SUMMARY OF THE SPEECHES ON THE 24TH.

At three o'clock an immense crowd assembled around the platform to listen to the addresses, and the president, A. B. Burns, in a few appropriate introductory remarks, presented the two young lads, who represented the characters of St. Jean Baptiste and Jacques Cartier in the Saider teams. It Provide who said these Jean Baptiste and Jacques Cartier in the Society from St. Francis, who sang "Les Voyageurs." The little St. Jean Baptiste of the Amherstburg society then stepped forward, and, in a clear voice and choice language, explained the significance of the character he represented.

He assured his hearers that farmers here were as well off as the same class in England. Said he, "St. Jean Baptiste Societies are the best means by which Canadians can unite to help each other and to battle for and maintain the rights guaranteed them by the privations and sufferings of their ancestors." He advised all Canadians who the privations and state may be cestors." He advised all Canadians who did not already belong to these societies to join at once, for, said he, "The country really belongs to you; your ancestors were the first-comers; their beautiful reliminations of them, by the were the first-comers; their beautiful reli-gion was guaranteed to them by the treaty of 1763, yet you Canadians do not exert the influence you ought; that treaty guarantees to you the use of the French language; hold on to it, insist upon it that your children speak it, that they learn it in the schools, and that they learn their catechism in French. If you ask this of your priests, in respectful language, they cannot refuse you this right. Do not marry among relations; it is not good, it will degenerate the race, there are plenty will degenerate the race, there are plenty to choose from See the mingling of Canadians from all over the county today; may much good grow out of it. But let us retrace our steps. On those very plains of Abraham where in 1759 the brave Generals Wolfe and Montcalm each gave up his life for his country, there this day the venerable Archbishop of Quebec, surrounded by the Bishops and Clergy of the Province, and many from elsewhere, has celebrated the august sacrifice of the Mass in presence of an immense multitude, upon an alter an immense multitude, upon an alturerected on purpose, and from which benedictions will descend upon those assembled, as well as upon the entire race in America The Canadian population has surely blessed in the past, for the 75,000 inhabitants of 1759, have increased to upwards of 2,000,000, and to-day the representaof 2,000,000, and to-day the representatives of this great family in the County of E-sex are assembled at Amherstburg to celebrate the great festival of St. Jean Baptiste." He closed by wishing the societies assembled a long and useful existence, and set the audience laughing by wishing that every young unmarried lady might shortly obtain a worthy young St.

The Wyandotte Chief next lit his pipe, formed in the head of his tomahawk, using native tobacco, and the old fashioned using native tobacco, and the old lashinder flint and steel, with a piece of punk-wood, to obtain the fire with which to light it, after which all the leading gentlemen upon the platform were invited to smoke the pipe of peace, and after this ceremony, the Chief delivered a short harangue in

ROMAN CATHOLIC MODEL SCHOOL.

ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS.

From the Hamilton Spectator, July The annual examinations of the R. C. Model School began on Monday, June 21st, and closed on Tuesday, 29th. The subjects comprised all the English branches, including Christian Doctrine. A lively interest was manifested by all the candidates, and the results on the whole were alike satisfactory to candidates, teachers and examiners. Rev. Superintendent O'Leary conducted the examinations, and was assisted by Principal Donovan and Assistant-Master Groerrer. On Wednesday the oral examinations were On wednesday the oracle animators when held, Rev. Father Maguire taking a prominent part and questioning the pupils closely and comprehensively. A reference to the entertainment in the afternoon has been made in another paragraph. The clerical examiners expressed themselves highly satisfied with the manner in which the I rincipal and his assistants had per-formed their duties during the session. Since Mr. Donovan's first connection with the separate schools he has labored faith-fully for their improvement, and it must be gratifying to him that his success has been so marked and his work so thoroughly appreciated. The particulars of the exnations in the other schools will be published as soon as the records can be completed.

The annual examination of the classes in the Girls' Department of the R. C. Model School, of this city, opened on Monday, the 21st, and were closed on the 30th. They were, as usual, written, and embraced the work of the last year. It is gratifying to be able to state that the papers exhibited a more than ordinary improvement on those of last year, the pupils in the Senior Department averaging seventy-five per cent. of the marks obtainable, while one young lady, Miss Nellie Dwyer, made the handsome return of ninety-two per cent. on the whole examination. In the Junior Department the average was about fifty-five per cent., seventy-five awarded to Miss M. Harte, being the highest obtained by any pupil. MISSION BY THE REDEMPTORISTS.

The Roman Catholics of this place were highly favored by the Grace of God, in a visit from the Redemptorist Fathers of Boston. A mission was held by them, commencing on the 20th, and ending on the 27th ult. during which many whose the 27th ult. during which many whose indevotion and tepidity were a source of continual pain to their pastor, whose untiring zeal for their welfare needs not the feeble efforts of my pen to portray, and moreover, was never better exemplified than during that ever memorable mission-week, worthily received the blessed sacra-

I confess my inability to adequately describe the invaluable service rendered to the parish and its vicinity by the good Fathers whose incessant and indefatigable labors became more strenuous and imposing as they approached the end. Many were the recipients of the numerous graces and blessings imparted by their holy admonitions and devout practices; but above all do we thank God—"the Giver of all good gifts," for the innumerable gifts bestowed upon us, and with such lavish hand during that holy mission.

The spontaneous and noble response to the call of the Fathers was, in itself, apparently supernatural. Never was the true Catholic spirit better exhibited than on that occasion, when, as if a magic wand had made a few undulations in the atmosphere labors became more strenuous and impos nade a few undulations in the atmosphere made a few undulations in the atmosphere which was carried by its vibrations to the heart of each, so did each, young and old, great and small, arise imbued with the same spirit and gird themselves in preparation for the duties required in the fulfilment of the mission. What a noble sight to see them, treaming into town at 5 o'clock see them streaming into town at 5 o'clock A. M. and departing at 9 o'clock P. M. The conclusion of the mission was most

As our new and elegant church is dedicated to "Our Lady Help of Christians," so on the last evening but one of the mission did the Redemptorist Father Rossbach dedicate the Catholic children of this Pardedicate the Cathonic enduren of this Parish to the same holy title, they answering in a loud and distinct voice in the affirmative the questions required by the dedication. On the subsequent evening he dedicated the whole congregation, the sublinations required by the dedicated the whole congregation, the sublinations are the subsequent evening he dedicated the whole congregation, the sublinations are the subsequences are the subsequences. ity of which is indescribable; the attitude and determination of the congregation, the audible voice with which they reiterated audible voice with which they resterated their affirmation as, standing erect, with right hand uplifted before the missionary cross at the foot of the altar, they thrice unswervingly declared to comply with the requirements then and there enunciated, of the dedication, this in itself was a holy and edifying sight; would to God we could witness it oftener.

May the blessings imparted by the pious Fathers remain long and lasting among

Fathers remain long and lasting among us, and with such a good and happy con-gregation, it is to be hoped it will, and they in turn should never cease to breathe a thankful and earnest prayer for the eter-nal as well as the temporal welfare of the nai as well as the temporal weinare of the good, the holy and the pious Fathers, who have left so much good with them. On the 30th ult, the quarterly examina-tion of the R. C. separate school took place, when about 825 worth of prizes were awarded to the more deserving pupils.

Rev. Father Ryan presided, and at the conclusion distributed the prizes, the Trustees and a very limited number of the ratepayers attending, ladies predominating. It is more than surprising how disinterested (charging). (educationally speaking) parents and guardians are on examination days, but how overly anxious and highly interested they become in the educational welfare of their little waifs on all other teaching days.

The trustees are energetic, pushing men, who have expressed themselves that they will spare neither pains nor expense to make their school second to none in the country. Already improvements have commenced interiorly, and Rev. Father Ryan menced interiorly, and Rev. Father Ryan has promised every assistance in his power, in order to have a good and efficient school. So may it be, and under the management of the present master we hope soon to see it make its mark.

The following is a list of the senior division, with the number of points made by each for the quarter ending 30th June, as handed to us by the teacher. 5th class: Katie McGann, 1st prize, 3.800;
