

and in the garden ground attached to Whitehall Gardens along the Embankment, to provide accommodation for approximately 85,000 persons in all.

In addition, standing space for approximately 30,000 persons will be reserved in Constitution Hill and at the Queen Victoria Memorial and on the pavements round Parliament Square and in the vicinity of the Palace of Westminster.

The seats on the stands, for which a charge will be made, and the free standing space will be allocated in accordance with a scheme which, after providing a number for visitors from the Dominions, India and the Colonies, will allow of an allotment of seats and standing room to representatives of as many facets of the national life as possible, e.g., official, municipal, professional, labour, &c.

The actual selection of these national and other services and activities is having careful consideration.

No applications for tickets from individuals can be considered either by the Coronation Committee or by the Office of Works.
