J. A. Guy of Oshawa, who won the $500 piano given away by James Laut, speaks for itself:

It is especially desirable that all who have need of medical aid, either from catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, or consumption, should make early application. The patient at a distance, who cannot come here for treatment, can, after examination, return home and pursue the treatment with success. But if impossible to call personally for an examination, write for a "List of Questions" and "Medical Treatise."

I have never before or since the trial began, seen him alone, and never before felt such a firm conviction that the man is a lunatic. He received me as a friend, and in discussing his case there was no occasion for dissimulation. Yet I left him after a three hours interview thoroughly persuaded, despite the evidence of learned experts, that the man's reason is dethroned. I pushed him with questions almost to the verge of cruelty; I tried to depict the enormity of his crime; and endeavored to reach his conseience, and discover if he were alive to any feelings of remorse; if he ever dreamed of the act or its attendant consequences; but I could not elicit a single expression that even the most hardened criminals, if sane, might be expected to give utterance to. He said with the greatest earnestness, "The Lord will put words into your mouth with which to convince the jury, and I shall be acquitted. I have no money now, but I shall earn a hundred thousand within a month after this trial is over, and I will then give you fifty thousand." The smile which accompanied the remark was so unnatural that it ceived me as a friend, and in discussing his

"Why, how long do you expect to speak?' enquired Reed.

"I can't tell you. A day or two and perhaps more," replied Guiteau. He finally agreed to conform to Reed's ideas on the subject of his speech, but still insists he shall make the closing address to the jury. This matter will probably be referred to Judge Cox for settlement if counsel cannot effect an arrangement with the prisoner. Counsel for the prosecution intimate that they will not object to Guitiau's speaking, but they will doubtless insist upon limitations.
