Harry Jones back

Harry Jones has returned to Dawson, and not alone. Both these facts are already known and heralded his home coming to Dawson. But it is the latter one which has set his partner in the Dawson Hardware concern thinking deeply. He blushed today when it was suggested in scriptural phrase that he go and do likewise, and tried to evade the issue by the trite statement that there were plenty of pretty girls here now, without going to the trouble to import them. The fact remains that he is thinking of taking a trip out as soon as he has broken in Mr. Jones to a resumption of business habits.

That Other Body

The fifteen policemen who are engaged in the search for the body seen by the mate of the Dawson floating in the Yukon on Sunday, had made no report up to noon today. The probabilities are that the body came past this city soon after it was reported to the police, as it was in the current when seen, and would travel nearly as fast as the steamer unless it struck an eddy.

Released on Bail

C. Kerr-Wilson, who was arrested at Whitehorse recently under a capias warrant has been released on bail. It is stated that when Mr. Wilson left the city he had no intention of leaving for the outside, but had gone to Whitehorse in the employ of Cecil Cole for the purpose of hurrying up a large shipment of machinery now en route for the big East Chance operator.

NEGLECT FATAL

It is always the small things, which one is liable to disregard, that often prove most serious and often fatal. A cough or a cold in itself is insignificant, but if not promptly treated often results in pneumonia, consumption and an early death. Avoid all risks by getting a bottle of Cribbs' Cough Cure—it does the work. Try it, then tell your friends. CRIBBS, The Druggist King St., next to Post Office, First Ave., opp. White Pass Dock.

Co., who allege he is in their debt in the extent of $1100, has been released from custody by turning over to the company all his interest in the boarding house he formerly ran on Bonanza creek and the accounts that were due him.

M. A. Pinsky, of the firm of Sargent & Pinsky, has returned from a trip to the outside, but when asked for an interview this morning he could talk of nothing but the fine stock of goods he has brought back from the east with him and was just then opening up. He left here on July 13th and after spending some time at his old home in St. Paul, visited Chicago, San Francisco, Seattle and Vancouver.

TURKEY TOMORROW

Thanksgiving Will be Generally Observed

Business to be Entirely Suspended—Services in All the Churches.

Lord Minto will be pleased to learn through the Nugget that the first proclamation he has addressed to the Yukon people since the one in regard to the coronation, has been received with the most distinguished consideration. Although he uses a great lot of parliamentary verbiage in his message to us, and takes up one-half of the space devoted to the matter in the Nugget with his own name and honorable titles, he failed to obscure the meaning of the portentous document. Any school boy would have written it in much briefer form; would have given the date and after it the two words "Turkey Day." But his lordship desired to be particularly polite to the people of Yukon, as he no doubt wishes, as do the majority of us, to see a gentleman elected as the first member of parliament sent from the Yukon.

There was a fine show of the womanly beauty of the Klondike in the streets this morning and afternoon, picking out the birds of Thanksgiving, and the old sourdoughs watched them as their minds went back to the days—the good old days, of course—when one turkey was raffled off for $300. There were fewer families here then, and still fewer turkeys when Thanksgiving Day came around.

All the federal and territorial offices will be closed tomorrow in order to give the whole force plenty of time to give thanks in a seemingly merry mood uninterrupted by business cares, and all the merchants and their clerks will also take a day off and prepare, as does the bear and the dormouse, for a long winter.

The churches will all have special services, the Methodist and the Presbyterian joining together in the large church of the latter to make the volume of thanks grander. The pastors, as a matter of fact, have a great deal to be thankful for, and will be glad of assistance. It will be a grand service of praise in St. Paul's Episcopal church, and the Rev. Warren will felicitate himself and his congregation upon the change from last Thanksgiving, when their thanks were tendered in a round-roofed log cabin. The Rev. Grant will renew his thanks for the splendid edifice and he will assist his eloquent and raised by his energy and eloquence, already popular brother in the cloth, Rev. Barraclough, to give thanks for his new parsonage.

The Roman Catholics also, who were the first of all the churches to erect a substantial and handsome edifice for worship, will offer up thanks for the new bishop who recently arrived and whose sermon in his cathedral in his eloquent discourse at the morning service, to his thankfulness for being called from the bleak and barren shores of the MacKenzie to this; the flower garden of the mighty Yukon. The churches will have a good time tomorrow.

Everybody will have a good time, and the holiday will be more universally observed than ever before.

The Salvation Army saw bucks will take a rest along with the rest of the machinery, and there will be a big turkey dinner for all those who have no other place to give thanks, as there has been ever since the army has occupied its log cabin barracks.

Pardons of a Year

Washington, Oct. 2.—James Easby Smith, pardon attorney in the department of justice, has rendered to the attorney-general his report of pardon work during the year ending June 30 last. The report shows that 796 cases were handled. The majority of them were reported adversely by district attorneys and judges and not considered by the president.

The president acted on 315 cases, of which he denied 181 and exercised executive clemency in some form in 134. He granted 86 pardons, 3 conditional pardons, 29 pardons to restore civil rights and commuted 36 sentences.

THAT EAGLE TO BE FREE

His Cage to be Opened on Thanksgiving

Will Probably Scream 'Not for Joe' All Along the Creeks.

That splendid eagle caught recently in the Rockies and exhibited by Dr. Horban, although a young bird, has been found to be too tough for Thanksgiving turkey in consequence his life has been spared all tomorrow he will have a Thanksgiving of his own. This afternoon the noble bird was preening itself with all the coquetry of a young girl going to meet her first lover. It was no longer creaking "Not for Joe," but was busily chattering over and over again an original couplet:

"Tomorrow at 3 I am going to dew. He has undoubtedly had the aid of Dr. Horban in the manufacture of this rhyme, and has diabolically improved upon it. The doctor's stiff touch is recognizable in the poem which decorates and may be said to illumine with its masterly puns and patrioticism the present position of the captive eagle. As a postscript he is even more able than as a rhymer. In the charades of the night the poetry on the cage of the eagle more meanings, deeply mysterious than the one on its face, may be interpreted. It is well to read between the lines; the following lines:

"This bird is too noble a captive to be. He represents all that is noble and free.

On Thanksgiving Day, in the name of the King, This type of his nation will again spread the wing. He may stay in the Yukon, so full of success, Or may wind his way back to his native U. S."
