His Turn.

Two motorists, having almost ruined their tempers—and their tires—in a vain attempt to find a hatel with a vacant bed, were at last forced to make the best of a small inn.

Even then they had to share a bed, which was—and on this the landlord laid great strees—a feather bed. They turned in, and one of the pair was soon fast asleep; the other was not. He could not manage to dodge the lumps, and heard hour after hour strike on the church clock until three a.m., when he also struck.

He did this by violently shaking by sporing friend.

"What's the matter?" growled the other. "It can't be time to get up "No, it isn't," retorted his friend, yet!"
