NOTED PROFESSOR TO BE HEARD
Here on Greek Theatre and Drama

Professor William Fenwick Harris, formerly of Harvard University, will deliver an illustrated lecture on "The Greek Theatre and the Greek Drama" in the Centenary Sunday School room, on Monday evening. The lecture is under the auspices of the Archaeological Society, and members and their friends are invited. Professor Harris will also speak in Halifax, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, Toronto and Hamilton.

Professor Harris, until recently of Harvard, is president of the Boston Society of the Archaeological Institute of America, the parent society of the institute founded by Charles Eliot Norton, who is also a member of the executive committee of the institute. Professor Harris was born in Nova Scotia in 1868, and was moved to Boston. He studied seven years at Harvard, and three at Oxford, Berlin, and Paris, with extensive travels in Europe. He taught Greek at Harvard from 1898 to 1909, when he resigned to devote himself to writing. He served with Charles Eliot Norton, John Williams White and Francis Bacon in the publication of "Investigations at Assos," an account of the first excavations on Greek soil undertaken by the Archaeological Institute.

He has visited all the more important ancient Greek theatres, has devoted himself largely to the Greek drama, and has had a considerable experience in the actual performance of classic plays, having acted in the famous performance of the "Phaenomena" of Terence at Harvard, staged the "Scenes from the Birds" of Aristophanes, and was one of the committee of the classical department of Harvard which presented the "Agamemnon" of Aeschylus in the stadium, perhaps the most ambitious performance of a Greek play in modern times. He is writing a history of the Greek drama, and in collaboration with the late George Riddle has written a modern comedy.

ST. PETER'S RETREAT FOR MEN CLOSED BY FATHER BORGMANN

Strong Exhortation to Live Life of Grace and Die in the Friendship of God

"Who go to heaven, and who go to hell?" asked Rev. Henry Borgmann, C. SS. R., in St. Peter's church, North End, last evening at the close of the men's retreat. His answer to the question was: "Only those who live in the friendship of God go to heaven and only those who die in the state of sin go to hell."

No person who passes from this earth with mortal sin on his soul shall see the eternal glory of God. "The light to follow the ways of Christ comes from heaven, the darkness of evil is from hell. If we do God's will on earth we shall certainly be blessed with a place in His kingdom hereafter. That is what the Catholic church has always taught, from the earliest age of her history, and will always teach, while the world goes on."

The speaker told of the need of always keeping in the state of grace, so that we could say at all times, not that "I hope I will go to Heaven," or "I think I shall be called to heaven," but to assert with assurance, "I know I am going to heaven," or "I know I am not going to hell."

Only by remaining free from mortal sin could one hope to be admitted to appear before God, and by mortal sin he meant grievous sins against the commandments. Some of them he enumerated as he most common, dwelling at some length on immorality in its various forms. He scored bad plays, immoral reading matter, immodest pictures, as things to be shunned as poisons should be avoided. As Catholics men he asked his hearers to refrain from showing any interest, even the slightest, in things of this nature.

Father Borgmann, in conclusion, advised the men of St. Peter's to be seen often at the sacrament.

"If a man has committed a grievous sin," said the speaker, "he needs to examine his conscience in order to be reminded of it? Not at all. It is to have a conscience to examine, it will haunt him morning and night, day in, day out, until he has relieved his mind by the sacrament of penance. As we would remove a splinter from our hand, a splinter from our eye, as we would wash ourselves clean of dirt, so we would remove all sin from our soul, for until the stain which mortal sin inflicts has been taken away the state of grace is not ours, and should we die the devil hereafter would be our guardian."

The question was not to be asked "Has he been in the state of grace?" but "Did he die in the state of grace?" when referring to one who had passed away. "This was the important matter; not how well he had lived, but how well he had died. Father Borgmann, in conclusion, asked the services of the retreat to attend community either on or before Sunday, so that if Christ should send the call of death, they might then be prepared to go, and their friends could rest assured that they had been summoned before the judgment seat of God in grace, the grace which meant everlasting peace and happiness in the world to come."

NERVES AT HIGH TENSION

Necessary in This Age of Keen Competition and Great Accomplishment

When the Body Fails to Support the Brain seek the Help of

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Nervous people are the salt of the earth. The great men and great women are usually those of nervous temperament. But, it takes an enormous quantity of blood to supply energy to the great brain or a highly tensioned nervous system. Digestion fails because nerve force is lacking to control the flow of digestive fluids. A little extra excitement is followed by the agony of a sleepless night. You are easily irritated and lose patience, you lack the reserve force which is necessary for success and to ward off disease.

Unfortunately nervous diseases do not right themselves, and since your digestive system fails to supply sufficient nourishment you must seek external assistance such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure is not a narcotic to deaden the nerves. It is not a stimulant to whip up the nerves to renewed effort. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food feeds the feeble, waned nerves back to health and vigor. It floods the nervous system with new rich blood, the only substance from which nerve force can be made. Fifty cents a box, 6 for $2.50 at all dealers, or Edmundson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

COLONEL SAM'S VICTORY

he Tables Turned By Him o Conservatives in Matter of Ross Rifle

(Ottawa Free Press)

The official announcement that the Borden government has, upon the advice of the minister of militia, adopted the Ross rifle as the national arm of the Canadian militia, is a distinct triumph for the conservative party in and out of the commons (with the exception of Colonel Sam), would have dared to predict that the whole party would, within six months of attaining to office, adopt the arm which they then condemned.

There was a division in the commons on May 22, 1908, upon a vote of censure upon Sir Frederick Borden and the Laurier government for having adopted the Ross rifle. Among those who voted against the Ross rifle at that occasion were—R. L. Borden, G. E. Foster, G. H. Porter, members of the present cabinet, and among the present members who voted against the Ross rifle were: Messrs. Armstrong, of Lambton, Cockshutt, Crockett, Fowler, McLean, of Queen's, Porter, Schaffner, Sprague, and Wright, of Muskoka. It was a small vote, but the pairs counted as votes and among the Conservatives who paired against the Ross rifle were: Messrs. Monk, J. D. Reid, Roche, Forget and Kemp, who are now members of the cabinet; and such party stalwarts as Messrs. Burnham, Carr, Northrup, Elson, Lennox, Macdonell, Lancaster, Boyce, Clements, Henderson, Haggart, Payet, Oiler, Broadbent, Beattie, Bennett, Blain, Branson, Bristol, Clave, Lewis, W. F. Maclean, Stanfield and Staples.

This was the memorable occasion upon which Colonel Sam, replying to the taunts and sneers of G. W. Fowler, asserted that he would be minister of militia and predicted that when that time came, he would continue the use of the Ross rifle. He is not only a good prophet, but an excellent hand at making a party swallow itself.

The opposition should have pleasure and provide considerable amusement by reading some of the incidents of the anti-Ross rifle debates when the militia estimate is reached.

EAT AND GET THIN

This is turning an old phrase face about but modern methods of reducing fat have made this routine possible.

If you are overweight and also averse to physical exertion during this warm weather, and therefore fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this—Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Co., 1179 Farm or Bide, Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) 75 cents. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure, without fear of harm, even on the hottest summer days. He will hand you a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription), one of which must be taken after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat at the rate of 12 to 16 pounds a day. That is all. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully, and you will find that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.
