-The Good Roads movement in this province has something live about it. men who feeling the need of reform have put their shoulders to the wheel of progress, and the energy and strength of vigorous, manhood is already beginning to tell. The "Good Roads" Convention held in Truro last week, was attended by over sixty delegates and among them were men the President, Alex. McNeil, and carried unanimously by the meeting. The resolution was as follows:-Good Roads Association have a representative before the municipal councils at their first session, to urge that the 'days' labor' clause in the statute la- beginning on April 2nd. bor act be abolished and a property

When it comes to a question of developing the province by day, to continue until the end of the a persistent patronage of home trade and industries their patriotism cannot stand the strain. Far too many of our population help to impoverish the country by sending their money away for things that can be bought just as cheaply at home providing they pay the cash here as they are forced to do when they get their supplies alroad. Are, however, our merchants more patriotic in this respect? Do they invariably buy from the home producer, or would they go to the foreign maror would they go to the foreign mar-ket if it promised an additional cent profit on the dollar. We need a new and a of patricipm. This is the inorder of patriotism. This is the in-dustrial and mercantile age, and for our patrotism to be effective it must be industrial and mercantile also.

The "Suburban," of Rockinghan in its special press number, says: "The press of Nova Scotia in on year won the fight for better methods of road work.
