An Amazon Queen

There is something peculiarly appropriate in the fact that the leading general and vassal sovereign of the Emperor of Abyssina, who claims to be able to drace his descent in an unbroken line to the biblical Queen of Sheba, should be a woman. Queen Jostero Mastero commands the magnificent Galla cavalry division of Menelek's army. A member of the warlike Galla nation, she first became connected with the Abyssinian Empire in a rather peculiar manner, in Abyssinian Empire in a rataer peculiar manner, in Selassie the only son and heir-apparent of the late Selassie the only son and heir-apparent of the late Negus Johannes, was sojourning with his tutor and mentor, Gen. or "Ras" Michael, in Sulul, on the GalloAbyssinian border, where he fell in with the only son of the Galla queen. On one day, when a fair was being held in the town, the two young princes amuscd themselves by perforining divers cats of equestrianism, among others that known as tent pegging, in which the rider transfixes with his lance a tent peg stuck in the ground while dashing past at full gallop. The Galla prince excelled in this particular form of sport, and Prince Area Selassie far behind. The latter, loaded to fury by the jeers which his frequent failures to touch the peg excited among the onlookers in the market-place, at length ended by drawing his revolver and firing point-blank at the queen's son who only escaped with hislifeand sustained several serious wounds. The Galla queen vowed vengeance. She summoned a body of 3,000 cavalry to arms, placed herself at their head, and three day's later inflicted such a lesson on the arrogant Prince Area as he was not likely to forget. Three hundred of hisfollowers and adherents were massaored in cold blood by her mounted warriors, and the young imperial prince was subjected to ignominous treang allowed to take his departure from the district.
Curiously enough, his father, the > fatatic old negus John, instead of taking steps to punish the lady, determined to win her over to his side. He was shrewd enough to realize that such a dashing cavalry general would be more preferable as friend than as foe. He therefore lost no time in contracting an offensive and defensive alliance with her ; almost overwhelmed her with honors, presents, dignities, and finally entrusted her with the command of his magnificent cavalry, which is recruited mainly from the members of the Galla tribe, which is known throughout the world for its superb equestrianism and for its perfect physique. It was at the head of the imperial cavalry that she took part in the 1888 campaign against the Italians, and it was she who was held responsible for the ter-six months previously by means of poison, which is believed to have been administered by one of the principal officers of the army, possibly by the Galla queen herself. She has therefore, given her allegiance to the new Emperor, or Negus Meneleck, and constituted not only one of the most pleturesque, but also the most important feature of the army with which the Ethopian monarch màrched toward Adowah. Although no longer young, her appearance is asserted to have retained a certain number of charms, among which may be included a most commanding and impressive carriage and presence. Her apparel is magnificent, according to Abyssinian notions, and her wriste, ankles throat and hair are decked with gold amulets and jewels. She is always splendidiy mounted on a horse which she rides seated astride man-fishion and which she manages with marvelous skill.

The Sensible Housekeepers of the Future

I wish that it were in my power to persuade yonn girls who wonder what they shall do to earn their own living, that it is really better to choose some oupines that is in the line of a woman's natural work. There is great repugnanco at the thought of being a servant, but a girl is no lestands behind the counter all day than she is where she waits upon the table or cooks the dinner in a pleasant house ; and to my mind there would not be a moments question b3tween the two ways of going out to service. The whas are better, the freedom and liberty are doable trone what they are in the othen. If, ingtoad of the haly ertice that itgiven by ignorsat ind feally overag good to be taking caro ol themselvem nod earn shools, or in any way they found available, they would not wait long for employment, and they would be valued immensoly by their employers. When on realizes how hard it is to find good women for every kind of work in our houses, and what prices many rich people are more than willing to pay if they can be well suited, it is a wonder more girls are not ready to seize the chances. It is because such work has been almost always so carelessly and badly done that it has fallen into disropute and the doers of it have take such a low rank. Nobody takes the troatle to fit herself properly, but women trust to being taught and finding out their duties after they assume such positiong-not before.

Short Girls As Kissers.

Little women, as a general thing, have the better of it, as far as kissing a inan is concerned, because they have to reach up. That generally necessitate putting a hand on each shoulder, and the human re presentative of a Newfoundland dog is charmed to his soul because he thinks the little woman likes him so much. The woman who has to reach up to a man can always control him. Her size acquits her of her folly, and he is certain to regard her as is dear little thing, and never see her Machiavellian schemes for ruling him. Look at Cleopatra; she was little Helen of Troy barely reached to the shoulders of the man who loved her; and in later days Catharine of Russia and Mary Stuart were both slender and rath and I'm not sorry I'm small, writes Panay Blossom.
