HOCKEY.

Moncton and Amherst.
(Moncton Transcript).
The Amherst News reports that Amherst athletes were greatly disappointed by the "unwanted" turn of events taken at the meeting of the reinstatement committee of the Amateur Athletic Union held a few evenings ago in Moncton. The sports editor of the News says: "As far as I know there is no reason under the sun why these younger players should not be reinstated."

The Young players were misled to a certain extent and are now more than anxious to get back into the fold."

Further the News says:
"In Amherst the fans are anxious to give their support to one team—preferably Amherst. This applies to all towns as well—but the feelings of the fans have to be considered and they naturally will support the aggregation that provides the fastest hockey. While several players have stated definitely that they will not enter into competition against Moncton—after the rough tactics that the Monctonians used last winter, circumstances may alter cases—although speaking frankly, the News is not in favor of an independent hockey league as formed last winter. If Springfield, the Pictou towns, the Cape Breton clubs, the North Shore teams and a few other clubs swing over in favor of independent action—well Amherst, Moncton and New Glasgow, cannot control the amateur situation in the province today—nor will their opposition be of any great weight, even if they lead the way."

To this the Transcript says:
"The News believes Moncton knows nothing about the hockey situation in Amherst. Amherst hockey situation was plainly made known in Saturday's edition of the Transcript. Amherst players in seeking reinstatement into amateur ranks should act fairly with players from other towns. Amherst, it is said, is willing to take affidavits that their independent league players, or a number of them, were not paid for services in the independent hockey league of 1920 and 1921. The question is Did John D. Rockefeller pay them? Did Johns leave the coin for them some twenty-six hundred years ago? Let Amherst deal fairly with other players, and at the same time avoid personalities."

Wild ducks are so plentiful in the Sedgwick district, Alberta, that one farmer, living eight miles from that town, reports a 30-acre tract of wheat destroyed on his farm by the birds. GEMS ARE SOUGHT IN ANCIENT WALLS

Hidden and Long Forgotten Jewel Caches in Old English Homes.

London, Dec. 1.—There is no necessity for any secrecy now if the builders at present tearing down and rearranging the interior of a house in a well known and aristocratic quarter in London come upon a wealth of jewels and jewelry. They who were intimately concerned in the present affair have long ago gone to dust. Their descendants, however, are keeping a close eye on developments. Some time ago this mansion was bought having been the town house of a landed family for many generations.

Somewhere within the walls of a room which was the boudoir of one of its chateaux lie not only a small fortune in precious stones and goldsmith's work, but some heirlooms of a ducal family. The chateaux was very lovely, but by no means straightlaced. One afternoon, when visiting a friend, she died suddenly. Her husband had her boudoir shut up and refused to have any search made for the jewels, which it then became known she had been receiving from her dual lover, who was now much embarrassed by reason of certain of them being heirlooms in his family.

Not for three generations, and on a distant branch of the aggrieved husband's family succeeding to the property was the boudoir reopened, and though search was then instituted nothing remarkable was found. The lady's cache remained undiscovered. If and when the heirlooms come to light again it is certain the lawyers will claim by the wrangling for possession of them.
