THE TEMPERANCE LANDS.

A committee of the indignant subscribers to the Temperance colonization society waited upon the secretary and directors vesterday to obtain some information regarding the society. Mr. A. J. Sinclair, the secretary, asked if the board would define the rights of subscribers who have not paid their 10 per cent acrip. Did they forfeit anything? They were informed that they had no rights till they paid the 10 per cent. The next question asked was: Would the company quarantee that the subscribers to the 2d guarantee that the subscribers to the 2d and 3d thirds be guaranteed their lands if and 3d thirds be guaranteed their lands if the settlement duties be performed within the time limited by the Dominion govern-ment land regulations? The secretary ex-plained that they would furnish the land subject to the government reserves, but they could not say anything more than in the serip. The reason that the even num-bered sections were reserved and the odd ones given for settlement was that they might have room for stttlers from the old country to comply with the government country to comply with the government requirements.

Reports were abroad at a late hour last night that the City of Montreal had gone graph in Wednesday's Mail, in reference night that the City of Montreal had gone ashore at the Humber. Enquiries along the esplanade confirmed the reports, but few particulars of the mishap could be learned. The propeller came round the island from Ogdensburg only in the afternoon, but owing to the heavy gale from the est it was found impossible to keep her heat to the wind, and for two hours she attempted to make the western channel in vain. The captain then dropped anchor but the storm was so great that the propeller dropped her anchor over a mile, when the tug folden City steamed out to the scene, but could reuder no assistance, and came back to the city. As darkness fell the vessel continued to drag her anchor and at last reports she was beached in the Humber bay and was fast breaking up.

About Baby Carriages. ambition of every young mother in the city is to obtain a carriage for her baby the city is to obtain a carriage for her baby as soon as possible. This is not only natural, but also sensible and right. But after they purchase their baby carriages they should not entrust them to the tender care of inexperienced young girls, who will just as often upset as roll them. The aforesaid girls are never anxious to keep moving either. Once they get the baby safely and securely ensconced in the carriage they will let it stand quietly in the sun or shelter while they gossip with their neighbors. Baby carriages are very useful to lazy mothers and still more lazy servant girls.

The Emperor William's Wardrobe. An interesting and extensive wardrobe s that of Emperor William. His uniforms comprise one of each of the regiments of the guards and of the body regiments, one each of Baden, Bavaria, Saxony and Wureach of his Austrian regiments of the line, and hussars. The civilian suits are elegant and chiefly dark, although a light pair of pantaloons is now and then tolerated; the regular head covering is the high silk hat. regular head covering is the high silk hat. The hunting suits are rarely renewed, on the principle the older the better and more comfortable. Most of the interesting pieces have long been sent to different museums, except the dress worn on the day of Nobling's attempt. Perhaps the most remarkable piece is the emperor's brownishgray havelock, which he wears in the spring and fall on his drives, and with which, although nearly twenty-five years old, he is not willing to part. All his uniforms and suits are made by a member of the same family, whose pr decessors presented the young Prince W dliam with his first uniform. Numerous as the contents of the wardrobe have been and still are, it has never held an article which nearly every citizen looks upon as an indispensable one—viz., a dressing gown.
