They fired the barn and house, and were about to hang Dalzell when a reinforcement of policemen arrived, and Dalzell and his son, who was also implicated, were rescued from the crowd and plicated, were rescued from the crowd and

BINGS LEOPOLD'S AMERICAN TOUR.

LETTER BY CABLE.

A Sure and Certain Sign of Sum-

NEW YORK HERALD BUREAU, ) LONDON, May 1.

While the naturalists announce in the aily papers the arrival of the early swal-ow and the cuckoo, the Times devotes self to the discussion of a more sure and self to the discussion of a more sure and ertain sign of the coming summer. A able message that the American steamers re crowded with pleasure seekers induces the "Thunderer" to congratulate the old world on the fact that the new world is world on the fact that the new world is preparing to eujoy its humours. "Everywhere," it says, "there is a murmur of reviving trade and a flood of visitors rushing with full purses. Americans act on a contrary principle to that of migratory birds deserting their country in the flood of prosperity. The American believes that money is made to spend, and puts it to its natural destination without loss of time." The Times grows eloquent in reminding its readers how Englishmen in America are frequently the guests of the nation, and says it would rejoice to see Englishmen helping Americans to make the intimate acquaintance with English life which tends to permanent international good-will, removing surface roughness and which tends to permanent international good-will, removing surface roughness and crudities. The preparations for receiving tourists are on a particularly large scale in Europe this year. They are especially busy just now at Brussels with the International exhibition, and at Munich with the Ober Ammergau Passion Play. The latter has unfortunately secured the attention of the London tourists' agencies, who are making a speculation of hiring houses in the district, although the village of Ammergau has refused to entertain their offers.

SHAKESPEARE'S 316TH BIRTHDAY.

SHAKESPEARE'S 316TH BIRTHDAY, Stratford-on-Avon is to have a dramatic fate in honour of the three hundred and sixteenth anniversary of the birthday of Shakespeare. Barry Sullivan, it seems, has undertaken to give a three weeks season in the Memorial Theatre, assistseason in the Memorial Theatre, assisted by a company of well meaning ladies and gentlemen. Performances will be given on five evenings each week and a matinee on Saturday afternoon. A correspondent writes that the hotel proprietors lodging house keepers and tradesmen are in despair. The citizens declare that the prices of admission are entirely too high. They want a three-penny theatre instead of a half-crown pit. The programme includes "Hamlet," "As You Like It," "Othello," "The Merchant of Venice," "Much Ado About Nothing." As many as sixty visitors arrived at Stratford-on-Avon on the third day. The Shakespeare Memorial Association have decided to give an exhibition of paintings next year illustrating Shakesperian subjects, but the worshin of the Divine William is not a success at the place of his birth.

THE POET LAUREATE'S LAST. The following is Mr. Tennyson's last poem. It is entitled "De Profundis," and is published in the Nineteenth Century for

Out of the deep, my child, out of the deep; where all that was to be in all that was, whirled for a million sens thro' the vast. Waste dawn of reultitudiaous eddying light.

Out of the deep, my child, out of the deep.

Thro all this changing world of changeless law, and after phase of ever heightening life, and sine long months of ante-natal gloom, with this last moon, this creecent, her dark orb, Touched with earth's light, thou comest, darling boy;
Our own, a babe in lineament and limb;
Perfect, and prophet of the perfect man; whose face and form are hers and mine in one, indiscolubly married, like our love.
Live and he happy in thyself and serve This mortal race, thy kin, so well that men May bless thee, as we bless thee, O, young life, Breaking with laughter from the dark, and may The fated channel where thy motion lives, Be prosperously shaped and sway thy course Along the years of haste and random youth Unshattered, then full current thro'full man. And last, in kindly curves, with gentlest fall, By quiet fields, a slowly dying power,
To tnat last deep where we and thou are still.

HER MAJESTY'S YOUNGEST SON. HER MAJESTY'S YOUNGEST SON.

Prince Leopold leaves on May 13th, accompanied by the Hon. Alexander Yorke and Dr. Rhyl. He will first visit his sister at Ottawa, then follow a route including Montreal, Toronto, St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinati, Washington, New York, which his Royal Highness is particularly eager to see, and Newport. He will in all spend four months in America, being anxious to see the new world and gather fresh experiences. The Prince is far from being in as satisfactory a state of health as her Majesty could desire, and the Queen has expressed a hope to his attendants that he may not beoverburdened with Canadian hospitality, as his wide and the Canadian hospitality, as his wide with Canadian hospitality. beoverburdened with Canadian hospitality, as his visit to the American continent is entirely for the benefit of his health.

PARNELL'S PLANS UPSET.

Parliament excites but little interest. While the new members are being sworn to, the populace amuses itself by following and cheering Mr. Gladstone whenever they see him, as they formerly followed and cheered Lord Beaconsfield. Occasionally the performance is diversified by hooting at a few stray Zulus who are sometimes seen in the streets. Mr. Gladstone's appointments receive no special consideration. The appointment of Mr. Chamberlain and Sir Charles Dilke has, however, completely upset the plans of the Parnellites, who counted upon a purely Whig Cabinet, and consequently expected aid from the malcontent Radicals. It is said that Mr. Robert Lowe having heard somebody remark that history does not record such a promotion as that of Mr. Montagu Corry to be a Baron, replied, "That is not so strange, Lord Boaconsfield had a good precedent. Did not Caligula make his horse a pro-consul?" PARNELL'S PLANS UPSET.

Mr. Gladstone has neither talked nor post-carded during the week. His "hands off" policy has created too much of a disputation rentes have fallen off policy has created too much of a discurbance. Austrian rentes have fallen during the week, and I learn that Count Karolyi will feally leave London sine die. In fact, Mr. Gladstone has made Austria until indignant. A Croat newspaper, the Soloboda, publishes an article in Croatian, French and Italian, esting forth the great appearance and Italian, esting forth the great appearance are succeeded among the southern Sclava. The article says it is time that the Croatians should also deliver their country from the tyranny of Austria, and if the Balkan federation becomes a reality, they will sing along with the name of the Czar he glory of Gladstone. A certain degree of uneasiness is felt at Vienna owing to a neeting of the heads of the Italian Irrelenta party at Veuice, which is the head-uarters of the Italian as well as of the Ibanian agitators. Mr. Mundella, in an interview, which is published, declares hat the Liberal leaders desire to bring bont a Balkan federation.
