The Prince of Wales was confirmed in the Private Chapel at Windsor Castle by the Archbishop of Canterbury, in the presence of the King and Queen, the Queen-Mother, and other members of the Royal Family, and more than sixty invited guests. After the singing of "Fight the good fight" and the recital of the preface to the service, the Archbishop delivered an address, pointing out that at no more appropriate spot than the place associated with the traditional Knights of the Round Table, with Edward the Confessor, and with Edward III., who instituted the Order of the Garter, could the latest Prince Edward take his knightly vows in Christian warfare. All the circumstances, too, combined to make this a notable year for the young candidate for Confirmation who sat before him. Later was sung, to the tune of Sullivan's Jubilee hymn, a hymn specially written by the Rev. H. Dixon Wright, R.N., Chaplain at Dartmouth, who prepared the Prince for Confirmation. The service concluded with the hymn "O Jesus, I have promised," and the Benediction, given by the Primate.

The Rev. John Mockridge, rector of St. Paul's Church, Louisville, Ky., has been appointed to be vicar of Trinity Chapel, New York, to succeed the Rev. Dr. Vibbert. Trinity Chapel, in West Twenty-fifth street, is among the most important chapels of the venerable mother parish, and has in connection with it a parish school, a home for aged women, and several general activities. Mr. Mockridge has been in Louisville only since 1907. He was born in Hamilton, Ont., about thirty-eight years ago, and was educated at Trinity University, Toronto, graduating in 1893, and taking the degree of M.A. a year later. He served for several years as curate of St. Luke's Church, Toronto, going from there to Detroit, where he was the rector of the Church of the Messiah and afterwards of St. Andrew's Church, retiring from the latter in 1907 to accept his present place in Louisville. The Rev. John Mockridge is a deputy-elect from Kentucky to the coming General Convention.

The following very serious announcement will appear in the July number of the Mission Field: "The S. P. G. Applications Sub-committee, which recommends to the Standing Committee the apportionment of its grants for the coming year, met on June 1. After a prolonged survey of the Society's work in all lands, they were compelled to report to the Standing Committee that unless a sum of £7,375 could be raised almost immediately large portions of the work which the Society is now supporting would have to be abandoned. Although the General Fund last year was not below that of the previous year, the Special Funds were much less, and many charges which had before been met by Special Funds have been thrown upon the General Fund. Among the sums which the Committee were unable to provide for carrying on of the existing work were £2,000 for Japan, £1,000 for the Rand of Johannesburg, £500 for the support of the Bishop of Polynesia and his Mission to coolies in Fiji. The Society is face to face with one of the most serious crises in its history. It is for those who value its work in the past to say whether they are prepared to see it forced to abandon some of the best work it has ever had the opportunity of doing, or whether they are ready to take immediate and vigorous action to prevent this from occurring. Nothing short of an increase of £20,000 a year in the General Fund can enable the Society to carry on its existing work satisfactorily. The Society will not go into debt. Do its supporters really wish that it should abandon a considerable portion of its work?"

The annual meeting of the Qu'Appelle Association was held at Lord Brassey's house in Park lane. Special interest was given to the meeting by the presence of the Coadjutor-Bishop of Qu'Appelle. The Bishop of Lichfield, who presided, said that he took his place as President of the Association in succession to his dear and lifelong friend, Bishop Anson, and he hoped to give what support he could to a cause which was so near to Bishop Anson's heart. At the present time the needs of North-West Canada had been brought prominently before them by the appeal of the Archbishops of Canterbury and York. It was to plead for their help in supplying those needs that the Coadjutor-Bishop of Qu'Appelle was now in England. The Coadjutor-Bishop of Qu'Appelle (Dr. Harding), who was heartily received, said that the present immigration into Western Canada was overwhelming; six hundred thousand new settlers were expected to arrive during the present year. They had made great progress in developing the work of the Diocese. In eight years the clergy had increased from twenty-four to seventy-one; the churches had grown from forty-four to ninety-eight. They were organized now into eight Rural Deaneries and two Archdeaconries. They needed at once thirty more clergy, yet they were without money, as the diocesan funds were already overdrawn. He spoke of the help already rendered to the Diocese by St. Chad's College at Regina, started three years ago by the Shropshire Mission to Canada. The College was now affiliated to the University of Saskatchewan, and ought to be put on a permanent footing. The endowment for the College now being raised in England as a memorial to Bishop Anson would prove of the greatest value to them. The College ought to be enlarged so as to accommodate at least twenty students, their great hope for the Church in that country being in the training of an indigenous clergy. Archbishop Johnson, of Moosejaw, in the Diocese of Qu'Appelle, also addressed the meeting, describing his early life as a settler in the country twenty-five years ago and the needs of the Church at the present day. The Earl of Lichfield described his visit to his uncle, Bishop Anson, in the early days of the colony, and said that the present development of the country had exceeded all their anticipations. The collections during the day for the work of the Diocese amounted to about 30l.

NAVAL REVIEW AT SPITHEAD

Novel and Elaborate Spectacle at the Canadian National this Year.

While the air is full of tales of nations adding to their fleets, what could make a more appropriate spectacle for this year's Canadian National Exhibition than a grand display of Britain's Naval power? "The Naval Review at Spithead" will do this splendidly. It shows the town with its twinkling lights as a background and the great guardians of the sea sail down in columns. The Royal Yacht comes down through the columns and as it comes, the guns of each ship roar out the Royal Salute. It is an entirely novel spectacle and one not only calculated to compel the admiration of every spectator but to rouse the patriotism of every Briton.

THE BOX FOR BROWN'S CULCH.

The missionary drove into his yard at five o'clock, tired and cold and hungry. It was growing dusky, and he was glad of that, because the wife and Little Woman, watching from the dining-room window, could not see how disappointment had stamped itself on his face.

"Papa!" it was Little Woman's voice, from the kitchen steps. "Oh, Papa! Did the bokkus comed?"

"I'll be there in just a minute, dearie," he called back. "Don't stand out here in the cold! Run!"

Little Woman skipped back into the warm kitchen, dancing with hope and excitement, and her father looked up at the frosty stars and drew a long breath.

"If I can only keep from blaming anybody!" he said. "It would have been here a week ago if somebody hadn't been shamefully careless."

"Where is it?" Little Woman demanded, as he stepped into the kitchen. "Why didn't you bring it here?" But his wife looked up at his face, and said, "Oh, Ralph!"

Nobody said anything else for a minute. Little Woman stood looking from her father to her mother, with wide eyes of wonder and dawning sorrow.

"Never mind, sweetheart," of course it was the mother who found her voice first, stooping to straighten the red bows on Little Woman's yellow
