

Stop Here and Mark
Macmillan's
Pocket Classics

1. Sound editorial judgment.
2. High School point of view.
3. More than 150 titles.
4. Convenient, serviceable, attractive books at twenty-five cents a volume.

Just Out:

Scott's Life of Nelson
Letters from Mary Povey
Representative Short Stories

Supplementary Reading

More than 75,000 Volumes Sold in Ontario This Year of Macmillan's Pocket Classics

This is good evidence that they meet requirements better than any other series

SOME REASONS WHY

Handy size. Wealth of notes. Biographical aids.
Clear Type. Stout Binding. Uniformity.

Series contains everything you want to read in 150 titles. Price only 25 Cents.

Not only are the usual classical requirements—Shakespeare, Milton, Macaulay, etc., etc., included, but many unique titles, as for instance, three books containing selections of short stories, one of them being short stories by writers of today. A number of titles contain poetical selections both long and short, and others such historical titles, as for instance, Parkman's "The Oregon Trail." A new departure coming into effect this fall is the inclusion of modern novels, the first two being Jack London's "The Call of the Wild," and Wister's "The Virginian." There are already included in the series, four of R. L. Stevenson's novels, and two of George Eliot's, not to mention "Lorna Doone" and a number of earlier novels.

It will be seen that the series contains many titles for younger children, as for instance, Andersen, and Grimm's "Fairy Tales," "Arabian Nights," "Alice in Wonderland," and a number of others.

A full list of titles will be sent on application.

Study Outlines to accompany the Pocket Classics, each 5 cents.

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO READ NEXT?

MACMILLAN'S LITERATURE SERIES

45 titles edited with introductions and notes by well known Canadian writers.

Substantially bound in limp cloth, and uniform in price. Send for full list of titles. Each 15 Cents.

MACMILLAN'S ECLECTIC SERIES

Each 10 Cents.

This series was made for the purpose of putting into the hands of pupils an inexpensive edition of certain well known classics which are read all over the Dominion. At present, the series contains the following five titles:

Arnold — Sohrab and Rustum
Goldsmith — The Deserted Village, and The Traveller

Brown — Rab and His Friends
Ruskin — The King of the Golden River
De la Ramee (Ouida) — A Dog of Flanders.

Our new general Catalogue, just issued, is the most useful we have ever published. It is arranged alphabetically by authors and subjects, enabling you to obtain at a glance whatever information is desired. A copy will be sent free for the asking.

MACMILLAN'S Publishers of Canadian Text-Books TORONTO