THE Canada Law Journal.

Toronto, September, 1875.

WE are pleased to see an alteration in the subjects prescribed for examination by the Committee on Legal Education of the Law Society. As will be seen by an advertisement in another place, Mr. Taylor's concise work on equity jurisprudence takes the place of the more voluminous treatise of Story; Taylor on Titles is substituted for Watkins on Conveyancing in the final examination for articulated clerks, and Walkem on Wills for the same work on conveyancing in the final examination for call. The changes come into force next January.

THE fourth Part of the new Digest, by Mr. Christopher Robinson, Q.C., and Mr. Frank Joseph, has been issued. So far, we have nothing even to suggest by way of improvement, and no fault to find, except that we have not the rest of it. It would be difficult to find a work that shows more careful arrangement and more thorough attention to details than does this Digest. We expected much, and have not been disappointed. We notice in this Part a heading new to Canadian Digests, viz. "Constitutional Law." Our responsibilities as an important part of a great nation grow apace, whilst an additional subject of study is being added to those which already require our attention as lawyers.

IN pursuance of chap. 1 of 38 Vict., the first volume of the Statutes of 1875 contains a number of Orders in Council and Proclamations, some of which will be useful and some interesting to the public and to the profession. In addition will be found several of the extradition treaties of Great Britain with foreign powers,
