A TEMPEST OF BATTLE.

Stirring Description of a Cavalry Charge at Gettysburg.

A cavalry charge met by a counter-charge of cavalry is still perhaps the most terrible spectacle witnessed in war. If the reader has never seen such a charge he can form little conception of its awe inspiring fury. Imagine yourself looking down from Gettysburg's heights upon the open, wide-spreading plain below where 5,000 horses are marshaled in battle line. Standing beside them are 5,000 riders armed, booted and spurred and ready to mount. The bugles sound the "Mount!" and instantly 5,000 plumes rise above the horses as the riders spring into their saddles. In front of the respective squadrons the daring leaders take their places. The fluttering pennants or streaming guidons, ten to each regiment, mark the left of the companies. On the opposite slope of the same plain are 5,000 hostile horsemen clad in different uniforms ready to meet these in countercharge. Under those 10,000 horses are their hoofs, iron shod and pitiless, beneath whose furious tread the plain is soon to quiver. Again on each slope of the open field the bugles sound. Ten thousand sabers leap from scabbards and glister in the sun. The trained horses chafe their restraining bits, and as the bugle notes sound the charge their nostrils dilate and their flanks swell in sympathetic impulse with the dashing riders. "Forward!" shouts the commander. Down the lines and through the columns in quick succession ring the echoing commands, "Forward, forward!" As this order thrills through eager ears sabers flash and spurs are planted in palpitating flanks. The madly flying horses thunder across the trembling field, filling the air with clouds of dust and whizzing pebbles. Their iron rimmed hoofs in remorseless tread crush the stones to powder and crash through the flesh and bones of hapless riders who chance to fall. As front against front these furious riders plunge, their sweeping sabers slashing edge against edge, cutting a way through opposing ranks, fending heads, breaking arms and splitting flanks, it is a scene of wildest war, a whirling tempest of battle, short lived, but terrible.—General John B. Gordon in Scribner's.

HAPPY HITS.

Don't open a set of account books when you do a kindness for anybody. Advantages always look larger than disadvantages, even when the scales are balanced.

Don't marry money. You can spend the money, but you can't spend the trouble you may get with it.

Somehow when a brother and sister quarrel it comes nearer to what a man and wife say than any other thing.

Occasionally you know a man you can't help admiring, but who is such a fool that you want to beat him to death.

Somehow a scrambled egg reminds us of a failure. The cook didn't get the egg out whole, so she scrambled it. Some people make scrambled eggs of half they do.

When a man's folks are away and he goes to a restaurant to eat it seems pretty tough to pay 35 cents for a meal. At home he doesn't realize that he is paying anything.

A Famous Bell.

One of the biggest bells in the world is in Cologne cathedral and is known as the "Glorious." It was cast from twenty-two French cannon captured in the Franco-Prussian war and was presented to the cathedral by the Kaiser. It bears the German arms and two inscriptions. One, in Latin, expresses the emperor's gratitude for the divine mercy in granting him victory. The other, in German, declares: "I am the emperor's bell, and I proclaim his glory. I fill a sacred post, and I pray heaven to grant peace and prosperity to the German empire."

Reciprocity.

"Sure," said Patrick, rubbing his head with delight at the prospect of a present, "I always mane to do me duty."

"I believe you," replied his employer, "and therefore I shall make you a present of all you have stolen from me during the year."

"Thank your honor," replied Pat, "and may all your friends and acquaintances trate you as liberally."—London Telegraph.

Unwelcome Advice.

Miners and Quarrymen.

There are 4,500,000 miners and quarrymen in the world.

Feast of the Arrow.

The feast of the arrow is a Persian festival. It commemorates the feat of Arish, who at evening shot the famous arrow which fell 500 miles away, by 12 o'clock the next day.

Golden Weddings.

Although about 45 per cent of married couples celebrate their silver wedding, only one couple in a thousand live to celebrate their golden anniversary.

The Lime Juice Island.

Nearly all the lime juice used in the world comes from the tiny island of Montserrat, in the British West Indies. The lime grows wild in many West Indian islands, but only in Montserrat is it used commercially. That island is one vast garden of lime trees, and nowhere in the world is there a finer sight than its thirty miles of orchards, laden with the fruit of the lime or fragrant with its blossoms.

The fruit is gathered by negro women, who carry it down the hills to the shipping port in big baskets on their heads. Like all West Indians, they are remarkable for their ability to carry heavy weights in this manner. Once the company which controls the lime juice industry sought to lighten the burden of its laborers by introducing wheelbarrows.

The negroes filled the wheelbarrows readily enough, and then carried them on their heads as they had been used to carry the baskets. Many a negro woman will carry a hundredweight of limes on her head for a distance of a mile or more.—Indianapolis News.

Chair Postures.

It is one thing to have a chair and another to know how to sit on it. The ideal of a graceful sitting posture has varied in the different ages of the world. The Egyptian sat bolt upright, the knees and feet closely pressed together. It was the ceremonial attitude. The Greeks and Romans, when they were at liberty to forget their dignity, sat stooping, with one or both elbows supported by the arms of the chair.

The Chinese ideal was with the knees and feet wide apart. They have maintained that attitude in sitting for 400 years. The Saxons and early Norman kings are represented in old manuscript and on coins in the same position. Down to a date comparatively recent, kings and queens received sitting stiffly on their thrones, any marked change of posture being thought to derogate from the royal dignity. They now receive standing.

A Legend of February.

Here is the pretty legend which tells why February has only twenty-eight or twenty-nine days. Long ago, they say, February was a gambler, and he was so unlucky that he soon lost all his money. Like other gamblers, he tried to recover it, and he said to his companions that if they would lend him some money he would give them as security one of his days. January and March, who were naturally associated with him more often than any of the other months, accepted his offer, and as poor February soon lost the money which he had borrowed each of them acquired one of his days. That is why January and March have each thirty-one days and February has only twenty-eight in ordinary and twenty-nine in leap years.

Ungrateful Girl.

"Miss Pechis," began Mr. Klose, "if you marry me you can be assured that"— "I'm sorry, Mr. Klose," the girl interrupted hastily, "but it is impossible. I can never marry you."

"What! Well, if that ain't ingratitude. Didn't I bring you a box of candy last week?"—Philadelphia Press.

Nothing More Doing.

The Mistress—How long were you in your last place? Cook—Three weeks, ma'am. The Mistress—And why did you leave? Cook—Sure, ma'am, all the dishes were gone.—Detroit Free Press.

What He Didn't Mean.

Mr. Blunder—Why, your mother looks as young as you do, Miss Stale. Miss S. (stiffly)—That is not very complimentary to me, Mr. Blunder. Mr. B. (confusedly)—I didn't mean that. I—I mean you look as young as your mother.

Even With Him.

Mr. Flirty (tauntingly)—I saw Mrs. Berryman on the street today. She looked charming in her mourning gown. Mrs. Flirty (sarcastically)—Indeed! It's a pity we can't all be widows.

Frank and Honest.

Butcher—What did you think of that steak I cut you yesterday? Patron—To be perfectly frank with you, I thought it came off a South American cow that had been foddered on rubber trees.

High Fliers.

Eagles have been noticed flying at a height of 6,000 feet and storks and buzzards at 2,000 feet. A lark will rise to the same height, and so will crows. As a rule, however, birds do not fly at a greater height than 1,000 feet.

Straits of Gibraltar.

The entrance to the Mediterranean sea at Gibraltar is twelve miles wide.

Didn't Like Rain.

Sainte-Beuve detested rain. On one occasion when he had to fight a duel he appeared with a pistol in one hand, an umbrella in the other. "I am willing to be shot," he exclaimed, "but not to get wet."

Big Stones.

The Egyptian pyramids cannot vie in size of stones with the ruins at Baalbek, in Syria. The stones of the latter are sixty feet long and twenty feet square.

Capers.

Capers are the flower buds of a bush that grows in France, Spain and Algeria. The buds are picked by women and are placed in barrels of vinegar for preservation. An expert can gather forty-four pounds a day.

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness." Dirt and depravity go hand in hand. This is just as true of the inside of the body as of the outside. Constipation clogs the body and clouds the mind. Constipation means that corruption is breeding in the body, poisoning the blood with its foul emanations, befogging the brain with its tainted exhalations. Constipation is the beginning of more diseases than, perhaps, any other single disorder. The consequences of constipation are legion. Headache, pain in the side, shortness of breath, undue fullness after eating, coolness of the extremities, nervousness, indecision, lassitude, dizziness, flatulence, and scores of other ailments. Cure constipation and you cure its consequences. The quickest cure of this evil is obtained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are small in size but wonderful in result. They cure permanently. They contain no injurious ingredients. The use of them does not beget the "pill habit." Ask your druggist for them. Send 31 one-cent stamps, the expense of mailing and customs, and receive Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers. This work contains 100 pages and 700 illustrations. For 50 stamps it can be had in substantial cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TIED MOTHERS.

A Rembrandt in Canada.

The News of St. John's, Quebec, is authority for the statement, of considerable interest to art lovers that the Rev. Edward Smiley of Waterloo is the fortunate possessor of a genuine Rembrandt. It was painted about 1630-40, and represents Judith holding a sword in the right hand and the head of the Assyrian General Holofernes in the other. The painting came to the reverend gentleman by inheritance from his mother, whose family were possessors of it for many years.
