

CHAPTER XIII.

Wild leeks—Spring birds—Wilson's poem on the blue bird
—Downy woodpeckers—Passenger pigeons—Their numbers—Roosting places—The frogs—Bull frogs—Tree frogs—Flying squirrels . . . . . pp. 208—220

CHAPTER XIV.

Our spring crops—Indian corn—Pumpkins—Melons—Fruits
—Wild Flowers . . . . . pp. 221—227

CHAPTER XV.

The Indians—Wigwams—Dress—Can the Indians be civilized?—Their past decay as a race—Alleged innocence of savage life—Narrative of Father Jogues, the Jesuit missionary . . . . . pp. 228—260

CHAPTER XVI.

The medicine-man—Painted faces—Medals—An embassy—
Religious notions—Feast of the dead—Christian Indians—Visit to the Indians on Lake Huron—Stolidity of the Indians—Henry exorcises an Indian rifle . . pp. 261—279

CHAPTER XVII.

The humming-bird—Story of a pet—Canada a good country for poor men—A bush story of misfortune—Statute labour—Tortoises—The hay season—Our waggon-driving
—Henry and I are nearly drowned—Henry falls ill—Back-wood doctors . . . . . pp. 280—298

American
life—Gr
Soap-m
quickly-

American
"Bob's"
cake—T
drowned-

Apple-bees—
A meeting
lost in the

A tornado—
—An elec

A journey t escape—A
of Niagar

The suspen battle of nearly dr