THEY WRANGLED ALL NIGHT

How the Imperial Government Forces a Bill Through the House.

This is the Measure to Lessen the Taxation in Agricultural Land—The Speaker Appealed to to Keep Opposition Members in Order—They Were a Sleepy Looking Lot—How Mr. Chamberlain Showed His Good Sense.

London, June 30.—The House of Commons sat throughout the night, debating the agriculture land rating bill, intended to lessen the taxation on agricultural land. The debate proceeded quietly until 2 o'clock in the morning. The Government kept its forces well in hand, insuring a majority of over 150. During the small hours the excitement increased and the different clauses were carried under the closure rule.

The Liberal leader in the House of Commons, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, denounced the methods which the Conservative leader, the Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, was adopting in order to extricate the Government from the mess into which it has fallen through making too many election promises and overweighting itself with important bills, which, like the education bill recently shelved for repairs, it has been unable to carry in spite of its overwhelming majority, a fact for which the leadership of Mr. Balfour has been greatly blamed.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, angrily retorted that the opposition was the most factious ever seen, and asserted that its tactics were rapidly reducing Parliament to little more than a farce.

The Debate Became Warm.

Mr. James H. Dalziel, Liberal member for the Brechdly District, accused Lord Hugh Cecil, Conservative member for Greenwich, and fifth son of the Marquis of Salisbury, of deliberate and organized interference with the debate.

The Speaker, the Right Hon. William Gully, was appealed to, but he declined to interfere beyond exhorting the members to be more orderly during debate.

A little later Mr. Dalziel characterized Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's speech as being "impertinent," whereupon there was a small tornado of yells and cries of "withdraw."

The Speaker suggested that Mr. Dalziel had not intended to be offensive in his remark, and after some more skirmishing another clause of the bill was closured.

This brought forth another storm of derisive shouts from the Opposition, and Dr. A. K. Tanner, Irish Nationalist, member for the Middle division of Cork, was heard to shout, "Gag"; for this they were warned from the chair.

It was after 5 o'clock in the morning before things became quiet.

Members Looked Ruffled.

Many of the M.P.s watched the break of day while strolling on the terrace of Westminster, and others snored contentedly in various corners, more or less ruffled in appearance, collars limped and neckties awry, hats badly in need of the brush and clothes showing the effects of a night of parliamentary warfare.

When the sun rose and blinked in upon the tired and night-stained commoners, many of them in evening dress and sleeping with their hands and feet in picturesque positions, the Government leader was still at his post, apparently as fresh as when he entered the House on the previous evening, and evidently ready to fight it out all day if necessary.

The Liberal leader was also standing by his guns, but he showed the effects of the wear and tear of the night much more than his more youthful and athletic opponent.

The President of the Local Government Board, Mr. Henry Chaplin, was also in the breach with Mr. Balfour, stubbornly supporting his leader in spite of the fact that he could hardly keep his eyes open and relapsed every now and then into an undignified snooze, from which he would awake with a start upon hearing his snore.

Mr. Chamberlain Was Sensible.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, who is generally in the thick of such a fight as this, always the coolest, neatest and best groomed of those present, was absent from the weary, wrangling night and morning parliamentary haggling and haggling of the more depressing description. He was present, it was true, at one division, but apparently not caring to face the storm which he saw approaching, the Secretary of State for the Colonies disappeared from the House and enjoyed a good night's rest, while his fellow-Cabinet Ministers fought it out throughout the long dull hours between night and morning.

The bill was finally reported to the House, and Wednesday was agreed upon for its third reading. Adjournment immediately followed.

YOUNG GOLLEN'S DEATH.

A Mystery Which Coroner Carson and His Jurors at Whitby Fail to Solve—An Open Verdict.

Whitby, June 30.—On the night of Sunday, June 21, two boys found, on the Grand Trunk track, near the Lane line crossing, the dead body of a young man. The skull was broken at the back of the head. By letters in the pockets and laundry tags, the body was identified as that of D. B. Gollen, a student of the Ontario Business College of Belleville, whose home was at John's River, Nova Scotia. The young man started on Friday, June 19, on an excursion from Belleville to Niagara Falls, and that was the last heard of him by his Belleville friends. The case is shrouded in mystery. Coroner Carson summoned an inquest on Monday, June 22, and after taking evidence, ordered an adjournment till last evening in order to secure the evidence of the conductor and trainmen of the Montreal express, as the body was discovered shortly after that train passed. Conductor McManon and his brakemen were examined; also Dr. Warren, who made a post-mortem examination, and a number of other witnesses who saw the body just after it was found. No light was, however, thrown on the mystery, and the jury returned an open verdict. Attorney Farewell appeared for the Crown and Mr. G. Y. Smith for the Grand Trunk.

Didn't Know of Whom They Bought.

That unknown man who meets people on the street and sells them valuable property, which they try to dispose of on Yorkstreet, has got two more young men into trouble. Charles Lawlor, 153 Bathurst-street, and Wm. Cannon, 587 Queen-street west, were trying to sell a quantity of jewelry, including diamond brooch pins, pearls, trinkets, opera glasses, etc. Policeman Wallace (76) asked the young men how they came to be possessed of their valuables and they said they had bought them from a man they didn't know. The constable took them into custody and they were locked up in No. 1 Police Station.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen have signified their intention of visiting Toronto and the Exposition this year. The entres in the live stock close Aug. 8. The cattle and all live stock will this year be on the grounds from Thursday, Sept. 3, of the first week.

His Leg Fractured.

Radcliffe, transportation leader 21 McMillan-street, Toronto, or J. A. Richardson, Canadian passenger agent, northeast corner King and Yonge-streets, Toronto. ed

Probably Fatal Injury.

James O'Donnell of Summerville, who is employed by cattle shippers to take care of stock shipments, lost his right leg yesterday. He was crawling under a C. P. R. train at the cattle market, when the train pulled off and severed the limb. He is a married man and a brother of the postmaster at Summerville. He was taken to St. Michael's Hospital. There is very little hope of his recovery.

Sunk in Collision.

London, June 30.—The British steamer Santaranse, from Penarth, June 2, for Para, has been sunk by collision with the British barque Dundonald, from San Francisco, March 10th, for Hull. The Dundonald proceeded in a leaky and otherwise damaged condition with the crew of the Santarense on board. The passengers who were on board the Santarense were landed at Para by the Norwegian barque Hiawatha.

THE SUICIDAL IMPULSE

Caused Fred W. Byatt, Well Known in Stratford, to Shoot Himself in That City.

Stratford, Ont., June 30.—The mystery surrounding the finding of Fred W. Byatt of Buffalo in Queen's Park this morning with a bullet wound in his head has been somewhat cleared up, and it seems altogether probable that while laboring under temporary insanity he attempted to take his own life. A letter written and posted by Byatt, evidently before he left Buffalo on Monday and received here this afternoon by his wife, who is staying with friends, stated that while he was absent from business on Tuesday last, recording his vote in Stratford, his business partner had proved unfaithful and had left him in straitened circumstances. It further indicated that he was afraid his mind was failing, and fearing what might happen had left his affairs in such a shape as to be easily managed and that he was coming to Stratford to consult his doctor. He arrived here at 9.25 Monday evening and his subsequent movements until being found this morning are unknown. The shot entered the head immediately between the eyes and it was hoped for a time that he might recover. However, a later examination showed that the bullet had entered the brain and death was a question of only a short time. Byatt was a partner of E. K. Barnsdale in the grocery business here for many years and only left for Buffalo about a year ago, where he was supposed to be doing fairly well. He was well known throughout the county as an honorable and upright man and was highly esteemed, and the news of his tragic end has called forth expressions of deep and sincere regret. He was 45 years of age and has one son, who is in charge of the Buffalo store.

THE CASE OF "DR." JEBB.

Detective Wasson's Charge That He Illegally Assumed the Title Fails.

Kingston, June 30.—The remanded case of "Dr." Jebb, charged with illegally assuming the title of doctor, was resumed in the Police Court today. As it was proven that he was only an eye specialist and that he did not practice medicine, the Magistrate dismissed the case. He claimed to have secured his title in a college in the United States. He is a "Doctor of Refraction." Detective Wasson will have the case appealed, because he alleges that admissible evidence was refused to be heard.

Volunteer Monument.

Editor World: The name of Pte. I. Hughes has been accidentally omitted and should have been placed with the others on the north side of the volunteer monument. Pte. I. Hughes served in No. 4 Service Co., R.G., and was badly injured in the rush on the rifle pits during the last day's fight at Batoche. He was sent to a hospital and, after lingering some months, died there from the effects of the injuries received on that day. The reason his name did not appear in the General's official report is that the report was written and published some time before Hughes died. His body was sent from the Battleford Hospital to Toronto and was given a military funeral and a monument was raised in the cemetery by the regiment to his memory and that of Pte. Moore, who was shot dead during the same fight. We are all very much indebted to Mrs. Fletcher for so successfully carrying out her arduous undertaking, and this correction is in no way intended to reflect upon her excellent work.

C. GREVILLE HARSTON, Major R.L., Capt. No. 4 Service Co., R.G. of the N.W. Field Force, 1885.

Ended Her Own Life.

Brockville, Ont., June 30.—Elizabeth Brown, aged 18, who deliberately shot herself with a revolver last Tuesday because of some words she had with her father, died last night in the General Hospital. The bullet took effect in the region of the heart. The deceased was an extremely good-looking colored girl. An inquest will be held.

Thinning Out Their Fruit.

Hart, Mich., June 30.—Fruit growers are busy thinning their fruit. In every orchard men go through and pick off a large part of the growing crop, leaving but a small percentage on the trees. The fruit men have all found this method profitable, even where fruit is scarce. There will be an immense fruit crop in Western Michigan this year.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM—Mr. S. Ackerman, commercial traveler, Belleville, writes: "Some years ago I used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for inflammatory rheumatism, and three bottles effected a complete cure. I was the whole of one summer unable to move without crutches, and every movement caused excruciating pains. I am now out on the road and exposed to all kinds of weather, but have never been troubled with rheumatism since. I, however, keep a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Oil on hand, and I always recommend it to others, as it did so much for me."

She is Incorrigible.

My sister has been troubled with severe headache, but these pills have cured her."

The Deposit Put Up for a Re-count of Votes Cast in Hamilton.

Claim Made That Many Ballots Were Wrongfully Rejected—Sudden Death of a Hamilton Man at Port Dover—Offenders Sent to Prison—Samuel Curran's Remains Forwarded to Binghamton, N.Y., for Burial.

Hamilton, June 30.—(Special.)—It has been decided to ask for a re-count in the recent Dominion elections in Hamilton, and last night the necessary deposit of $100 was made by the firm of Nesbitt, Gauld & Dickson, on behalf of Charles W. Bampfylde, who, in an affidavit before Judge Snider, declared that in his bel ef votes were improperly accepted and rejected by the returning officers. The judge appointed Friday as the day on which the work of re-counting the ballots should be made and the work will continue til completed. The Conservatives believe that many of the rejected ballots were for their candidates, and as Mr. Macpherson's majority over Mr. Boville was only a small one they believe a re-count may put the latter second man.

A Sudden Call to a Walton.

Wallace Walton, 107 Caroline-street north, brother of W. G. Walton, died suddenly in Port Dover last evening of heart trouble. The deceased was a carpenter in the employ of the Grand Trunk, and was working on a bridge at Port Dover yesterday, but about 6 o'clock he was taken ill and died in a few minutes. The body was brought to the city this morning for interment.

The Bicycle and Good Roads.

Editor World: I have noticed from time to time several letters and editorials in your paper advocating a bicycle tax, the proceeds to be devoted to better wheel roads. Judging from the tone of the letters published and your own articles, it seems to be assumed that the very general opposition of wheelmen to what they rightly consider an unjust tax is not only short-sighted, but actually unreasonable, but this is far from the case. Allow me to give you several very good reasons why this tax should not be levied. It is not true that better roads are required for bicycles than for any other class of vehicles, and if the roads require mending for bicycles they need it in a much greater degree for other kinds of traffic. Bicycles do not destroy roads in the least, and wherever the road is of a nature to permit it the wheels act as rollers, flattening out the ruts and improving the road. Bicyclists already pay their share of taxes and are as much entitled to consideration as any other class of road users. But by far the most important reason why they very properly refuse to be taxed for this purpose is the well known, economic truth that public improvements of all kinds and especially good roads add to the value of the real estate in the vicinity, and, therefore, as long as that value is absorbed by individuals it is only right that those individuals thus benefited should bear the expense.

In the letter signed "Bicyclist," in yesterday's paper, the writer advocates strips for wheeling purposes along certain block-paved streets. Where these are needed it is notorious that the streets themselves should be repaved, and in many cases would have been repaved before this but for the objections of the property-owners. If this was done there would be no need for bicycle paths, and should these latter be built it is evident that the street would require that much less pavement, and the wheelmen would thus save penurious property-owners, who are now too poor or too stingy to lay a proper pavement, just the amount that was spent on the paths.

It would be more to the point if those streets really needing paving should be paved whether by consent of the owners or in spite of their opposition, and the City Engineer should see that all future pavements are suitable for the new condition of affairs and all cedar pavements should be abolished. There is no better all-round pavement than macadam; it is suited to all kinds of traffic and is not expensive, either to lay or repair, and it should be used in all cases where the property-owners object to a more expensive pavement. If The World spent its energies in getting a law passed compelling all vehicles to have tires of not less than four inches in width, it would confer an immense benefit, not only on wheelmen, but upon the driving community as well, for instead of every fresh rig cutting up the road with their knife-like wheels as now, every time any one passed along the road with a four or five-inch tire it would have the same effect as a sixteen or twenty-inch roller; every user of the road would make it better and then our roads would soon be as good as the magnificent highways of England. ALAN C THOMPSON.

ON THE BAY AND LAKE.

News of the Water Front—Holiday Traffic Will be Heavy.

There is a general opinion among the steamboat men along the waterfront that if to-day the weather is fine a record-breaking business will be done on all lines, and preparations were in progress all day yesterday to get ready for the expected crowds. Already large numbers of people have left by boat to spend the holiday, yesterday's steamers being well crowded on all their trips.

The excursion season is full under way and the water trips have lost none of their old-time popularity. There were several annual picnic parties yesterday, among them being Zion Sunday school, who enjoyed a fine outing at Centre Island.

The Empress of India is daily bringing large numbers of visitors to the city from St. Catharines and other districts.

The Greyhound and Queen City took excursions to Oakville and Grimsby Park respectively.

The Ferry Company expect to have a mighty busy day at the Island today. They are offering grand attractions, as will be seen in the advertising columns.

In addition to the hustling and bustling of pleasure-seekers along the docks, a large amount of freight is being handled. Among the incoming schooners yesterday was the Jessie Drummond, which landed 585 tons of coal from Oswego. From the same port the St. Joseph brought 702 tons of coal.

Owing to circumstances the steamer John Hanlan will not run from Morse-street, Ashbridge's Bay. It is expected that arrangements will be completed by next Saturday for the first trip.

Mrs. D. Says: "For years I have been nervous and weakly. I took one dollar's worth of Miller's Compound Iron Pills, and am now quite well and strong."

Drowned While Bathing.

Pembroke, Ont., June 30.—Two boys, 9 and 11 years old, sons of George Coffee of Pembroke Township, were drowned in the Muskrat River on Saturday evening. The bodies were discovered the same evening. The boys had been bathing.

Only those who have had experience can tell the torture corns cause. Pain with your boots on, pain with them off—pain night and day; but relief is sure to those who use Holloway's Corn Cure.
