AN ALL DAY SERVICE.

which Chatham is supplied at the he would have to pay freight on all present time, has come in for papers taken to outside places. The considerable spirited criticism of late. reason, expressed in his paper, is Since the days have become shorter, because he has not been very comgreat annoyance and inconveni- plimetatary to the railway of latte, ence is caused to merchants, manu- and did not submit his articles to facturers and others using the ser- the Company before they were pubvice, on acount of the lateness in the lished. The Standard man evidently afternoon before the electric curlikes to travel, and he does not like rent is turned on. In some cases his pass cancelled. He has explainthrough the fack of light.

It is no doubt difficult for the

on the current which will accommodate everyone, and the only satisfactory way out of the difficulty seems to be the establishment of an all-day service the year round. During the summer months the current is on continuously, to operate electric fans ,etc., and the scarcity of complaints during such season i very noticeable. As soon as the warm months are gone, the telephones get busy, and the common query is, "What's the matter with the lights? When are you going to turn on the current?"

Other cities, some of them much smaller and of considerably less im portance than Chatham have allday electric light services, and there is no possible reason why one should established here. The matter has arrived at that stage where it is a public demand.

The Times, published in Prince Al bert, Sask., announces the fact that the hotel keepers in that place have Boosted the price of Booze." Judging from the recent capers of some of the politicians in that province, the hotel keepers would have done a better turn if they had left the price alone and "boosted the quality." In the latter event, too, there might not be such a big kick coming from the T.mes.

The Brantford Courier staff has been working overtime of late, noting the different weddings which have taken place there with unerring regularity. The Courier seems to view these circumstances as signs of prosperity. It says: "If marriages show the prosperity of a community, then this city is the wealthiest on the planet." It is either a sign of wealth or laziness. It has often been remarked with undisputed wisdom, that an idle young man is sure to get into trouble.

The editor of the Windsor Record has been reading the controversy in The Planet over the spelling of the "Armory." He says: 'Chatham citizens, who, it seems, have been favorably impressed by President Roosevelt's phonetic spelling code, are shocked to find the word "Armoury" engraved on the front of building. their new government They are miserable in good company Windsor's drillshed is similarly tagged. But the militia department at Ottawa is probably as good an authority as Roosevelt."

Those who throw banana peel about our streets would find themselves in a very unpleasant situation if caught doing so in London, says the Montreal Witness, and the comment is equally appliable to the people of Chatham. The County Council, which rules London and its adjoining boroughs, recently passed a law which provides a fine of ten dollars for throwing fruit rinds on the sidewalks, the magistrate having no power to mitigate the sentence or its alternative of imprisonment with hard labor, should the culprit not pay the fine. The reason for the enactment of this severe law was the death of a pedestrian who slipp I on a banana peel, fell and frac red his skull. A similar acciden occurred on St. Catherine street a few days ago. A man hastening to catch a street car trod on the treacherous peeling, was violently thrown to the ground and severely shocked and shaken. It is astonishing that anybody would do so mean and cruel a thing as to throw banana skins on the pavements. But there are such people, as any one may see while walking on the streets. There is, we believe, a city by-law against it, but we never heard of its enforcement.

The Ottawa Citizen enters a proest against the operations of the bill distributor who goes from house to house throwing the bills on porches doorways from which the winds that blow usually do the real distributing over the lawns and streets. That sort of thing is licensed in Ottawa and prombited by by-law in Hamilton. Judging by the way the by-law is not enforced in this city the mistake made here was in not licensing the distributors, thus getting a revenue from them.-Hamilon spectator.

If the local authorities would only look sharp, there might be an increased revenue in Chatham from this

The St. Catharines Standard man awoke the other day to find his annual pass on the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Street Railway The electric light service, with cancelled. He also found out that valuable time is completely lost ed the whole thing to his readers, and says he will stick to his guns in spite of the mean and naughty company to set a time for turning railway men, and will continue to endeavor to make the company live up to the requirements of franchise. He is now out hot foot after a complete transfer sys em.

astronomer declares that there are 68,000,000 stars. If he were to try the banana peel route he might possibly discover that there are an odd dozen or so more.
