambridge University, he became an apprentice in an engineering and ship-building firm in Hull. Later he opened an office of his own and in 1886 moved to London.

In 1889 he came to this country, summoned by the late Austin Corbin, president of the Long Island Railroad, to become general adviser in engineering matters. He began work on a rapid transit system to connect Manhattan, Brooklyn and New Jersey.

Mr. Jacobs superintended many borings for a line to run from Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, to Coney Island street, Manhattan, and thence across the Hudson River to a junction with the Pennsylvania Railroad in Jersey City.

Then in 1901 Mr. Jacobs began plans and made borings for the East River Gas Company for the Ravenswood gas tunnel. This work was completed in 1904, after Mr. Jacobs had taken direct charge of the contracting end of the venture.

Mr. Jacobs also began plans for the New York and Long Island bridge of the Long Island Railroad across the East River and Blackwell's Island, but the project was suspended upon Mr. Corbin's death.

After working on the project of a passenger tunnel under the Hudson River in 1900, Mr. Jacobs became the designer and practical constructor of the company formed in 1902 to build the MacAdoo tubes. In his work on the four Hudson tubes and the Pennsylvania Railroad tubes beneath the Hudson and East rivers he was senior member of the firm of Jacobs and Davis, which he later retired.

Mr. Jacobs prided himself on the security of the workmen employed in his projects. During the six years required to build the MacAdoo tubes there was not one death from the effects of the compressed air. Many of the safety devices were invented by the engineer himself.

Mr. Jacobs was a member of the Engineers' and Railroad Clubs, of New York and of London, and of the Royal Societies and the Royal Automobile Club, of London, as well as of many engineering societies in this country and in England.

PRES. WILSON IS POUNDING AGAINST A STONE WALL

Chicago, Sept. 8.—In a statement issued here today Will H. Hayes, chairman of the Republican National Committee, declared that President Wilson was pounding against a stone wall in attempting to have the peace treaty ratified without reservations.

Chairman Hayes' statement follows: "I agree with President Wilson that the treaty will be ratified but the ratification will be accompanied by reservations absolutely safeguarding the full independence and freedom of action of this republic. That is the simple fact which the President may as well recognize first and last. At present he is only pounding against a stone wall of partisanship which has already become impregnable and is daily increasing in width, strength and height."

"The committee reservations constitute the irreducible minimum of requirements of a substantial majority of Senators who cannot be coerced or cajoled into violating their oaths of office to hold America first. There is no partisanship in their position. True, every American Senator stands with the committee, but because he is an American—not because he is a Republican."

"I sincerely believe that an actual majority of the Democratic Senators feel the same way and evidence is multiplying daily that when the time comes a considerable number will vote the same way."

"It is for the President to determine when the test shall be made. The treaty will be reported out this week, and a vote can be had as soon as it can be reached under the rules, unless it is delayed by Senators acting under the direction of the President himself. It is simply now up to the administration to decide whether it will or will not accept at once these essential guarantees of American independence, which will unquestionably be promptly accepted by the other nations. It is imperative that this matter be settled right. It ought, by all means, to be settled promptly. The full responsibility for any delay will rest on the President and him alone."
