Teacher: "Now listen what is 'calmness'?" "Lizzie," "Calmness" is—when nobody does nothing and somebody goes and tells on him.

"Come along with me and have a fine time," remarked a policeman to a man he arrested. "I'm afraid you are trying to tell me," replied the prisoner.

An absent husband telegraphed to his wife: "I send you a kiss." He received as a reply: "Spruce young man called and delivered the kiss in good order."

Extract from a letter from Angelina: "Dear Henry, you ask if I return your love. Yes, Henry, I have no use for it, and I return it with many thanks."

Mrs. Brownstone says if she has a dog she wants one of those great Sarah Bernhardt dogs that dig those dear old monks out of the snow in Switzerland.

A lawyer says that a convenient way of testing the affections of young intended is to marry another woman. If she doesn't love you, you will find it out immediately.

"And don't you forget it!" is now fashionably rendered in esthetic circles. "And do not permit the impression to be obliterated from the cells of your recollections."

A young lady being refused a new silk dress by her father, told him he resembled a part of a stovepipe. "What part?" he asked. "The damper," she replied and wept copiously.

A little Harlem girl went out of the house the other morning and shouted to a play-mate: "Oh! Beesie, we've got a baby at our house! Not a doll-baby, but a real home-made baby."

Household Hints.

Oil of lavender will drive away flies. Grained wood should be washed with cold tea.

If paper has been laid under the carpet all dust may be easily removed with it. Mortar and paint may be removed from window glass with hot, sharp vinegar.

Copperas mixed with whitewash put upon the cellar walls will keep vermin away.

Drain pipes and all places that are sour or impure may be cleansed with lime water or carbolic acid.

The warmth of floors is greatly increased by having carpet linings of layers of paper under the carpet.

Strong brine may be used to advantage in washing bedsteads. Hot alum water is good for this purpose.

Cayenne pepper blown into the cracks where ants congregate will drive them away. The same remedy is also good for mice.

If gilt frames, when new, are covered with a coat of white varnish, all specks can then be washed off with water without harm.

If the bedstead creaks at each movement of the sleeper, remove the slats and wrap the end of each in an old newspaper. This will prove a complete silence.

If the wall about the stove has been smoked by the stove, cover the place or patches with gumshellac, and they will not strike through either paint or calico.

Carpets should be thoroughly beaten on the wrong side first, and then on the right side; after which spots may be removed by the use of ox gall or ammonia and water.

Furniture needs cleaning as much as other wood work. It may be washed with warm soap suds quickly, wiped dry and then rubbed with an oil cloth. To polish it rub with rotten stone and sweet oil. Clean off the oil and polish with diamonds skin.

Which kind finished wall have been lacquered, the solid coats should be washed or scraped off before a new one is put on. This is the most disagreeable part of the process. The furniture should be covered, as the lime makes spots that are removed with difficulty, especially upon black walnut.

Bronchitis.

Bronchitis comes from colds and irritations of the Throat; Hoarseness, Cough and Sore Throat are its characteristics. These troubles may be remedied by a timely use of Hagar's Pectoral Balm.

For Weddings.

It is no longer the fashion to display the presents at the wedding. They are arranged in an upper room and shown to a few friends of the bride the day before the ceremony. Nor is it the fashion for the bride to wear any jewels. These are reserved for her first appearance as a married woman.

Velvet is the material chosen for the mother's dress at the wedding of her daughter, and the real lace flounces and shawls that have been long out of use are in vogue again for the trimming.

A stately dress with black velvet basque and train has a mauve satin front covered with black Chantilly lace; a shawl of the lace is draped on one side, and held by large jet ornaments. A mauve vest is set in below the square opening of the corsage, and a bunch of mauve ostrich feathers is on the waist, while a border of these feathers is around the entire train. The reader will observe that trains are more trimmed along the edges than they have been of late, with either rows of loops or inches deep set above the edge of the train and falling on a soft main puff, or else with feathers that also rest on a puff or satin.

First Lightning.

All sufferers from that terrible torment Neuralgia, can be made happy in one moment by a single application of Fluid Lightning. Fluid Lightning is a powerful medicine day after day with little or no result. Fluid Lightning also cures as effectually Toothache, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Headache, and is only 35 cents per bottle at Geo. Rhynas' Drug Store.

COUNTY CLIPPINGS.

Blyth is moving to have a division court established there.

Robert Graham, a Bonaville grain dealer, shipped last week 11,000 bushels of wheat, being 25 car loads, for export to England. This is the largest shipment of this kind ever made from Bonaville.

Mrs. Anderson, of the township of Stephen, owns a goose whose knowledge of the season appears to be mixed. This fall it has laid ten eggs and is still engaged adding at the number.

The Wingham quail club's pitching for the season was finished last Friday, when the match for the butter dish given by Wm. Elliott, in the light weight class, and the cricket stand given by J. Patterson, in the heavy weight class, was concluded. There were but few competitors, only six entering for the light weight and three for the heavy. The former was won by T. Leslie and the latter by Wm. McElmoy.

Geo. McKibbin, J. P., has returned to Wingham, after spending a month visiting at Peaton, Peterborough, Toronto and other places. He says that he has purchased a residence in Toronto, where he purposes making his future home, and where he will go into real estate business. He expects to remove to that city about the first of next March.

A special meeting of the town fathers was held in the Orange hall, Blyth, Friday evening last for the purpose of meeting Mr. Forsyth, of Michigan, to hear what assistance he required to help him in starting a woolen mill here. After hearing what he had to say upon the subject, a resolution was adopted to pass a by-law to loan him $2,000 for fifteen years, he to pay it back in equal instalments with 6 per cent. interest, and to give them such security as may be agreed upon by the council. On Monday night next, it being the regular night of meeting, it will be decided when a vote will be taken.

The Wingham Times says:—In our last issue we gave an account of an old man named Richard Greer, who came from Inverhuron on his way to Buffalo, with but one dollar in his pocket, and who took up lodgings provided by Pettipiece for several nights, and was then sent back home. It now turns out that Greer is not the poor tramp he was taken for. He owns a farm of 140 acres in the township of Inverhuron, has some $3,000 or $4,000 in the bank, and generally speaking is pretty well fixed. However, he does not appear to enjoy his wealth like other people, but prefers to go about the country in the guise of a tramp and sponge his way. Those who know him say he is a professional beggar.

At a meeting of the Huron Presbytery held at Exeter the other week, it was arranged that missionary sermons should be preached wherever possible, on December 6th or 13th, according to the following scheme:—Blyth, Rev. Mr. Stewart; Manchester, etc., Rev. Mr. Ramsey; Londonborough, Rev. Mr. Pritchard; Clinton, Rev. Mr. McLean; Seaford, Rev. Dr. Ure; Goderich, Rev. Mr. McDonald; Edmundville, Rev. Mr. Mungrate; McKillop, etc., Rev. Mr. McCoy; Bayfield, etc., Rev. Mr. Carver; Bayfield Road, etc., Rev. Mr. Forrest; Grand Bend, Rev. Mr. Dauby; Kippen, etc., Rev. Mr. Martin; Henric, etc., Rev. Mr. Fletcher; Exeter, Rev. Mr. Achison; Thames Road, Rev. Mr. Thompson.

STRAFFORD AND PERTH.—The arbitrators appointed to settle the matters in dispute between the city of Stratford and the county of Perth on account of Stratford becoming separated from the county have completed their labors and handed in their report. The arbitrators were Judge Wilkinson of Napane, appointed by the Lieutenant Governor; John McMillan, Esq., Reeve of Hallett, appointed by the county; and John E. Harding, Esq., barrister, appointed by Stratford. The award turns out to be much more favorable to the county than was anticipated. It requires the city to pay $19,000 as its share of the county debt on or before the 1st of April next, with interest at 5 per cent. This it seems is five thousand dollars more than the county offered to settle for last June without any arbitration and the city refused the offer claiming that it was not sufficiently favorable. Had they accepted this offer, however, they would now be five thousand dollars better off besides their share of the expenses of the arbitration which will not be a trifling matter. As its share of the cost of the administration of justice, Stratford is to pay $15 for every $85 paid by the county. It will thus be seen that Mr. McMillan, although only a lay-man, has held his own and a little more, with the eminent legal gentlemen associated with him on the arbitration. We stated at the time Mr. McMillan's appointment was made that the county had chosen wisely and the result proves the wisdom of their action. We have no doubt, however, that the verdict rendered is just one as we know that while Mr. McMillan would secure full justice for those in whose interests he was acting, he would not ask for nor desire to procure more.

SEAFORTH EXPOSITOR.—Four months ago Mr. Lu Woods, of this place, left on a trip to the old country. It was known that he left Glasgow on his return, on Oct. 24, on the steamer Titania, of the Donaldson Line, but the vessel not arriving on time, considerable anxiety was manifested among his relatives, and fears began to be entertained that he had been lost. However, he arrived home on Saturday last, safe and sound, but having had an experience that he does not care to repeat. The vessel encountered very stormy weather in crossing the Atlantic, and passed Belle Isle on the 2nd of Nov., and while proceeding up the gulf a gale came on which next day drove the vessel on a reef, which was a portion of the Island of Anticosti; the captain sent off a boat for assistance, but the boat was wrecked and the crew, fortunately washed ashore. Another boat was sent out to West Point to telegraph for assistance, and after several days of anxious waiting, relief came. Mr. Woods says their experience on the stranded vessel the first day and night, was something terrible; no one slept, and as the waves rolled over the vessel they expected it to go to pieces at any time, but it gradually calmed down, although their position was even then far from desirable. They lived on short rations, being on the island eleven days; there were a couple of unoccupied huts on the island, presumably belonging to fishermen, where some of the crew managed to shelter themselves. All the passengers were compelled to cut wood during the day, to keep themselves warm at night. Mr. Woods looks none the worse of his experience, but he emphatically says "Not any more, thank you."—[New Era.

THE JURY DISAGREE

In the Trial of Havelock Smith for the Murder of Figgitt, and are Discharged.

The trial of Havelock Smith, for the murder of Marshall Piggott, was resumed at St. Thomas yesterday morning. Colin Macdonnell, Q.C., made an eloquent address of three hours' duration on behalf of the prisoner, and was followed by J. Dingdon, Q.C., who made an eloquent and lengthy address on behalf of the Crown. Justice Armour then laid the case before the jury, reviewing the evidence, and failed to commit to consider their verdict at six o'clock, and at 8:15 p.m. sent word to the Judge there was no possibility of their coming to an agreement. They were then discharged.

Amst Susan's Opinion.

I've been over to the Johnsons' a-vi-tin', an' I'm free to say that I hain't been so riled up in a good spell as I was there. They treated me first rate, an' Miss Johnson, she seemed real glad to see me, an' asked me to come agin, but it was the foolishness of them girls that stirred me up so.

"They've got what the papers call the 'decorative craze'." They've got it real bad, too. I dunno what it is, but I'm afraid it'll leave 'em kind o' senseless. They seem that way, now, to me. I could cure 'em of it, if they was my girls. I'd prescribe a good, thur course o' house-work for 'em, an' I'd make 'em take it in good sized doses every day.

Now I hain't no objections whatever to seein' things fixed up nice an' purty. I like to see 'em so, but there's a common sense in all things. I say it's got over it, the ribbins round the legs o' the chairs, an' it's all foolishness to bring in an old milk-stool an' paint it, an' dabb picters all over it, an' put bows on it, an' set it in a corner an' call it ornamental. It ain't purty, an' it ain't useful, an' if things ain't one thing or 'tother, what's the good o' havin' 'em round?"

"I don't fancy 'em," sez Miss Johnson, sez she to me, "but land! they're all the go, an' the girls won't be behind the times. I dunno's there'll be a solitary thing in the house that ain't decorated by the time they git thru. Jest see this boot-jack," sez she, an' I swan if that hadn't been 'decorated' an' had a big blue bow on it! 'An' 'tother day the girls read about it bein' all the rage to have a decorated bucket in the parlor, an' they've been a huntin' all over the neighborhood to find one that was in use in somebody's well-to-do Father. He says it's all foolishness, but I s'pose the girls like it, an' I want to be kind o' like other folks."

"I agree with him," sez L. "It is all foolishness. It's a style. It never will be. It's jest folks a tryin' to do somethin' they don't know what. A thing ain't worth spendin' time an' money over unless there's some idee in it. You can't say there is one idee of sense in boot-jacks with bows on 'em. Bows ain't intended for boot-jacks. An' boot-jacks ain't intended for parlor ornaments. It's a ridio 'un for folks to putter with such nonsense an' try to make themselves think they're makin' a thing artistic. Fads! There ain't the first thing artistic about it! It's worse than the card-board craze that we had a few years ago, an' that was bad enough. If girls would only get up a little enthusiasm over their mother's 'makin' things pleasant for her, it'd be a great deal more to their credit. Decorate her life with little acts o' kindness that she can appreciate. They will make you look better to her than all your fuss-work, an' you'll git real pleasure out of it, for there's an idee o' sense in it. Its bright-ain' up other folks' lives, an' I take it we can't spend our time in a more satisfactory kind o' decoratin' than that is. Fritterin' away time on boot-jacks an' buckles, an' tryin' ribbons on to chair legs, an' all such outlandish foolishness makes folks shaller, an' selfish, an' all on the outside. Its jest doin' things for show, an' tryin' to cover up old trumpery so it'll look fancy to other foolish folks. It ain't good sense, or good taste, or good anything."—[AUSTIN SUSAN.
