A MYSTERIOUS QUEST.

CHAPTER XLVII.

LOOSE THREADS.

(Concluded.)

The test, as we know, succeeded. Miss Rogers was moved by the letter, and show the same elation over that of Montelli.

The artist, impressed by his earnestness, had consented to listen to him so far as to wait a week before seeing Miss Rogers, but, love triumphing over reason, had soon wearied of this promise, and, coming to Mr. Byrd, announced that Miss Rogers could not be the mercenary woman they considered her, or she would never have decided to give up her fortune for his love.

But, alas! a day had not passed before he had cause to regret this. A woman was brought into the station-house who called herself Annetta, and who was presently proved to be the sister of the Portuguese.

self followed by the officer who arrested her. But this mischance did not ultimately prevent the police from obtaining a full confession from her.

Jenny Rogers is dead, and yet, for the Degraws, life holds much in prospect. In a certain New York home there is a noble woman, who is now the comfort of the artist's grief, and who will live to be the angel of his home, while in a quaint but unfashionable square, below Fourteenth street, there dwells and smiles a little being whose name recalls bitter memories, but whose sunny nature and unfettered spirit make it more than probable that the Delancy millions will again follow the beck of love and be bestowed not upon Virginia Rogers, but upon Jeannette, the name by which both the Degraws persist in addressing the charming young school teacher.

WHAT'S BRED IN THE BONE.

CHAPTER I.

'You wish to see Lady Nesbitt? Pray walk in, madame. I think she is at home.'

I stumbled out of the cab, a little flurried at being so unexpectedly addressed—for the long terrace had been quite unoccupied a moment before—and found my elbow being upheld by the hand of a tall brown-faced gentleman in a velvet shooting-jacket, who courteously relieved me of my rug, my umbrella, and a rather disreputable-looking blue band-box.

'Take care, there is another step, you see? Don't be afraid of the dog; they won't touch you. Down, Spot—down, Dandy—to heel, both of you!'

'Then, as the footman flung open the door of the large stone mansion, which stood in the centre of a richly imbered park, I awkwardly turned to regain possession of my unsightly property.'

'Give—give me the band-box, please. I am the new governess, Marie Bernard, from the convent.'

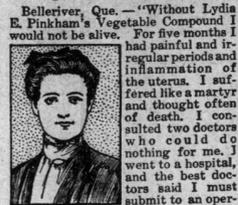

'The young lady whom Lady Nesbitt has been expecting from Belgium? I hope you have had a pleasant passage. You crossed from Antwerp, I presume, this morning?'

'Oh, yes, I exclaimed, turning in impulsive dismay to my new master. "I did not know I was to have a pupil as old as that! The reverend mother assured me that both the children were under ten!"'

'My love, pray reassure this young lady! She is afraid you will prove a rather troublesome pupil and objects to your advanced age and—forward appearance!'

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleriver, Que.—'Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I was taken to hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had become so emaciated I went back home much discouraged.'

Another operation avoided. Poughkeepsie, N.Y.—'I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all kinds of nervousness and backache. I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for womb trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me more than the doctors did. I have gained five pounds. I hope that every one who is suffering from female troubles, nervousness and backache will take the Compound. I owe my thanks to Mrs. Pinkham. She is the working girl's friend for health, and all women who suffer from these troubles should take her advice.'

to press their plump chests in order to produce the squeaky "Mama" and "Papa" that used to call forth such exclamations of delight in the infant division.

'Am I not, Birdie?' I answered cheerfully, as, a couple of hours later, refreshed by a good dinner, I was resting myself before the fire in the schoolroom—an apartment which rivaled in comfort and luxury the best saloon at St. Philomene's, which was only used on the occasion of the archbishop's annual visit.

'I had been taught by the good nuns that beauty was a valueless gift in comparison with moral worth, plet, good temper, unselfishness and intelligence; and indeed the subject of my appearance had troubled me but little during my busy school-time, particularly as looking-glasses were strictly prohibited at St. Philomene's, so I suppose I ought to have smiled philosophically; but I was only twenty and I am ashamed to say that the unexpected glimpse in the face staggers me for a moment, stole a glance at the mirror over the chimney-piece and saw that a dull, red flush had crept into my homely sallow cheeks, then turned my eyes hastily away, as Birdie, languidly munching a slice of plum-cake, continued:

Try This Home-made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with 1 cup of warm water and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $25. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in salicylic acid and all the natural pine elements, which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.
