Sir,—You may remember, that on last Wednesday night, an alarm of fire was given, which but for the merciful interposition of Providence, must have ended in a dreadful conflagration. I beg to enquire, thro' your useful columns, who are the present Fire Wardens, and how have their duties been executed this season! have they exercised that strict vigilance which the law, I believe, imposes on them? or are they or some of them as is now commonly the case agentlemen holding more important offices or rather offices more lucrative in their nature, and who from motives best known to themselves, allow their names to fill the Staff of Fire Wardens, without further troubling themselves with the important duties connected with the office? If such is the case, the sooner they pay the penalties which they have incurred, and surrender their trust into the hands of humbler persons, more willing and quite as competent surrender their trust into the hands of humbler persons, more willing and quite as competent to perform the duties, the better for all parties. A few years ago, the duties were performed with a degree of efficiency commendable; of late however (in reference to the district in which I reside) there is to be noticed a culpable neglect of duty, but which at present I forbear to notice further.

HASZARD'S GAZETTE

Tempora mutantur, with a witness, when the officers of Government indulge freely at public meetings, and even on the floor of the Legislative Chambers, in language which in our younger days, would have caused the speaker to make a more speedy exit from both places, than was either agreeable or honorable. We had paused at giving insertion to the following for two reasons: first, from the desire of abstaining as much as possible, consistent with our duty to the public, from personal reflections on any member of the Government; and secondly, because the communication comes in the shape of an editorial. We are at all times happy to receive original communications, but the editorial column is supposed to emanate from ourselves, and as we are answerable for all that it contains, it must be reserved for the expression of our own sentiments. Mr. Moofrom ourselves, and as we are answerable for all that it contains, it must be reserved for the expression of our own sentiments. Mr. Mooney's speech in the House on Tuesday last, is of a nature so totally opposite to what ought to have fallen from the lips of one of the Administration, that we have no hesitation in giving place to the following criticism upon his conduct at the Mechanics' Institute. That any language, however gross, or conduct however improper, will have the effect of causing Mr. Mooney, or any other Member of the Administration, to resign his seat at the Council Board, is what we honestly confess we despair of. Were the will of the Lieut. Governor unfettered, and were he free to do as he conceived just and proper, either as respects his Sovereign or himself, language such as Mr. Mooney habitually indulges in, would not we believe, be tolerated, but such is not the case, and as Mr. Mooney's support is of too meen consequence to his colleagues to permitted to outrage the feelings of the well-disposed—in this case we trust the majority—with impunity.

"In the debate which followed the lecture delivered by Mr. Heath Haviland on the 30th ult., upon "Chivalry," we understand that the Honorable Mr. Mooney made use of expressions of so gross a nature, in reference to our gallant army in the Crimea, that we as public journalists, in justice to our readers, cannot pass over without making a few comments. That Mr. Mooney, in a public room, and at a public meeting, had a right to address the assembly ists, in justice to our readers, cannot pass over without making a few comments. That Mr. Mooney, in a public room, and at a public meeting, had a right to address the assembly in common with every other person there present, we freely admit, provided he confined himself to moderate language, using such expressions only as would not offend his hearers, but when, in the course of his speech, he designates our suffering but gallant countrymen in the east, as a set of midnight assassins! we think it is high time that such atrocious and insulting language should at once be stopped. To add to the insult offered by this person to the community at large, let it be remembered that the expressions used, came from the mouth of a member of the Executive, and a holder of office in an Island belonging to the Queen of England, to whom he has sworn allegiance and support. That the expressions were used there cannot be the slightest doubt, they can be proved by dozens who were present, amongst others, one of the sons of His Excellency the Lieutenant Governor, who we are told, was so disgusted at hearing such gross as apersions, that he immediately rose, and although a very young man, there and then told Mr. Mooney he would not quietly sit and hear such falsehoods spoken, without defending the brave men so cruelly slandered, and reproving the speaker. We believe so gross an insult publicly offered to the British army, and to the Lieutenant Governor had dispensed with his services in the Executive Council, over which His Excelshould not be astonished to hear that the Lieut. Governor had dispensed with his services in the Executive Council, over which His Excellency so ably presides. We have heard that Mr. Mooney excuses himself by stating that he only used the words as a joke, in order to prolong the discussion of the evening, but if there be a British subject who would tamely submit to the insult so very funnity offered by this very witty person, he is not worthy the name of Englishman."

Of the Tenants' Compensation Bill, we said enough on a previous occasion, when this Bill was before the Legislature. It will have one effect, and it is this: No Landlord for the future, will suffer the rent to be in arrear; unless paid up at once, be will distrain, while, a tenant has a sufficiency of stock, and so make sure of his rent. Harsh as such procedure may be, it will in the end, benefit the tenant, who, knowing that the rent must be paid, or his cattle sacrificed, will provide against such a contingency by the exertion of prudence and foresight. We do not know what the Census Bill is like, it is one, however, the passage of which through the Legislature should not be hurried. The Schedules should be ample and well digested. It is of the first importance, that the returns should be correct, and that they should comprise every species of statistical knowledge that can be now or hereafter useful. It is one of those measures to which both sides of the House should lend their aid, in order to have it as the prefect as possible.

Prince Edward Island.

Respectfully Sheweth,—
That in the last session of the Legislature, your Honorable House granted the sum of One Thousand Pounds for the importation of Three Horses from Girat Britain, but which grant, as your Petitioners believe, through some mistake or misuaderstanding, was rejected by the Legislative Council.

That the Farmers throughout the Island have, during the last summer, suffered much inconvenience alloss in consequence of the deficiency in the number of Stud Horses, and which inconvenience will be more severely felt during the coming summer, unless immediate measures are taken to import Horses, before the season, at which their services are required, commences.

Owing to the scarcity of paper we did not receive our usual winter stock of that material, before the season closed. We gave our orders for it early in October, but it was only last week that we heard of its being ready for shipment. Had we received our paper it was our intention to have issued three sheets the size of our present number each week; until our new stock arrives we will only print two, except on the arrival of an English Mail, when we will either issue a double sheet or an extra.
