

STARK GAZER IN SUIT WITH HIS SOULATE FESTIVAL AND THE NEW HATS

Miss Gazzam Comes Athwart Cupid's Milky Way and Trouble Speedily Follows.

The Matrimonial Entanglements That Have Developed the Discovery of Mme. Mizpah.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Ever since the spirit wires got crossed in the married life of Prof. Niblo and Mme. Mizpah, both mystics to Chicago society, the madam has wondered what beautiful blonde Miss Antoinette Elizabeth Gazzam is going to do next.

Miss Gazzam is heiress of the late Philadelphia State senator of that name. She has less money now than before she met Prof. Niblo, declares the madam cast a couple of horoscopes, called a lawyer, threw a trance, and as a result announced her husband and Miss Gazzam were deeply in love, and that the professor was money mad.

She couldn't divine being a woman as well as a star gazer, what beauty Niblo saw in any other than herself. Thus the curtain rose on a scandal in the occult world, the signs enough to turn all the signs of the zodiac topsyturvy.

His Real Name. Prof. Niblo's real name, when not communing with the Milky Way, is Marshall Clark. Tall, with a soldierly presence and a true mystic stare, he has been a striking silhouette figure on Michigan boulevard for several years.

He and the madam attained remarkable success in jerking the unworldly spirits and stars did peculiar things when the subject arrived at the branch office. Mme. Mizpah was making her name good, for when she and her husband were absent, one from another, the telephone helped a lot.

In fact, money came in so fast that the madam was able to purchase a $150,000 damask suit against Miss Gazzam by the madam in New York. Meanwhile the pretty cause of it all smiled sweetly and said: "I'll wait my entire life and spend my fortune on the man I love."

Nobody but the stars knows what is coming next, and while Miss Gazzam smiles, she is not quite happy. The lawyers are, though.

Then came application by the professor for a divorce in Nevada, indignant counter-charges by Mme. Mizpah in Chicago, and the filing of a $150,000 damask suit against Miss Gazzam by the madam in New York.

Miss Antoinette Elizabeth Gazzam and her smile that saddened the stars.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The Hudson-Fulton celebration brought out a motley crowd, yet it certainly did something toward forcing the autumn season. In the shops every effort was made to tempt out of town visitors to extravagance. In restaurants and theatres and on the streets more smart new costumes appeared than are usually in evidence in early October.

New Street Frocks. New street frocks and new millinery held the stage centre and various amusing phases of both were exploited through the whole there is much to be said in praise of both.

The early hats are always prone to exaggeration and there are always women to whom this very note appeals, who snatch up the first and most striking models gloriing in their spectacular character.

Telephone Busy. Between calls, the wordy telephone was kept busy. Of course, then, the unworried spirits and stars did peculiar things when the subject arrived at the branch office.

Master Raymond Hackett, aged 9, who plays David in the Awakenings of Helena Ritchie.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 4.—If Lloyd Pryor, her lover hadn't insisted that she live there, it isn't probable that Helena Ritchie would ever have consented to live in quaint old Chester, in the state of Pennsylvania. Back 60 years ago Chester took her neighbors and God-fearing, though for all we know they may be the same now. It was easy to be good in Chester. And was Helena good, when she rejoiced to see Lloyd, whose business was in Philadelphia, enter the quaint old home he had rented for her, on his weekly visits?

Told of Brother. The interest the good village folk took in her made it necessary for her to tell them that Lloyd was her brother. As to her matrimonial state, she didn't tell them that her husband, after driving her from him with mistreatment, was drinking himself to death in Paris.

Dear old Dr. Lavender, the village preacher, who bore the burden of the countryside, the village doctor, Wm. King, and a young wild poet boy were her friends. When they called a wife of a boy, whom they called David, they brought him to Helena for care.

Biggest Thing of Life. Her heartstrings were wound about the little fellow, and a mother love which she did not know in her, became the biggest thing of her life. But she was forced to live to little David, and he, too, thought Lloyd was her brother.

But one day came the message that her husband had died, and when Lloyd came on his next visit she suggested marriage.

Little David entered the room while they were talking. "But you must give him up," said Lloyd.

"I won't," cried Helena. "Why?" "Remember Alice?" asked Lloyd, mentioning his daughter, whose mother was dead. "David thinks I am your son," said Helena.

SCHISM IS GROWING IN SCIENTIST CHURCH

Removal of Mrs. Augusta Stetson Believed To Be the Preliminary to Big Split in Ranks of Christian Scientists.

New York, Oct. 4.—The most drastic step yet taken by the officials of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, in the attempt which has been going on for several years to remove Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, dominant influence in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of New York, was made known yesterday when it was learned that the Boston officials have revoked Mrs. Stetson's license to teach Christian Science and have removed her card as a practitioner from the Christian Science Journal, one of the publications of the organization.

The action by the directors of the mother church, as the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, is known, followed an exhaustive inquiry into Mrs. Stetson's methods of teaching and practicing Christian Science. The inquiry was finished on September 25, but only a few persons in this city and in Boston, were aware of its results.

What the ultimate outcome of Mrs. Stetson's punishment will be no one identified with the Christian Science movement in this city would say last night. Mrs. Stetson for many years has been considered as the most influential individual in the organization, excepting its leader and founder, Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy. Excepting Mrs. Eddy, more practitioners and leaders in the Christian Science Church have received their instruction from Mrs. Stetson than any other person.

FIRST WOMAN TO VIEW HALLEY'S COMET

To Mrs. Fleming Belongs Honor of Being the First Woman to See Phenomenon on Re-appearance.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 4.—To Mrs. Wilmina F. Fleming, curator of astronomical photographs at Harvard University, belongs the distinction of probably being the first woman who has ever looked upon Halley's comet. When the comet was first sighted through the glass Thursday evening at the observatory, there was great rejoicing, as it had been eagerly looked for for some time. The following night Mrs. Fleming viewed it, but on account of the unfavorable conditions no photographs were taken.

Of Scottish Descent. Mrs. Fleming, who is of Scottish descent, first laid claim to public attention in 1897, when she discovered the spectrum of a meteor. It was from a photograph taken at Arequipa, Peru, in the right ascension and forwarded to the observatory, where her trained eye discovered what many astronomers had spent a lifetime seeking. This discovery was only an

WOMEN MAKE GAINS IN ALL ENDEAVORS

Interesting Statistics from Germany Showing Spread of University Training Among Women.

London, Oct. 4.—Nowadays a great deal of space in the English and Continental press is devoted to women and their movements. Recently from France has come the news of a victory for the feminists in the winning of a prize in the art competition known as the Prix de Rome by a woman for the first time since its institution by Louis XIV, in 1666, Mlle. Lucienne Heuvelmans, of, but of course, there are hat shapes innumerable, and many of the best descriptions, so individual are their lines, so far outside any of the bold classifications; and these four groups modifications are the most conspicuous favorites in the early autumn showing.

TO DISPENSE WITH THE HOSTILE CRITIC

London, Oct. 4.—An invention to dispense of the hostile dramatic critic has reached England by way of Italy. It is called the pephograph and is a slot machine with four dials labelled "good," "bad," "indifferent" and "total," giving the number of votes.

Can't Lie. "The first machine I made was placed in the lobby of a theatre in Rome. The result was highly satisfactory from the theatre manager's point of view. There was a large majority in favor of the play, and the figures were placarded outside the theatre like the result of an election.

It would be interesting to know the opinion of English playgoers on a first night performance. It would be criticism which could not be prejudiced or biased in any way. The pephograph cannot lie."
