SUMMARY OF IRISH NEWS.

The Belfast Northern Whey is evidently of the opicion that the Ulster Tory Unionists the opinion that the Ulater Tory Unionists "had better stay at home and loave their battles beyond the Irish Sea to be fought under the guise of British moderation" Commenting upon Mr Hill's a-cond failure to capture Shellield, the Liberal Unionist organ says. "We need scarcely say that Mr. George H. Smith is very well known in the North of Ireland. He has appeared as an Irish Conservative Unionist advocate on many English platforms. We are not, however, sure that such a candidate, with somewhat extreme views, was the best to attract me derate Unionist politicians, and especially me derate Unionist politicians, and especially the Liberal Unionists." The Northern Whig ovidently believes that the Hill Smith should be reserved for 12th of July purposes. It has a dim apprehension of the treth that the less that is known in England of Ulster Unionism the better for the Unionists.

The potato blight has again made its appearance in West Cork, which, in the surroundings of Skibbereen, seems to be the first place in Ireland favored with its evil effects. It appears, 50 far, to be isolated and chiefly, if not altogether, confined to the early class of potatoes. The Champion, which is the staple crop, is looking both flourishing and promising, and is not being affected by the disease. The other crops, generally, are looking most hopeful, so far. We regret to have to announce the death of Mr. O'Halloran, of the Munster and Leinster Bank, Dunmanway, which occurred in Dun-

The Rev. P. Colgan, P.P., has recently come into possession of an Egyptian coin which was dug up by a workman in the vicinity of Dun Conor, on Inishmann, one of the Arran Isles. The coin is evidently one of great antiquity, though the hieroglyphics, both on the face and reverse of it, are distinctly legible. Those to whom it was submitted were not, unfortunately, in a position to decipher the inscriptions; but the question is one that should interest antiquarians, who, as Father Colgan suggests, "may be able to trace from the inscription an additional link in the claim of evidence which points to the Oriental origin of the Cyclopean edifices on the Arran Isles."

On Sunday, July 1st, the Very Rev. Canon Brosnan, of Cahirciveen, made several collections in aid of the fund for the com-pletion of the O'Connell Memorial Church at Cahirciveen. These collections were made at the various Masses celebrated at Ladiesbridge, Ballymacoda and Inch, and it must be plaising to every admirer of the great Liberator to learn that the appeal of Canon Broanan resulted in a very antistantial sum being collected.

A very sad drowning accident occurred in A very sad drowning accident occurred in the catuary of the rivers Maine and Luane, on Sunday, let July. Three young lads named Thomas Walsh, Sullivan and Shea went bathing on the shore at Ballyarkane, and getting into a deep hole, and being unable to swim, they sank, and the three would certainly have been drowned only for the placky conduct of two men named the plucky conduct of two men named Michael Cohen and James Shea, who were some fields away. They immediately ran to the shore, and having only divested them-acives of their clothing, plunged into the water, and having dived, brought Sullivan and Shea to the surface, and carried them on shore, Cohen plunged in again and dived for Walsh several times without and Shea in the meaning and for a host and dived for Walsh several times without avail. Shea in the meantime ran for a boat, and reaching the spot had to drag Cohen into it, and then diving himself brought poor Walsh to the surface and arrived on shore in a very exhausted state. It was then found that Walsh was dead. The greatest serrow is felt for Walsh's arrests, who are very poor and the lad parents. who are very poor, and the lad being their eldest, only 15 years. Longford.

The Supreme Assizes were opened in Longford, on July 3d, by Justice Murphy, in the Crown Court, and Justice Johnston, in the Record Court. Addressing the grand jury, Judge Murphy said he was happy to be able to tell them that their trouble in the state of the said of th invostigating the bills to go before them would be necessarily brief, as there was but one serious case, in which the accused was regarded as insane.

Louth.

At the meeting of the Drogheda Corpora-tion, on July 4th, a committee of the Coun-cil recommended the application of Father Curry, P P., for a site for the erection of a school, adding that the price proposed to be paid, £9, was, under the circumstances a fair one. They further recommended that it be accepted, and that the Lords of the Treasury be informed of the circumstances under which the plot at the Old Hill is held. Rev. John Curry, P.P., St. Mary's, was present, and the members of the Council expressed their surprise at and condem nation of the action of the Lords of the Treasury in not sanctioning the execution of the lease to Father Curry to enable him to erect a new school in St. Mary's parish. The report was adopted.
