Who shall go first to the shadowy land,
My love or I?
Whose will it be in grief to stand
And press the cold, unanswering hand.
Wine from the brow the dew of death,
And catch the soft fluttering breath,
Breathe the loved name nor hear reply,
In anguish watch the glazing eye;
His or mine?

Which shall bend over the wounded sod,
My love or 1?
Commending his precious soul to God,
Till the doleful fall of the muffled clod
Startles the mind to a consciousness
Of its bitter anguish and life distress,
Dropping the pall o'er the love-lit past
With a mournful murmur, "The last—the last,"

My love or I.a.

My love or I?

Ah! then, perchance to that mourner there, My love or I? Wrestling with anguish and deep despair, And angels shall come through the gates of prayer,
And the burning eyes shall cease to weep,
And the sobs melt down in a sea of sleep,
While fancy, free from the chains of day,
Through the shadowy dreamland floats
away;
My love or 12

My love or I?

Which shall return to the desolate home,
My love or I?
And list for a step that shall never come,
And hark for a voice that must still be And make for dumb?

dumb?

While the half-stunned senses wander back To the cheerless life and thorny track;

Where the silent room and the vacant chair Have memories sweet and hard to bear;

My love or I?

And then, methinks, on that boundary land
The mourn'd and the mourner together
shall stand,
Or with by those rivers of shining sand,
Till the dreamer, awakened at dawn of day,
Finds the stone of his sepulcher rolled away,
And over the cold, dull waste of death,
The warm, bright sunlight of Holy Faith,
My love and I.

NEWS FROM IRELAND.

DUBLIN.

At a meeting of the Tenants' Central Defence Association, held in Dublin on Nov. 18th, Mr. Parnell and about twenty Nov. 18th, Mr. Farmen and about cooking others being present, resolutions were adopted, solemnly calling upon the Government forthwith to institute public works to meet the existing crisis in Ireland; requiring the Irish landlords to make equitable rent reductions, and sup-plement the expected action of the Government by affording employment on their estates during the winter; affirming that the universal peasant proprietary sys-tem was imperatively needed, and sug-gesting that the question of organization and future Parliament policy upon the land question should be referred to a conference, to be held in Dublin before the re-assembling of Parliament, in which clergymen of all denominations might, amongst others, take part. Mr. Parnell stated that the most feasible plan to establish in the part of the tablish immediately a peasant proprietary would be to employ for the purpose four millions of the Church surplus, the State to advance two-thirds of the purchase-money, to be repayable during a term of 35 years, and the landlords to receive 21 years' purchase, the sum being payable during that period. There was considerable difference of opinion expressed as to the details and effect of Mr. Parnell's

It is quite clear that a man who was in the habit of working in a boggy district might have soiled his clothes in the manner remarked by the policeman in so many different ways that these in so many different ways that these stains could not be regarded as important evidence. But Cooney's face showed signs of his having lain in straw or heather; and, what was far more important, the constable remarked that his eyebrows and upper lip were blackened. It will be remembered that the perpetrators of the attack had their faces thus disguised. It appears, however, that Cooney was able to produce nine-teen witnesses to swear that at the time of the outrage he was working at a considerable distance from the spot where it took place, and the weight of evidence being thus in his favor the charge against him was dismissed.
