NEW PITCHER HERE FOR VETS; RUMOR GIBBONS MAY JOIN G. W. V. A. TEAM

Parlee and Beatey Let Go; McGowan Out of the Game.

Jack McElroy pitching ace of the Centredale team of Providence R. I., arrived in the city today to join the G. W. V. A. club of the Two League. In addition to signing a contract with the local club this week he also signed a life contract with a pretty maiden from his home town and today as he stepped off the train he and his bride, who was Miss Catherine Chace, were given a hearty welcome. The new pitcher is a "split-ball" artist and is reputed to be one of the best in the semi-professional ranks in the Eastern States. He made a favorable impression with fans who were at the station to greet him.

Manager Coughlin, who was at the station to meet his new pitcher, announced that he has released pitchers Parlee and Beatey. He explained that he is also without the services of Y. A. club pitcher Jack McGowan, who was forced to retire as a result of poor health and business responsibilities.

There was some talk today of Eddie "Whitie" Gibbons joining the Vets. It is said that his name was omitted from the list presented by St. Peter's and that as this leaves him a free agent and that he will appear with the G. W. V. A. club. Asked about this Manager Coughlin said that he could not give anything definite out until after a meeting of the executive.

Joe Ford, manager of the Fredericton team arrived in the city on the Boston train at noon today to attend a meeting of the executive. He said he had been to Millinocket, Me., looking over some players with a view to signing them. One pitcher, with which he desired to do business asked for more money than he was disposed to give and he had to turn him down. He is negotiating with a catcher there and may secure him to assist O'Brien, who has been in poor health lately.

That's why they selected Miss Elizabeth Thompson of Moscow, Ida., who meets all official visitors to Spokane in symbolic costume dressed as "Miss Columbia." She met President Harding, who said he was much impressed with her.

Disastrous as was the loss of life, the interior of the mine was only slightly damaged by the explosion and rescue workers who plunged into the smoke-filled passages early today were hampered but little by debris. At Entry 16 it was necessary to clear away a mass of timber and debris which had been piled up by the concussion. No trace of fire.

Charred timbers and smoke blackened cars found by rescuers at first led to the belief that fire was raging in the workings after the explosion but investigation later is said to have revealed no other traces of conflagration.

As news of the explosion spread quickly throughout Kemmerer and Frontier yesterday, a crowd estimated at 10,000 persons gathered in the vicinity of the mine and maintained a frantic vigil throughout the day and far into the night. Mournful wails and cries of the bereaved mothers and children of the entombed men pressed against the rope barrier strung round the shaft, and at times overwhelmed the small force of police and volunteers as rescue crews emerged from the underground tunnels.

Many Unidentified.
At the temporary morgue downtown in Kemerer, throngs of weeping relatives of men who had lost their lives in the blast passed slowly along before the caskets, many still unidentified or stood in small groups, assuaging the sorrow of those who had been bereaved.

The first intimation of the disaster yesterday was a long tongue of smoke which shot from the fans used to ventilate the mine.

The United States received 2,514 gallons of seal blubber from the Pribilof Islands last year.
