MURRELLS PUT ONE OVER YOU ALL," SAYS INSPECTOR

Evidence Given Today Shows That Regulations Regarding Food and Tobacco Were Consistently Broken-Father and Mother of Murrells Give Evidence-Bar Cut From Inside. Declares an Ironwork Expert.

Inspector W. W. Dunlop's investigation into the escape of Sidney and William Murrell, alleged murderers, from the county jail on Friday, September 2, closed this afternoon, having brought out the facts that the jail officials were ignorant of the rules governing the institution; that the escape was an inside job; that the Murrells had had saws smuggled into them; in short, that the prisoners completely outwitted the turnkeys.

"The Murrells put it all over you," declared Inspector Dunlop to Chief Turnkey William McLoud, who was recalled to the witness stand this morning. "They outwitted you. They sure did outwit everyone watching them. You know that now, don't you?" to the local police 'court by parents or guardians who break these laws would be handed over to the board of education or separate school board, ac-

TOBACCO FORBIDDEN.

Governor James Carter was recalled on a point of food being allowed to be taken into the prisoners. He understood, he said, that prisoners on remand could be given food by relatives, but that men sentenced were to have the regular jail food served to them unless the jail physician ordered otherwise. Inspetor Dunlop report published here Monday declared unless the jail physician ordered otherwise. Inspetor Dunlop pointed out that only political prisoners, ones jailed for contempt of court, or civil prisoners, could have special parcels given to of court, or civil prisoners, could have special parcels given to the them. Tobacco, too, he said, was forbidden, except with the London for every two adults, board of education officials claim that the writer consent of the physician.

"If you want me to, I'll shut off the tobacco. I never use it myself, but I hate to see a man suffer," remarked the governor.

Richard Warren, a stationary engineer, who is visiting in London, and who has had eighteen years' experience, he said, the governor had always had full control in such matters. He knew that parcels had been taken to other prisoners on various occasions, but did not know of any particular instance. He was not a party to any giving of food to the Murrells.
