point in the morning that under the charge which had been laid, only evidence concerning elections since 1904 could be heard. This afternoon Magistrate Denison astounded Mr. Robinette dence concerning elections since 1904 and Mr. Wilkie by stating that he had had the charged amended by the prosecution, so as to take in all elections as yet held in Ontario, if it was deemed advisable to do so.

Mr. Robinette then argued that all the evidence taken under the old charge was illegal, but he was overruled by the magistrate. The objection was noted, however, and it will be an important point if the case ever goes to

When the investigation was resumed in the afternoon, James Rustin, of London, was first examined. He swore he got $9 50 from Jerry Collins in Lewis' hotel for distributing circulars. He said Mr. Sifton was in the committee-room when the money was placed in an envelope for him until after the election. Mulloy was not in the committee-room.
