

AN EX-TEACHER.

This book would be incomplete without recognition of Mr. R. F. Martin, who taught this school more than twenty years.

In no way has he sought publicity. His modesty and unassuming manner have won for him the esteem and good-will of a wide circle of friends. Especially are his ex-pupils pleased and interested in a face that has still in it the sparkle of youth and sympathy for the child-mind.

MR. R. F. MARTIN.

An Ex-Teacher, who taught twenty-one years at Rittenhouse School.

Probably in no greater way has he influenced the section than in the musical appreciation and education he instilled in the youth of his school.

Again as a leader in Literary Societies and school entertainments R. F. Martin set a high standard.

As is the ideal of all true teachers his greatest pleasure and pride is to note in his former pupils the development of manhood and womanhood, which shows culture, refinement, and strength of character.
