AVIATOR KILLED

of Fifty Feet.

Deck of Warship.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 23.-With ten thousand people looking on, Eugene Ely, the aviator, fell to his death at the State Fair grounds this afternoon. When he struck Ely was terribly crushed, and died eleven minutes later. He regained consciousness long enough to mutter: "I lost control; I know I am going to die."

Ely was killed while making his second flight of the day. He ascended about three o'clock and circled the fair grounds at a speed of fifty miles an hour. As he was completing the circle he made one of his spectacular dips. The machine shot earthward dips. The machine shot earthward with great velocity, and the spectators cheered, thinking Ely would rise, as he had done before. But Ely, when 75 feet from the ground, evidently lost his grip on the lever. He rose from his seat, then he jumped and almost cleared the aeroplane as it struck the ground. The machine was shattered, ground. The machine was shattered, bits of wood and metal flying hundreds of feet. Ely himself struck with terrific force, and was partly caught under the wreckage of the machine. The broken body of the aviator was removed to his hangar and physicians summoned, but they could do nothing. Ely had a premontion of disaster before he ascended this afternoon. He told his assistants he felt that something would happen, and asked them to ground. The machine was shattered

Parry Sound, Ont., despatch: The veil which for the past ten days has surrounded the disappearance of Violet Smith, the young Toronto school teacher, who disappeared from her boarding house at Dillonsport on the 9th instant, has been at last lifted by the discovery of her body in the Shebashekong river to-day. Mr. Brock Batten, of Collingwood, who married a sister of the deceased girl, and who has been one of the most persistent searchers, had about given up in despair, and yesterday returned to Parry Sound.
