League, having been drawn to the annound ment of the formation of a new Irish organ zation in Ohicago, to be known as the "Anti Coercioni Society," independent of the Iris National League of America, Mr. Fitzgerah said he could see no necessity o any such organization; on the contrary, he could see ample reason why honest Irishmen should discountenance the movement. The Irish National League of America, he said, is doing all that could possibly be done by any other organization to afford Treland moral and financial assistance for any constitutional movement of Parnell and his colleagues. The platform is broad enough for men of every shade of opinion and funds entrusted to its reverend treasurer are placed heyond breath of mistrust. Further-more, all branches working with the league receive all the credit that could be obtained by acting in gonnection with the home or-ganization. Mr. Fitzgerald said that any organization which refused to work in harmony with the National League stimulates dissension and disintegration. "As a rule," he added, "originations of these dissident bodies are dis-appointed factionalists, whose own idea of their importance is not shazed by the author-ties of the league."
