

ed its final stage in this House, no new Bill for the same object can afterwards be originated in this House during the same Session.

Ordered, that immediately after Prayers, the Journals of the preceding day be always read.

Resolved that the annexing of any clause or clauses to a bill of aid or supply, the matter of which is foreign to, and different from the matter of the said Bill of Aid or Supply, is unparliamentary, and tends to the destruction of the Constitution of this Government.

The Clerk is to enter no Order until the Speaker shall first demand the assent of the House: and the Clerk is to read every Order first in the House before it be entered.

Ordered, that the Clerks of this House give attendance in the Clerk's office during the Session, between the hours of ten and twelve in the forenoon, and between the hours of two and four in the afternoon, Sundays excepted.

To have more freedom of speech, and that arguments may be used, (pro and contra;) Committees are appointed, sometimes for Bills; some times to facilitate and agree of great business, either of the whole House, or of particulars; Committees of the whole House sit in the House; but then, the Speaker sits not in the Chair as Speaker.

Ordered, that when the House shall be put into a Committee of the whole House, the House be not resumed without the unanimous consent of the Committee, unless upon a question put by the Member who shall be in the Chair of such Committee.

If they be a select Committee, they usually meet in one of the Committee-Rooms as the Members like; any of the Members of the Committee speak to the rest uncovered, but may sit still if he please.

When any thing that hath been committed is reported, the Members of the Committee stand up.
