WEDNESDAY, NOV. 3.

BREAKFAST - Fruits. Hominy grits with cream. Brown but-

LUNCHEON - Walled chicken. Lettuce sandwiches. Fruit gingerbread. Tea.

DINNER-Shoulder of lamb a la Parisienne. Baked sweet pota-toes. Celery. French peas. Rolls. Orange pudding. Coffee.

Cut out these recipes and paste them

Brown Buttered Eggs.-In a small stew-pan put two stablespoonfuls of butter, and let it cook until very dark -almost black. Then drop in quickly two tablespoonfuls of tarragon vinegar, and let it cook for a moment longer; add one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and set where it will keep warm. In a small buttered baking dish drop four eggs, sprinkle with a saltspoon of salt, and set in the oven to bake. When the whites are set remove from the oven, pour the sauce over the top and serve.

Whole Wheat Puffs-Put the yolk of an egg into a basin, and beat the white in a separate dish to a stiff froth. Add to the yolk one-half a cup of rather thin cream and one cupful of skim milk, and a naif-saltspoon of salt. Beat the egg, cream and milk together until perfectly mingled and foaming with air bubbles; then add gradually, beating well at the same time, one pint of wheat flour; continue the beating vigorously and without interruption for eight or ten minutes, then stir in lightly the white of the egg, and turn at once into heated, shallow irons, and bake for half-an hour in moderately quick oven. Sweet Gingerbread-One cupful of granulated sugar, one-third of a cupful of butter, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one cupful of New Orleans molasses, one teaspoonful of ginger, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of cinnamon. Stir thoroughly and add one cupful of boiling water in which has been dissolved one level teaspoonful of soda. Then add two eggs, well-beaten, and one-half cupful of seeded raisins and orange-peel chopped fine. Bake in a moderate oven.

Shoulder of Lamb a la Parisiennehave the butcher bone the meat nicely. Prepare a stuffing of four ounces of breadcrumbs, two ounces of raw veal, chopped fine, two tablespoonfuls of butter meited, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of salt, and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. Mix all together and stuff the meat with it. Roast in a quick oven. Into two tablespoonfuls of softened (not melted) butter, mix one tablespoonful each of chopped parsley shallots, lemon-juice and beef extract. Draw the meat when done from the oven, spread it with the prepared sauce and return it to the oven just long enough to melt it. Garnish with small, round, fried potatoes.

Orange Pudding—To one quart of cilk add one-half of a cupful of sugar. two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, mixed with a little cold water, the yolks of three eggs. Grate the rind and press cut the juice of three oranges. Scald the milk, add the cornstarch, then the sugar and eggs. Boil for three minutes. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, add four tablespoonfuls of sugar; spread over the pudding and brown slightly in the oven.

STOWAWAYS IN A PIANO BOX. Seattle, Wash., Nov. 1.-While an upright piano box addressed to the Ives-Pond Piano Company, Boston, was being put in a freight car here, Check Clerk Meckstroth noticed that water was running out of the bottom. The box was opened and a man and woman, scantily attired, were found in-

They gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Tyler, and said they had no money, and wanted to get out of Seattle at the expense of the railroad companies. They were well provided with provisions and a big can of water. Tyler said that in 1896 he and his wife made a trip across the continent from Exeter, N. H., in a wagon. It was the intention of the stowaways to stop in Chicago, the box being routed over the Northern Pacific and the Northwestern

A SHIELD AGAINST DISEASE.

The partition between a weakened constitution and disease is as thin and shaky as the one that tries to keep death out where disease already lodges.

Disease and death are the natural consequences of worn-out, neglected bodies.

Disease picks out its victims from the ranks of the unprepared.

How Cuban Guns Mowed Down the Spaniards,

Who Had Been Sent to Capture a Hospital-A Starving Population.

New York, Nov. 2.—A letter from John Lynn, a Florida man, operating the pneumatic gun with Gen. Castillo's army, is published in the Sun. He writes concerning the massacre of a Spanish solve the Missean Solve. Spanish column in the hills near Selba, Havana province. The Spaniards had planned to capture a Cuban hospital, and Gen. Castillo prepared for them.

Mr. Lynn writes:
"We had everything all arranged for them, with the battery skillfully concealed behind some light bushes at the head of the path that led into the hills, while on each side of the defile troops were stationed with hand grenades and rocks to pour into the 'panish columns. The hills were almost like a horseshoe where we were, the open part being a roadway about 800 feet wide at first, and then contracting into a narrow road or path of not over 25 or 30 feet. On each side the cliffs were very high and steep, making it imposible for the Spanish troops to scale it, so that they had no chance to attack us in the rear. Our spies led the Spanish columns on, and they came, early one morning, under command of Gen. Morino, I am told, about 1,500 strong. They came on, with their cavalry in front straggling along the road. We waited until we could see the expressions on the men's faces, when I gave the order to fire. It seemed like hades broke loose.' My shell from the dynamite gun exploded in the column, and the air was filled with dismembered fragments of human bodies, while the horrible shouts of the soldiers still ring in my ears. Our rapid-fire guns opened at the same moment, and, to add to the horror, the men on each side of the ravine or road on the cliffs overhead threw down overhead threw down on the cliffs overhead threw down on the cliffs overhead threw down overhead threw down overhead threw down overhead threw down filled with dismembered fragments of human bodies, while the horrible shouts rocks and hand grenades. The horses and men floundered together in one wild scramble. The shouts of the officers and shrieks of the wounded men, and the neighing of the frightened horses all produced a wild chaos of sounds that one can never forget. Again we opened on them, and gave them another volley. The Spaniards turned and scrambled for the outlet, the cavalry rushing through the infantry, tumbling men down by the score. It was such a slaughter that after the fourth shot from the dynamite gun I could not fire it again, as I felt like doing murder. The rapid-fire guns, under the Cubans in my command, kept up their deadly work, and they mowed down the fleeing men on all sides. Our men pursued them far out into the hills. We buried 300 dead, and aided 400 wounded, releasing some and leaving others where the Spaniar's could get them."

STARVATION AND VICE.

You may see in this city women and children dying in the streets of starvation. After some days you become action. After some days you become accustomed to the awful sight, just as people acquire the habit of living without apprehension among the dangers of an epidemic. Cardenas seems no longer a city, but a hell in which, among unendurable tortures and pangs the most satanic revelry is going on. Misery has brought all vices with it. Emaciated women march by the side of the Spanish officers, asking a piece of bread. The most unspeakable scenes occur in the very streets. Hunger has stifled shame in this place. But the soldiers themselves are starving in their barracks, and even the officers, in spite of their money, suffer from the hardships of the situation. Money, no matter how plentiful, cannot buy what does not and the poor alike.

The same situation exists all over the island. The reports from Puerto Principe and Santiago de Cuba are exactly the same. In Pinar del province hundreds die from starvation every day. The weekly returns show that the mortality augments by 40 per cent every seven days.

It is announced that first measure General Blanco will take will be to suppress the barbarous decrees of Weyler, obliging the country people to herd in the towns. The pacificos will have the right, it is said, to return to their huts and farms. But it must be remembered that Weyler's columns have laid waste the whole country.
The huts and farms of the pacificos are utterly destroyed. Nothing but ruins is to be found now in the rural districts in Cuba. Furthermore, the pacificos themselves will refuse to go. They have no confidence in the Span-They believe, with reason, that as soon as they get into the country hey will be butchered, as their fellowlaborers were not long ago by the columns of Weyler.

HENRY GEORGE'S ESTATE

Less Than $16,000-He Was a Generous

New York, Nov. 2.-Henry George's estate consisted merely of his house and grounds at Fore Hamilton, worth $12,000, with $1,500 in ready cash and about $2,000 life insurance. There are in addition copyrights on all his books. The sale of "Progress and Poverty" is said to have exceeded any other book except "Robinson Crusoe" and "Uncle Tom's Cabin." But much of its circulation has been in foreign countries, and from this Mr. George received no return, except $225 for one English edition.

Nobody except Mr. George had any interest in his copyrights. He received a royalty on all books sold in this country. But while this royalty was duly credited to him on the account books of his publishers, it generally happened that Mr. George was in debt to them owing to the large number of his books which he had given away. The reason for this was that Mr. George's interest in the promulgation of his principles had led him to order his publishers to distribute to members of the labor unions a great many copies of his books, and these were, of course, charged to his account. This meant that Mr. George's income from his writings was very small. He had in addition, and with this he supported himself and his family largely, the income he derived from week to week from his work as a magazine and newspaper writer.

The royalties now will not exceed a few hundred dollars a year. They might have been larger, but Mr. George always preferred to sacrifice a portion of his royalty rather than to have the book sold at a price which would pre-vent its wide circulation.

It is for this reason that "Progress and Poverty" had a sale of 1,000,000 copies in England alone, a 6d edition

New York Election-Estimates as to How the Votes Will Go.

ONLY IN 11 and 21 TIN CANS

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS.

New York, Nov. 2.—The first mayor of Greater New York will be elected today. For bitterness, complex situations and uncertainty the campaign has never been excelled in national or municipal elections. The skies were dark and lowering this morning, and the falling rain presaged a long and disagreeable day for the workers at the polls, but the leaders early commenced the struggle for the control of the second greatest city of the world, for the privileges involved in the expenditure of perhaps 1990 1990 4990 days penditure of perhaps $300,000,000 during the next four years, for the patronage involved in the appointment of at least 35,000 men to place under the next municipal government.

There is a weather tradition attached to United States politics which is believed to hold good in this muni-cipal struggle. Fair weather is called "Republican weather." and another political tradition says that the Democrat, especially the organization Demo-crat, will brave any freak of the ele-ments to deposit his verdict in the

A full vote will mean possibly 529,-000, and this estimate is arrived at by taking the total registration—568,-568 and deducting therefrom the usual 7 per cent allowance for defective ballots, stay-at-homes, and non-waters lots, stay-at-homes, and non-voters for other causes. It is generally conceded that the man who receives over 126,250 votes will be the first mayor of Greater New York.

Democratic estimates give Van Wyck a majority over all other candidates combined of 20,000, and plurality over Low, the next highest one, 13,000. Republican estimates give Tracy a plurality of 75,000. Havana advices to the Sun say: A slity of 75,000. Citizens' Union estimate give Low a plurality of 15,000. Cardenas:

THE YELLOW FEVER.

New Orleans, Nov. 2.-Yesterday was the coldest day New Orleans has experienced since the fever outbreak. Francis McNulty, the cashier of the American Express Company, in this city, committed suicide at his home by cutting his throat. He had the fever and ended his life in a fit of delirium. Seven deaths were reported up to 11 a.m. and 9 new cases.

ESCAPED WITH THEIR LIVES. Holland Landing, Nov. 2.- The residence and all its contents of Mrs. Honora Kennedy, in the township of King, about a mile from here, were exist. A pound of meat is considered in totally destroyed by fire on Monday Cardenas as a fortune by the wealthy morning at 3 o'clock. The occupants barely escaped with their lives, as the whole roof fell in before the family

> TREATY REGARDING SEALING. Washington, D. C., Nov. 2.-It is expected that a treaty between the United States, Russia and Japan will be formally signed and executed at the state department during the present week, carrying out the proposition before the Bering Sea conference, for a suspension of pelagic sealing. The attitude which Great Britain will assume toward the treaty is awaited with much interest. Thus far the British authorities have not been in-formed as to what the conference proposes doing. The British expert, Prof. D'Arcy Thompson, has had several long talks with Mr. Foster and Hamlin, and these have been of such a satisfactory nature that it believed an amicable understanding would be reached by all parties concerned if Canada showed a disposition to assent But Canada still stands in the way, and the continued absence of the Canadian expert, Mr. Macoun, is regarded in the light of a diplomatic discour

Had to Stop and Rest Because of Heart Trouble.

Mrs. Eliza Cook, 109 Palmerston Ave., Toronto, says: "Seven years ago I had the grip, followed by inflammation of the lungs. I have been afflicted ever since with heart trouble. To walk anyway fast would make me gasp for breath, and many a time I have had to stop on the street to rest and regain my breath.

I had bad smothering spells at night, and my nerves were much unstrung. Anything annoying or worrying me produced extreme weakness, and would set my heart beating so fast that I thought I was dying. Sometimes I would become so nervous as to tremble like a leaf.

I began taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills early last February, and have been getting better ever since. My nerves are much stronger. I can walk without difficulty, and the palpitation, fluttering of the heart, shortness of breath and
