Address and Presentation

A number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swan, fourth concession of Tyndinaga, on the evening of March 8th, when the following address was read by Mrs. C. McFarlane, and presentation made: Dear Mr. and Mrs. Swan and Ger-

We, your friends and neighbors of the fourth of Tyndinaga, are assembled here this evening to bid you good-bye and also to extend to you our very best wishes for the continuance of a happy and prosperous life in your new home in Thurlo.

We felt we could not let you leave our midst without expressing in some tangible way our appreciation of you, as true friends, obliging neighbors and faithful workers in the church; and it is with sincere regret we say good-bye.

During the many years we have been associated together we have found you ever ready and willing to give of your time and labor for the improvement of the school of this community.

Your presence will be missed from the choir and Sunday school where you have labored so faithfully for the furtherance of the Master's Kingdom, and as a slight token of our respect and esteem we ask you to accept this china cabinet as a remembrance from us.

Signed on behalf of the community and Boys' Club:
Geo. Badgley,
Gordon Snider.

Mr. Swan replied in a few words in which he stated that if he had been a good neighbor to them it was because they had been exceptionally good to him. He also expressed sincere regret that it was necessary for him to give up his class. Mrs. Swan also replied, thanking them for the good wishes expressed in the address, also the beautiful china cabinet presented, and united with Mr. Swan in giving one and all a cordial invitation to come and see them in their new home. A program of vocal and instrumental music by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Badgley, Mr. and Mrs. F. Robinson and others, interspersed with readings by Mrs. McFarlane and Miss Blakely, followed by games and later on a lunch brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

HOW PEACE CAME TO THE SCHOOL SECTION

"Old Settler" Tells Another of His Interesting Stories of Pioneer Life in North Hastings

Editor Ontario—

Back in the seventies of the last century, a young Englishman, whom we will call Mr. Archer, spent some time in looking up the prospects in the northern townships of Hastings. Funds running low, he took a position as school teacher in Montegale and Herschel, and for a short time got along very nicely.

The school supporters were about evenly divided between Roman Catholics and Protestants, and although they got along very well together in general, a very small thing was liable to make temporary trouble.

Mr. Archer, as the regulations in force at that time required, opened school every morning by reading the Lord's Prayer. The Roman Catholics had nothing against the Lord's Prayer, but did not consider a heretic school teacher a proper person to read it.

A Roman Catholic woman, who was unable to read, asked the teacher to help her little girl to learn her church catechism at the noon hour, and Mr. Archer very kindly consented to do so.

When the news that the R. C. Catechism was being actually taught in the school house, got abroad, the Protestants were furiously indignant, and it looked as though the school would be broken up entirely. As it was evident that something had to be done if the school was to be kept open, one of the trustees, whom we will call "Jim Hogan," went to the school-house to see what could be done, and Mr. Archer explained the situation and said that he had been given above.

Jimmy considered the matter a short time, and then spoke as follows:

"Mr. Archer," he said, "I'll tell you what you had better be doing. Send the catechism home and let the Lord's Prayer go to the devil, and let us have peace."

The catechism was sent home, the recitation of the Lord's Prayer was dropped, and peace prevailed through the Hogan Settlement during the remainder of Mr. Archer's term.

Hastings County
Tribute to Justice

The following interesting reference and quotation appears in the last number of the Canada Law Journal.

"In our editorial columns we refer more fully to the distinguished judicial career and to the personal worth of the late Chief Justice, who may well be called, one of the great men of Canada.

"Numerous testimonials appeared in the daily press at the time of his death. One however did not appear, and we prefer to quote it as perhaps the one most worthy of record; it is the memorial of the officers and members of the County of Hastings Law Association, expressing their deep sense of loss in the lamented death of the Chief Justice in the following words:

"The Officers and Members of the County of Hastings Law Association desire to record their deep sense of loss in the lamented death of the Honourable Sir Glenholme Falconbridge, Chief Justice of the King's Bench.

"In him centred and lived again all the old traditions, literary, scholastic, social, professional and judicial, which have lent honour and dignity to the British Bench and Bar. He fulfilled the ideals of the grand old name of gentleman and he touched nothing that he did not adorn.

As a friend, as a public spirited citizen and philanthropist, he will be missed by a still wider circle, but by none will his death be more sincerely deplored than by the Members of the Bar of this District who will ever keep green the most delightful memories of his charming and cultured personality and intercourse so genial and generously shared. And we desire to extend to Lady Falconbridge and all the other members of the bereaved family our sincerest sympathy and condolence."
