COMMISSION NOT COMPETING

Mr. Foss Outlines Plan of Power Supply for Communities.

Any community within reach of the Musquash development can organize an electric light district and contract with the N. B. Electric Power Commission for a supply of current, so C. O. Foss, chief engineer of the commission, said today. It will be necessary for them to become incorporated by act of legislature first, he added, and receive from that body authority to issue bonds to cover the cost of distribution.

Mr. Foss reiterated his denial that the commission proposed going into competition with any municipality or district in the supply of electric current. He said that the aim of the commission was to give the people the power at cost, and where there was no municipality or incorporated district to handle the distribution the commission was prepared to distribute it. He said that this was not necessary nor desirable, as each sub-station would add to the expense and would also weaken the main line.

The present plan, he pointed out, was to erect a sub-station near Brookville, from which could be served all the area between that place and the city, including East St. John, as well as the places along the C. N. R., as far as Fair Vale, including Renforth and Rothesay. Another station was planned for Hampton to distribute over the area from New Brunswick to Bloomfield, and another at Sussex would serve the consumers from Norton to Penobscia. If any district found that it could not guarantee sufficient to pay for its own distribution, it could be joined with another district and served through the commission. A line from the sub-station in the Manawagonish road would provide for the people along the line of the C. P. R.

Mr. Foss pointed out that the commission was not figuring on making profit from the people if any municipality or district for that reason would not attempt to enter into competition with municipal or district bodies who were acting for the people just as the commission was.

STOREKEEPERS
HALED TO COURT
Reports Against Several Under Food Regulations.

Some cases brought by the sub-district board of health were before the court this morning. Dr. A. Aronoff, George A. Chaggaris and Samuel Kashetsky were charged, on information laid by Dr. William Warwick, district medical health officer, with keeping for sale goods not properly covered as required by law. Daniel Mullin, K. C., appeared for the three accused and Dr. J. Roy Campbell, K. C., represented the board of health. The case against Aronoff was the first taken up and a plea of not guilty was entered. Dr. J. S. Fiedling, assistant food inspector, reported on conditions as she found them on Sept. 5. She was cross-examined by Mr. Mullin as to the scope of her duties and the frequency with which she paid visits. She said she had left copies of the regulations at Aronoff's store at various times and had explained them to him. He had not been in the store on the last occasion.

M. Burns, secretary of the sub-district board, identified a copy of the food regulations. Mr. Mullin said that the regulations of Section 44, were not warranted by the health act, Chapter 86, Acts of 1918 and therefore were ultra vires. Considerable argument ensued upon this point.

The cases against Chaggaris and Kashetsky were substantially the same and adjournment was made until Monday morning, the accused being released on $100 deposit for their appearance. Claude Richardson and Alexander McBeth, on like charges, were required to put up deposits of $200 and $25 respectively for their appearance at the same time.

SAYS BUSINESS BETTER.
Walter G. Miller, of the local C. G. M. staff, returned to the city last night from Sydney, where he was superintending the loading of the Canadian Conqueror with steel for Australia and New Zealand. Mr. Miller says that business, and especially harbor business, is increasing and that the British Empire Steel Corporation are gradually raising the amount of their output. The Conqueror took with her the largest cargo of steel products ever sent from this country to Australia. It included barbed wire, nails, staples, nail wire, and fence wire, and totalled 2,300 tons. She had also 450 automobiles and general cargo from Montreal. She is one of the larger of the C. G. M. M. boats, being 3,386 tons register. Captain George Foy is in command for his second trip in this vessel from Canada to Australia. While in Sydney, Mr. Miller also assisted in the loading of the Canadian Coaster with a part cargo of ammonium sulphate. She sailed on Monday.

STREET WORK.
The city public works department was engaged today in putting the finishing touches on the paving work in Prince William street which will be completed before tonight. The junction of the new pavement with Princess street and also at the foot of King street was effected this morning and the last of the sidewalk work was done this afternoon. In spite of the delays occasioned by bad weather and the difficulty of carrying on work without paralysing traffic, the work was finished in good time and presents a greatly improved appearance over the old street.

Another cartload of granite curbing was received in the city today for use in Waterloo street and will be sufficient to complete that street. This will be about the last curbing work to be undertaken this year.
