Dundonald and the Constitution

The Canadian Order in Council relieving Lord Dundonald of the command of the Canadian Militia contains a statement that Lord Dundonald's remarks as to what he called the "political interference" of the Minister of Militia indicate a regrettable failure on his part to appreciate the principles of British Constitutional Government. On the analogy of the relations between the Secretary of State for War in the Imperial Cabinet and the holder of the late office of Commander-in-Chief of the British army, the statement in the Canadian Order of Council impugning the attitude of Lord Dundonald towards the Minister of Militia cannot be controverted. The evidence of the Duke of Cambridge, as Commander-in-Chief of the British Army, before a Committee of the House of Commons, which was appointed in 1860 to consider the question of military organization, showed that while the Commander-in-Chief was given an initiative in certain acts of administration, it was necessary for him to obtain the sanction of the War Office to the performance of these acts, that this principle was invariably respected in all the higher military appointments, and that even the ordinary promotions in regiments made by the Commander-in-Chief without communication with the Secretary for War were invariably sent to him, before submission to the Sovereign. In order that he might
have an opportunity of interfering in case any irregularity should be apparent in the step. A departure from this practice would tend to the establishment of a system under which acts of administration could be performed by a military official in the name of the Sovereign for which no Minister could be responsible, which is contrary to the now settled principle and practice of the Constitution, and would be a dangerous and harmful auxiliary to the system of militarism with which free institutions are threatened.—Dublin

EDDY'SSt. Joseph's Church, Douro, Jubilee PicnicOn Thursday, June 23rd inst., a monster picnic was held in the "King Edward Grove," Douro, to celebrate Father Kelly's 25th anniversary as a parish priest in the County of Peterborough.Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, E. A. Peck, Esq., Warden of the County, D'Arcy Scott, Esq., of Ottawa, and Father Fitzpatrick, the beloved and scholarly pastor of Ennismore, were present and delighted the hundreds of eager listeners with appropriate speeches.The speeches, needless to say, were applauded to the echo. The theme of D'Arcy Scott's eloquent oration was "Ireland and Canada." This gentleman caught the ear of the vast audience by his glowing description of Ireland's glories, and Canada's greatness. Regret was expressed that the people of Western Ontario did not often have the opportunity to hear such a brilliant young Irish-Canadian.Father Kelly made a few remarks concerning the great men in Church and State whom it had been his privilege to meet. He eulogized the late lamented Bishop O'Brien, whose memory, he said, would ever be green in the hearts of all those who had been privileged to meet one of Ontario's greatest sons, a saint and a scholar, who wore the mitre of Kingston, for all too short a period.
He would always, he said
